

SILVER BULLY BOYS AND THEIR KEPT SLAVES!

Presented April 2014 by Charles Savoie

I want us and any interested neutral parties, to briefly examine the 2013 net incomes of a half dozen Silver Users Association companies and contrast these to the results of a half dozen leading primary silver miners (or companies whose main focus is in silver). The lineup selected for SUA interests could certainly be different except that some of them are privately held, and certain of them are rather furtive. We will have some remarks to make about the furtive aspects. The SUA top half dozen are likely not reflective of their largest income entities insofar as the bottom two below are concerned. This is however a rushed research piece before I leave for a climbing trip. To begin, here are reported net income figures for 2013 of a half dozen SUA member companies. Don't lose sight of the fact that the SUA insists it's a "nonprofit" group! Thinking these numbers over is suggestive of the Maasai tribe of Tanzania and Kenya. They use cattle they way our Native Americans once used buffalo or bison. Except, the tribe on the far continent jabs sharp objects into their cattle, and drinks the blood without killing the cattle. So we can say in a real comparative sense---the silver mining companies and their shareholders are the cattle in this situation. We are definitely being jabbed of our blood on a routine basis, as the kept slaves of the silver bully boys!

DuPont-----$5,925,000,000

Hecla Silver----- ($25,700,000)

Silvercorp-----$27,211,000

Total 2013 Net Losses----- ($783,686,000) Million

Hope I got the tallies right! I'm reminded of Charles Bronson's 1975 film "Hard Times" about the Great Depression years in the greater New Orleans area. He was a bare knuckle fighter with a manager called Speed. They went to have a contest in bayou territory with a slugger managed by a Mr. Pettibone. Bronson of course won the contest. But when he and Speed approached Mr. Pettibone to collect their just winnings, Pettibone folded the cash and placed it in his coat pocket. As Speed protested, a thug in Pettibone's employ pulled a gun and the smirking Pettibone told Speed with a chuckle---

"You want that money? Take it!"

As the cheated parties drove off, Mr. Pettibone said "That's how it's done" to his shady associates. In a real philosophical sense, the silver miners are struggling in this rigged contest while the Mr. Pettibones in London, New York, Washington and Chicago have rigged the contest. They control all relevant metals futures exchanges. They control the banking system. They own the Federal judges, all of them having been appointed by the President---with the President in the grasp of the Money Power. Since December 2004 I've waged a frequently lonely struggle to inform the community that the precious metals suppression is coming from the top down from one organization only, with a branch in London and a branch in Manhattan---The Pilgrims Society. I dream of the metals longs uniting to expose and embarrass this synthetic money phalanx. The situation is dismal, with only partial cooperation. Last fall before the annual Silver Summit I sent out an item, "Jonathan Frid Vomits On Silver" about metals price antagonist Jeffrey Christian. It was promptly denied coverage by several major sites who are among the "friends" of silver. In case anyone cares to ask---have I been served with lawsuit papers by Christian or CPM Group? You must be kidding! Two reasons why there is no such response---first, the truth is absolute defense against libel (printed word) and second, The Pilgrims Society, hiding in the dark, is most allergic to publicity, especially the kind I offer. If a voice such as Eric Sprott would take these matters up, the factions in the gold and silver long community who've denied coverage to The Pilgrims Society would finally have to cover it. And wouldn't that be just awful---doing what they should do in any case.

The Pilgrims Society, which I describe and document at great length (now 505 pages and climbing) at <http://silverstealers.net/tss.html> has been seizing silver, stealing silver, absorbing wealth, devastating silver mining companies, shoving silver and gold out of the money system, and feeding off mining shareholders carcasses since its founding in 1902–1903. Connivers and their fathers who were among the groups founders were collusively acting to injure silver decades before that. As I documented last January in “Who Controls The Gold Stealing New York Fed Bank” this group also founded the Federal Reserve and so quite predictably is very antagonistic against rising gold and silver prices

<http://www.silvermarketnews.com/articles/WhoControlsTheGoldStealing>

If we could neutralize the influence of this organization, we’d also be squelching the impact of other groups---Trilateral Commission, Bilderberg Conferences, Council on Foreign Relations, Rhodes Scholars et al, because the management reins of these better known globalist entities are held by members of The Pilgrims Society. That’s why it’s the last major globalist group to still as of 2014 refuse to issue any rosters into public view. Without making this into another long presentation which I’m known for (but what’s wrong with being thorough?) I will present several “exhibits” and wrap this up---

