“We don’t dare confront the implications. I think we all agree there was a conspiracy and we don’t want to know. It involves SUCH A POWERFUL HIGH FORCE IN WHAT WE CALL THE HIGH PLACES, IF WE DO KNOW, EVERYTHING MIGHT FALL APART.”

---Leonard Bernstein, globally prominent music conductor, about the Kennedy assassination; Associated Press, November 24, 1980.

Bernstein (1918–1990) was music director of the New York Philharmonic and president of the London Symphony Orchestra---both Pilgrims Society “cultural” interests. His allegation about “a powerful high force in the high places” was more than an educated guess because---under “Awards and Recognitions” at http://www.thefamouspeople.com/profiles/leonard–bern they list “Pilgrims Society.” Is it possible to receive an award from The Pilgrims Society, without actually being a member? Perhaps so; this hasn’t been 100% determined. However, my capable European colleague, Joel Van Der Reijden, for whom I have deep respect, says Bernstein was a member. He certainly would have had “outer circle” status and only been aware of the inner circle of the Society as containing the “powerful high force” he didn’t specifically identify. Here’s something in The Congressional Record, Volume 153, page 8245, March 28, 2007, mentioning The Pilgrims Society and John Brademas, a Pilgrims member and a former chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and Rockefeller Foundation trustee, and Bernstein both receiving the George Foster Peabody Award. George Foster Peabody (1852–1938, Pilgrims Society) was a large scale Wall Street financier who according to the New York Times, December 10, 1933, section 2, page 4, was a supporter of Franklin Roosevelt and his gold theft from the public; but additionally, Peabody also claimed as one of his alleged accolades that---

“HE HAD A PART IN DEFeating BIMETALLISM and reached the conclusion that it is absurd to depend on a metal not possible of expansion or contraction as a standard of value.”

George Foster Peabody, Pilgrims Society, and Franklin Roosevelt were friends; naturally their views agreed. Peabody was a partner in Spencer, Trask & Company, which played a leading role in financing electric lighting corporations and railroad construction in the West and in Mexico. Peabody held large interests in Edison Electric and became a director of General Electric and many other corporations including Mexican Metallurgical Company, Mexican Lead Company, Mexican Coke & Coal Company, Broadway Realty, and Southern Improvement Company. He was a director of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, 1914–1921. He was a trustee of the University of Georgia and treasurer of the Southern Education Board and a director of Rockefellers (Pilgrims Society) General Education Board.
During 1896–1905 he was treasurer of the Democratic National Committee.

With this as an intro to #8 Silver Squelchers, we now proceed to review 15 men from the 1969 New York and London Pilgrims Society rosters. These were the first rosters I obtained, and they came by way of a since defunct publisher in California, the '76 Press. The celebrated Gary Allen had seen these lists, sent to him by an unidentified party, and Allen had a chance to mention The Pilgrims in two of his books and at least two lower circulation magazine articles in 1970 (American Opinion). He wrote of it as the “Pilgrim Society,” a minor error, as they use plural. Before starting this list of 15 Pilgrims members and others associated with them, let’s be reminded that The Pilgrims Society is sponsored by the British Royal sovereign and the wealthy, world gouging family thereof---

Patron
HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN

Officers of The Pilgrims of Great Britain
I can’t buy into the folklore that the Jesuits, Vatican, Opus Dei, Knights of Malta (financial network), the Papacy—-runs the world. Well into medieval times that came closer to being true. They run important parts of Europe and the religious lives of a majority of people in the Western hemisphere. Certainly, they want to run the world and haven’t abandoned the idea. The Holy Roman Empire, which controlled most of Europe from around 800AD to 1806AD was indeed primarily Papal influence and made possible the Inquisition. Since the Supremacy Acts of 1534 and 1559 and the reign of King Henry VIII, Catholic power has been minimized in England, and with the defeat in 1588 of the Spanish armada and the “Britannia rules the waves” tradition that persisted for hundreds of years, England has been the transcendent world power until the end of the 19th century, especially with the founding in 1694 of the Bank of England and its eventual menacing tentacles of other central banks in dozens of heavily victimized countries, especially America. When the 19th century ended, the British realized that to continue with world influence it had to enlist the right Americans, which it did with The Pilgrims Society, and seized control over all our foreign relations. It thereupon immediately planned world wars and a major depression and implemented them. In fall 1945, the Anglo-Americans were firmly in control of the world; this has faded in recent times, which is a plus, and the healthy trend appears to have momentum. As far as the Queen or King owning all the land in the British Commonwealth, I have to see it as an overblown exaggeration—a technicality. However, the more rights we lose, the less private property is disrespected by government, the more likely it is to become true that a small elite will end up owning everything, especially after having reduced world population down to under one billion.
1) Sir Ivan Arthur Rice Stedeford (1897–1975, Pilgrims London 1969) became chairman and managing director of Tube Investments, “a huge company with interests worldwide” and was a governor of the BBC, British Broadcasting Corporation. He was also a director of Atlas Assurance; the Rank Organization; and the huge National Westminster Bank, which in 2000 merged into the Royal Bank of Scotland (119,000 employees; Pilgrims Society). In 1958 Stedeford took over British Aluminum with assistance from Sir Siegmund George Warburg of S.G. Warburg & Company (Pilgrims Society member). He was indeed of the same Warburg family as ominous Pilgrims Society member Paul Warburg of Federal Reserve fame, and his brother, the spooky Felix Moritz Warburg (Pilgrims Society), who we visited in January 2014 with appropriate shudders in “Who Controls The Gold Stealing New York Fed Bank?” The 1969 Pilgrims London roster showed Sir Siegmund’s son also a member---

Sir Siegmund Warburg, investment banker for Ivan Stedeford and the creator of the huge Eurobond market, was mentioned by Business Week Magazine in “A European Prefers Wall Street,” November 23, 1974, pages 92–93---he “COUNTS AMONG HIS FRIENDS SOME OF THE MOST POWERFUL MEN IN THE WORLD.”

Warburg was not a Jesuit nor a Knight of Malta---neither were his “powerful friends;” they were Crown activists in the globally preeminent Pilgrims Society!
NatWest Tower is London’s 7th tallest skyscraper---

Here’s info on Sir Ivan Stedeford from page 804 of the 1969 International Year Book & Statesmen’s Who’s Who (London) ---
He was like most of them—silent about his Pilgrims membership—

Yeah podnuh! I noticed the item about Witchcraft Hill!
The Rank Organization became the largest vertically integrated film company in England and branched out into radios, televisions and photocopy machines, as Rank Xerox.

2) Charles Allen Thomas (1900–1982, Pilgrims New York 1969 and other years) was head of what is now very likely the most despised and feared corporation in the world---MONSANTO! It’s often satirized as “Monsatan” by activists for its herbicides, pesticides, glyphosphates and genetically modified seeds. It was the manufacturer of the notorious Agent Orange. Want a side-splitter?
His pop was a Disciples of Christ minister! Maybe his ancestors were witch hunters! Here’s some info on him from page 834 of the 1969 International Year Book & Statesmen’s Who’s Who (London) ---

THOMAS, Charles Allen; American chemist and executive. B. 15 Feb. 1900; educ. Transylvania College (A.B., D.Sc.), Massachusetts Institute of Technology (M.S.); m. 1926, Margaret Stoddard Talbott; s. Charles Allen; dau. Margaret Talbott, Frances Carrick, Katharine Tudor; Research chemist, General Motors Research Corporation 1923-24; Ethyl Gasoline Corp. 1924-25; President, Thomas & Hochwalt Labs. 1926-36; Director, Central Research Dept., Monsanto Company 1936-45; Vice-President and Technical Director 1945, Exec. Vice-President 1947, President 1951, Chairman of Board 1960, of Finance Committees 1965-68. U.S. Medal for Merit, Industrial Research Institute Medal, American Institute of Chemists’ Gold Medal 1948, Perkin Medal 1953, Priestley Medal 1955; Hon. D.Sc., Washington University, Kenyon College, Princeton, Ohio Wesleyan, Brown University, Brooklyn Polytechnic, University of Alabama, St. Louis University, Simpson Coll. Hon. D. Eng., Univ. of Missouri. Hon. LL.D. Hobart Coll., Lehigh Univ., Westminster College. Address: 7701 Forsyth Boulevard, St. Louis 63105, Mo., U.S.A.