Notice this Pilgrims member was a director of the very large (especially at that time) silver user, Eastman Kodak Company. Grumman was also a silver user; notice he was also a director of the silver suppressing Morgan banking cartel! He was deeply involved with the World War II effort---as were many other Pilgrims members. This one's from page 646 of the same volume---

Lammot Du Pont Copeland was rated as one of the richest Americans in the 1950s by Fortune Magazine. Since then ratings of such types have become more concealed. In 1955 he cofounded the Population Crisis Committee with fellow Pilgrims member, Major General William Henry Draper Jr. The Du Ponts, internationally renowned as having the nickname “merchants of death” for their wartime explosives business, are in on the world depopulation plan of the British Royal family, sponsors of The Pilgrims Society. It isn't shown here, but Copeland was also a director of Chemical Bank, New York, so named because of his ancestral involvement with that Wall Street institution. Chemical Bank was among the entities uniting to form the present top silver price suppressor, JP Morgan Chase Bank. Notice his son in law James Biddle. This is a direct descendant of Nicholas Biddle, head of the second United States Bank---direct forerunner of the Federal Reserve System. In fact, Du Pont-Copeland's ancestor was the number two lead director of the second United States Bank, right after John Jacob Astor, who gave rise to another major Pilgrims Society dynasty. Lammot was the great, great grandson of Éleuthère Irénée du Pont de Nemours, founder of Du Pont and U.S. Bank director. This character was a member of the National Rifle Association, nominally because of being a gunpowder producer, but more likely, to be able to monitor goings on. The Du Ponts were for many years, the leading investors in General Motors---this wealth may have migrated elsewhere. The Du Ponts are among the mega-families feeding off the Federal Reserve System. Notice another fabled name above besides Du Pont, which looms very large in American history---Vanderbilt---which in fact, is rated by Wikipedia as the seventh wealthiest family in world history. The Cecil in the name comes from that of one of Britain's top noble ruling families tracing back well before Colonial times---not as well known here---the Cecils. Howard Cox became Tricia Nixon's father in law. Winthrop Murray Crane 3rd of Crane & Company, suppliers of currency paper for Federal Reserve Notes, was profiled in "The Paper Hangers" originally released at Silver Investor site in July 2006 <http://nosilvernationalization.org/61.pdf> George Champion was president of silver antagonist Chase Manhattan Bank. Howard L. Clark chaired American Express and was a trustee of the anti-silver U.S. Trust Company of New York. Robert H. Craft described himself in the 1974 Who's Who, page 672 as a "banker, industrial and railroad executive.” He was a director of several major railroads, and consultant to Chemical Bank and the Federal Reserve Board and a governor of the Wall Street Club as well as having been president of the Investment Bankers Association of America. Pharmaceutical exec Chapman was a director of American Broadcasting Companies, Bank of New York and others. Chamberlain at age 17–18 toured the U.S. with former President William Taft (Pilgrims) in 1919–1920 propagandizing the public to join the League of Nations (sponsored by The League To Enforce Peace, which gave rise to the League of Nations---more Pilgrims Society attempts at world government). Afterwards Chamberlain headed California for Herbert Hoover (Pilgrims) for President. At the tender age of 20 to 21, Chamberlain raised over $100 million to organize cotton cooperative marketing associations in the South (1922–1923), Who’s Who In America, 1974, page 532. Chamberlain became trustee of the Estate of Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain) as well as counsel to Sun Maid Raisin Growers and several other large agricultural interests.

Gardner Cowles chaired Cowles Communications and was a director of the New York Times. Such influences account for why the big media hates silver money and rising silver commodity prices. He was a trustee of Drake University, Teachers College of Columbia University and the University of Miami. He was a member of the anti–silver Economic Club of New York and a member of the Overseas Press Club and director of assorted large corporations including United Airlines. Norman Cousins was president of the World Association of World Federalists and director of the United Nations Association of the U.S. He was a member of the National Press Club and the Overseas Press Club and in addition to many other levers of influence, was editor of Saturday Review; chairman of National Educational TV; and chairman of the National Programming Council for Public Television (page 664, 1974 volume). Craigmyle of 110 Wall Street, had as of the 1974 leaked Pilgrims list, been a member of the New York Stock Exchange for 48 years, and was a member of the anti-silver Bankers Club in Manhattan.