Thomas played a key role in the development of the atomic bomb in the Manhattan Project, a detail he omitted in his listing, along with not mentioning his Pilgrims membership. He was “in charge of the final purification and metallurgy of plutonium. He later served on a panel on controlling the awesome force of the atom bomb. The panel’s report issued in 1946, suggested that no one nation have control of the atom’s force but that it be harnessed for the benefit of mankind by an international body.” This was a plan by which the hidden conspirators of The Pilgrims Society attempted to concentrate this atomic control in the hands of U.N. bureaucrats they’d have as puppets. Another panel member was David Lillienthal, a Pilgrims Society fellow traveler who was SEC commissioner who screwed the public for members, as detailed in #5 Silver Squelchers. Thomas was chairman of the American Chemical Society. His brother in law, Harold E. Talbott, was Secretary of the Air Force (1953–1955). Thomas was a trustee of the Carnegie Corporation of New York, one of The Pilgrims Society’s top foundations; chairman of the trustees of Washington University; chairman of Washington University Medical Center; a member of the corporation of Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT); and a director of Chemstrand Corporation; Southwestern Bell Telephone; St. Louis Union Trust Company; Metropolitan Life Insurance; RAND Corporation; St. Louis research Council and others. His wife’s family had large interests in the Delco Electronics empire, acquired by General Motors.
As president, he vowed, he would strive to "let folks know when their food is genetically modified, because Americans have a right to know what they're buying."

After having placed former Monsanto VP Michael Taylor as head of the FDA, he signs into law HR 933, which protects companies like Monsanto from having to label their genetically modified food.
Monsanto—a PILL-GRAMS corporation!

Monsanto has caused 291,000 suicides in India!
“No food shall be grown that we don’t own!” ——protestors slogan about Monsanto.

We won’t turn this into a dissertation on Monsanto, but note that its influence has been almost overwhelming in Congress and the courts. Supreme Court justice Clarence Thomas, who has ruled in favor of Monsanto in every case against it that has come to the high court, was a Monsanto attorney for four years, and there is the Congressional “Monsanto Protection Act” which you can read about on Google. Hugh Grant, current chairman of Monsanto, comes from the United Kingdom and is certainly suspect of being in The Pilgrims Society, as are Robert J. Stevens of Lockheed Martin, lead director of Monsanto and Gregory H. Boyce of Peabody Energy and Marathon Oil. Succeeding Thomas as chairman of Monsanto was Edward Asbury O’Neal (Pilgrims New York 1969!) He also was a director of St. Louis Union Trust Company and a trustee of Washington University; and a director of a Monsanto subsidiary, Monsanto International Finance Company, which may have been related to mortgages on larger farms in various countries. O’Neal was a trustee of Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute and a director of the Foreign Policy Association, a Pilgrims Society front seeking to influence support for globalist objectives. His daughter Julia married into the Gould family—see #2 Silver Squelchers. O’Neal was born in Florence, Alabama, grandson of Edward Asbury O’Neal, Governor of Alabama (1882–1886). His uncle Emmitt was Alabama Governor also (1911–1915)---

Monsanto and other huge Pilgrims Society agribusiness giants are most of the reason that the old “Farm Bloc” in Congress faded away. The Farm Bloc had a strong alliance in the Senate especially with the so-called “Silver Bloc,” and they voted in sympathy with each other on matters of mutual concern---in this case, mostly beneficial to the country. Of course, to speak of a “Paper Money Bloc,” though it is stunningly real, would be judged by the media to be “dirty pool.” Revisiting the image containing biographical details on Thomas, notice he married a woman named Talbott (the Stoddard connection is also of interest, but less so). Spelling variations of names are often encountered, and it appears that Talbott is a variation of “Talbot.” Lord Milo John Reginald Talbot of Malahide, ambassador to Laos and Vietnam in the mid 1950s (Pilgrims London 1957 roster) was ancestral owner of a dynastic fortune from centuries of British colonialist exploitation and heir to this Irish castle, first built in 1185 and expanded in 1765---
Milo John Reginald Talbot had “a first class brain which he applied with ruthless practicality to any subject that appealed to him”

Lord Talbot of Malahide descended from French Norman nobility who invaded England with William the Conqueror in 1066 AD---more of the same ancient connections we’ve seen multiple times. In 1171 AD Sir Richard De Talbot was with the invasion force that took over Ireland and was rewarded by King Henry II with large land grants, upon which the castle was built. In his lineage were aristocrats and nobles including members of Parliament, a British admiral, a diplomat with “highly sensitive and covert activities in France and Switzerland,” and prominent bankers (Provincial Bank of Ireland, Munster & Leinster Bank, Royal Bank of Ireland; today combined in Allied Irish Banks) starting in the early 1800s, one of whom owned 540,443 acres in Canada near Lake Erie and large landowners in British Tasmania and members of various pretentious British orders. Lord M.J.R. Talbot of Malahide, Pilgrims Society, of an ancient lineage apparently connected to a Monsanto chairman---