This one didn't mention his Pilgrims membership in the Who's Who listing. However, page 11 of the 1969 Pilgrims list has his name---

Dewey, The Hon. Thomas E.
Dewey, Jr., Thomas E.
Diethelm, George E.
Dikeman, Jr., Edwin Jay
Dillon, Clarence
Dillon, The Hon. C Douglas
Dilworth, J. Richardson
Disston, Brig. Gen. Harry Doan, Leland Ira

Dewey Senior was Manhattan District Attorney and a three term New York governor and a trustee of Roosevelt Hospital. Diethelm represented the largest cane sugar refiner in the world, tracing to the Havemeyer family (Pilgrims). Diethelm married into the Standard Oil Whitney family (Pilgrims) in 1942. Clarence Dillon was “the brilliant financier of the 1920s” (Business Week Magazine) and father of Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon (1961–1965), who took the country off circulating silver coinage. His investment banking firm, Dillon, Read & Company, raised billions for Silver Users Association companies. Dilworth was top advisor to Nelson Rockefeller (Pilgrims), director of Chase Manhattan Bank, trustee of Rockefeller University, et cetera. I mention Dilworth as a Bonesman only to show that yes, I did not miss that detail, but do regard it is slight next to his Pilgrims membership, as Bones is only one of many tributaries flowing into this river. On exiting the military and in keeping with The Pilgrims inner and mid-circle taking care of outer circle members, Disston was made an executive of AT &T. It does no good to observe that I’m referencing Pilgrims members connected to Silver Users Association companies, two generations ago. I could have focused on the 1980 list, which is the last list we’ve found. Nothing has changed besides individual names; we wait for events to unfold to acquire a recent list, or to force release by Congressional subpoena. Page 2666 of the 1974 Who’s Who has this (Rush was in the leaked Pilgrims 1969 list) ---

PILGRIMS UNITED STATES

Union Carbide Corporation, responsible for the December 1984 chemical gas disaster in Bhopal, India, merged into Dow Chemical. Notice in addition to Diethelm, Rush was an Amstar Corporation (sugar refiner) director. Rush's son in law is with Credit Suisse Group. Few silver investors are aware that for a period of time in the 1960s, tons and tons of Swiss silver coins were shipped to the U.S. by way of Germany---for price suppression purposes. They were smelted into bullion most likely by Englehard and fed to other Silver Users Association members! Bankers Trust merged in 1998 with Deutsche Bank. John Cryan of the Warburg (Pilgrims) interests, currently on the DB supervisory board, appears to be the current Pilgrims Society member at DB. I can show other examples of Pilgrims members as directors/management of Silver Users Association interests. However you may find this at Silver Stealers (505 pages currently). The Silver Institute, which many investors somehow think is a positive type of organization---is, well, uhh--- you see---spookified! I presented this a few months ago from page 3312 of the 2005 Who's Who in America---

Executive director of the Silver Institute is still currently Michael DiRienzo. His info at Silver Institute site makes no mention of information found on him elsewhere---

If you click on “visit page” in Google images, you’re taken to <http://www.mypharmacy.mobi/personnel.htm> at which site you see this image above on him accompanied by this text I highlight in green for differentiation from my remarks (verbatim) ---

“Michael currently serves Of Counsel to The Da Vinci Group and has managed government relations and media relations for a variety of clients since 1999. Some of his clients include Goldman Sachs, J.P. Morgan Chase & Co, Morgan Stanley Dean Witter, Credit Suisse First Boston, Commerzbank International, Newmont Mining Company, Barrick Gold, AngloGold, and Placer Dome. Michael specializes in trade, banking/financial services, foreign policy and entertainment issues. On Capitol Hill, Michael served as Legislative Assistant and Press Secretary to the Chairman of the House Rules Committee, David Dreier (R-CA). During his tenure with the Chairman, Michael worked on the Banking Committee, Small Business and Rules Committee.

He has extensive experience with natural resource, banking and financial services, and environmental issues. Michael also has state, federal and national campaign experience. Michael served in the reelection campaign of President George H.W. Bush, President George W. Bush, and several federal and state campaigns. Michael's ability to understand the needs of clients from public policy to public relations is well documented.

Michael lives in the Northern Virginia area of the Washington Metropolitan region.”

If you Google search for The Da Vinci Group and find <http://www.davincigroup.org/> you'll see six individuals listed and yet DiRienzo isn't there---yet, the photo format is identical to that seen above. Is it that he was formerly (“of counsel”) with Da Vinci, or is it that he's currently with them, in a “quasi-underground” manner as a consultant? In other searches I have located only one person named Michael DiRienzo in the Washington D.C. metro area. This suggests that the DiRienzo at Silver Institute and the DiRienzo with, or ex of Da Vinci Group---is the same individual. This raises the question---why would it be thought necessary for DiRienzo to not mention his credentials, background or experience with Da Vinci? Is it because of being connected to both father and son

President Bush (Pilgrims Society and Pilgrims Society)? Is it because he's connected to JP Morgan Chase---the top silver price suppressor? It appears DiRienzo of the Silver Institute is just another Jeffrey Christian. Are any significant voices on the long side of silver being invited to speak at Silver Institute symposiums? The matter of several Silver Users Association members being corporate members of the Silver Institute over the years has not been any source of comfort to long investors. Currently I notice Tiffany & Company, Materion Corporation and several other SUA members on the Silver Institute roster. Many of you are aware which website I started out being involved with on a long term monthly basis in the year 2000. That site was listed in Silver Institute links the last I noticed. Today I see it has since been deleted as a link. They do however list another site which to my very great dismay, chose to shield Jeffrey Christian from my public report on him released last fall just before the annual Silver Summit. This is a site which previously posted several items from me which received public ratings of 4.7 out of 5! People! The criteria for having an article posted should be---is it factual? Does it ask reasonable questions on issues of concern? When the criteria for being refused posting is "it's too controversial and probes too deeply into sensitive areas or might stir a hornet's nest," I submit---this is a disservice to the investing public. There are no taboo or off limits areas! We are deserving to know any relevant information!

In closing, I ask the silver/gold investing public---to ask sites to stop censoring my free read presentations about the baneful influence of The Pilgrims Society, causing our investments to suffer. My only motive is public disclosure and awareness---don't you have a right to know? I can't be accused of money motive because no one ever paid a cent to read my documentaries. I am not remotely so resourceful as to be able to fabricate the information presented to you. To conclude, I mention about the Silver Users Association that one of their most interesting members is "global investment banking firm" Jeffries Bache, named for Pilgrims Society member Jules Semon Bache (1861-1944) ---

The 1934-1935 Who's Who in America, page 215 has this on Bache---

That's the same Placer Dome Gold Mines Bache was president of, that Michael DiRienzo of the Silver Institute has been a consultant to among other majors. Placer merged with Barrick Gold in 2006. http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Jules_Bache says at one time, only Merrill Lynch was bigger than Bache & Company; additionally that Bache became "an immensely wealthy man." He was a member of the religiously anti-silver Bankers Club in Manhattan. The January 28, 1943 New York Times, page 6, mentioned the annual meeting of The Pilgrims was held in the Bankers Club! Bache avoided U.S. taxation on his large Canadian interests which were held by an entity he set up in the Bahamas. Taxation is only something to hinder those not within the influence circles of The Pilgrims Society.

On March 26, 1980, Bache & Company at 100 Gold Street started selling Hunt owned silver to meet margin calls. John E. Leslie, Pilgrims Society and one-worlder who was vice chairman of the U.N. Association, chaired the policy committee of Bache at that time! John A. Roosevelt, Pilgrims Society, was a Bache exec also at the time---the son of gold and silver stealing Franklin Roosevelt! (Leslie, page 2003 and Roosevelt, page 2820 of the 1980 Who's Who in America). Tobie Roosevelt, widow of Franklin Roosevelt Jr., says she is "a member of The Pilgrims of the United States of America and The Pilgrims of Great Britain headed by the Queen of England" <https://www.northwood.edu/includes/dw>

Silver Users Association member Jeffries Bache lists 3,800 employees in 30 cities around the world and $40 billion in assets. Richard B. Handler, top exec at Jeffries Bache, comes across very much like a Pilgrims Society member with his position and connections. To summarize---Silver mining companies have been remorselessly exploited for generations by The Pilgrims Society, at times allowing some of them to be only just viable enough to hang on by their fingernails, dangling over the chasm of unrealistically shorted silver prices---tossing others like Sunshine Mining into the void of bankruptcy---while their valuable production has been devoured by industrial silver users who have consistently been extremely profitable, in tremendous contrast to the bled-white miners! I additionally suggest investors call, e-mail or write the Silver Institute protesting its silence over the still current, very longstanding, relentless price suppression. This will not change the SI. What's to be gained is helping it to become constipated as a retaliatory act on our part; and conveying to them we do know how they front for banking interests within The Pilgrims Society.

We are being caused an awful amount of pain by this secret society.

Please spread this presentation around. We need to retake our country and our former Constitutional money system of gold and silver from this Crown sponsored organization. Silver miners---gold miners also---should become so profitable as to be monetary agencies in their own right. The President and Congress must not be allowed to place any Federal price cap on precious metals, nor any windfall profits tax, nor impose any takeover of mineral properties to be consolidated by appeal to "national emergency" into a Federal Mining Agency. The State of Nevada is owned something like 86% by the Federal government. No States outside the West are under any such New York megabanker domination, hiding back of the Federal government! This too must be rescinded along with the precious metals price manipulation.