Parliamentary proceedings in a document from the year 1857 showed Lord Talbot of Malahide, the Duke of Somerset, the Marquess of Salisbury and the Earl of Derby discussing the opium business (payment received only in hard silver) and agreeing that it was “OK,” provided only that (page 39) “opium would not be sold by any persons under any circumstances not possessing the requisite qualification.” Well la---dee---da! The requisite qualification for pushing poison and collecting silver for it would be none other than that the chartered opium peddlers were underlings to these Worthy Gentleman---ancestors of members of The Pilgrims Society, which so tragically for world civilization, HATCHED in 1902! Isaiah 59:5---

“They hatch cockatrice’s eggs, and weave the spider’s web; he that eateth of their eggs dieth, and that which is crushed breaketh out into a viper.”
Was Charles Allen Thomas related by marriage to this line of Pilgrims Society members in the United Kingdom? Most likely---yes; that would account for one of his daughters being named Frances CARRICK and the other being named Katherine TUDOR, as the Talbots were closely allied with the royal Tudor dynasty in England (1485–1603) under which English control over the British Isles was finalized by the repudiation of Papal influence. The Earl of Carrick was in the 1949 Pilgrims London roster and his lineage ALSO traced directly to the Norman invasion of Ireland in 1171 AD! They controlled (“patrimony”) over 2,500 square miles of Irish territory! Naturally they owned multiple castles. To understate---these genealogies are staggering!

Philips Talbot (Pilgrims 1974 and 1980) was ambassador to Greece (1965–1969) and a Rockefeller associate who chaired the Asia Foundation and was a trustee of the China Medical Board, Institute for Current World Affairs, Aspen Institute and the Middle East Institute (Who’s Who in America, 1980–1981, page 3244).
3) David Allan Shepard (1903–1983; Pilgrims 1969 and other years) was chairman of the RAND Corporation, part of the military industrial warmongering complex, the technocratic elite, and has many other hopelessly perverse attributes. He fits in as #3 since Charles Allen Thomas of Monsanto was at that time, a RAND Corporation trustee. Shepard was with Standard Oil Company of New Jersey (later Exxon and Exxon Mobil) from 1927 to 1966, after which he was appointed chairman of the RAND Corporation. He was a RAND trustee starting in 1959. He was a trustee of American University in Beirut, Lebanon and the American Museum of Natural History in New York. The 1966–1967 Who’s Who in America, page 1933, shows he was a director of Standard Oil of New Jersey starting in 1951 and on the executive committee as of 1959—and he was a director of Merck & Company, one of the largest—and most destructive—of the Big Pharma enterprises. As of 2013, Merck had 71,000 employees, revenues of $44 billion and net income of around $7 billion. It produces the “Merck Manuals” about the so-called treatment of (alleged) mental “illness.” The Inquisitors and the witch finders would be wide eyed with amazement to behold the superstructure of fraud and deception woven by the modern mental “health” movement, which very clearly is their successor at persecution of individualists and dissidents. Merck is a big target for richly deserved lawsuits and unfortunately, the toxic giant always earns far more than it pays out. Merck manufactures vaccines, boundlessly questionable psychiatric “medications,” and risky drugs purporting to help various medical conditions.

RAND stands for Research And Development. Head office is in Santa Monica, California. It has 1,700 employees and as of 2011, $253 million annual revenue. It has 8 branch offices including in Belgium, Australia, and England.

Among current RAND trustees, I can identify Philip Lader as a member—Chairman, The WPP Group; Senior Advisor, Morgan Stanley International; Partner, Nelson, Mullens, Riley & Scarborough; Former U.S. Ambassador to England—WPP is the world’s largest advertising agency—RAND trustee, conniving Pilgrims Society member Lader, with his insolent, supercilious, snickering expression like he just filled a gross of olive jars with serfs eyeballs—and “advises” silver suppressor, Morgan Stanley and is a founding member of Rothermere American Institute (named after a billionaire Pilgrims Society member from England); the 2005 Who’s Who in America, page 2639, showed Lader a director of Marathon Oil and colossal electric utility AES Corporation (now reporting 27,000 employees in 20 countries with over ten million customers and has as its slogan “The power of being global”); assistant to the U.S.
President (1993–1994); trustee of Foundation for the 21st Century, British–American Business Council, Windsor Leadership Trust and the British Museum; advisor to Prince of Wales Foundation; member of the council of Lloyd’s of London; former chairman of the board of visitors of the Sanford Institute of Public Policy at Duke University; candidate for governor of South Carolina (1986); president, Business Executives for National Security (1990–1991) and so forth—

Where’s your olive wreath, you strutting egomaniac?

He’s right in there with the Windsors (the Royal family, sponsors of The Pilgrims Society!)
Here we read the RAND Corporation constitutes---

“...a plot driven by mad scientists, behaviorists, and generals who were intent on starting world war three and fleecing the American people in the process. Once he was a skeptic on the subject of conspiracy theories and the new world order, but after his work with the RAND Corporation he is now convinced that this top secret think tank has been pulling the strings of American government for at least 60 years.”
That link in turn leads to a site run by Alex Jones. Alex Jones refuses to touch or allow any mention of The Pilgrims Society. Ask him why! These two sites show the basic lack of comprehension thinking that RAND “has been pulling the strings of American government for at least 60 years,” when RAND itself, like Monsanto, JP Morgan Chase, Goldman Sachs, the Federal Reserve et al, are all mere tentacles of the single controlling entity back of all of these fronts—-The Pilgrims Society! In fact, an advertising rep with Alex Jones refused to sell me any advertising space, sidestepping my inquiry with insincere rhetoric. This site also commits the same serious error, calling RAND, “The Think Tank That Controls America.” Absolutely not—-they attribute to RAND what The Pilgrims Society does through RAND and many other instrumentalities!

4) Robert Livingston Clarkson (1892–? Pilgrims 1969 and other years) he wasn’t in the 1974 roster, at which time he would have been 82. This one was like a big river with lots of big tributaries, genealogically speaking. Here’s his info from page 181 of the International Yearbook & Statesmen’s Who’s Who (London, 1969) ---
The Livingston family founded American Express and are related by marriage to the even wealthier Van Rensselaers (Pilgrims Society).
His address, 110 Wall Street, typified everything about him. His lineage was incredible! Livingstons, Bayards, Delafields, Schuylers—-all old-line big rich families tracing to colonial times, with large land based fortunes, with all besides the Delafields having big colonial land grants before the Revolutionary War. The Delafields appear to have the most ancient lineage of the lot, however, tracing to French nobility over 1,200 years past; refer to #3 Silver Squelchers, see pages 44–52 for the Delafield dynasty. Pilgrims lists across the years show Livingstons, Bayards, Delafields and Schuylers, and often under maternal lineage or by marriage. American Express has been infested with Pilgrims Society members on its board, and other chairmen who were verified as Pilgrims include director of large corporations, Howard Longstreth Clark (also controlled Columbia Presbyterian Hospital) and James D. Robinson III. Clarkson was another in the progression of Pilgrims members who were directors of National Distillers & Chemical and notice an educational entity named for his family, Clarkson College of Technology. Clarkson also was into the Big Hospital sector, and was a media overlord massaging public thinking in 20th Century Fox Film Corporation. Wreck peoples livers with booze, then treat them in hospitals you control—-\textbf{typical Pilgrims Society buckraking scheme}. Other boards that Clarkson was on over the years include United Light & Power Company; American Light & Traction; American Sumatra Tobacco; Goodyear Tire & Rubber; General Precision Equipment; National Aviation; Underwood Corporation; Continental Gas & Electric; Lehigh Coal & Navigation; Consolidated Oil; United Light & Railways; Lehigh & Northeast Railroad; General Theaters; American Steel Export; Sinclair Oil; and Wells Fargo.

5) George Arnold Reeve Hart (1913–? Pilgrims 1957 and other years), Order of the British Empire, became \textbf{one of the top bankers in Canada}. Today the Bank of Montreal \textbf{reports} assets of $587 billion and 47,000 employees. Certain key Canadians are members of The Pilgrims New York branch, or the London branch, and quite a few of the London Pilgrims are on the boards of major Canadian banks, industrials, utilities, insurance companies, and university and foundation trustees. Here’s Hart’s info from the 1969 International Year Book & Statesmen’s Who’s Who, page 390---

HART, George Arnold Reeve, M.B.E., LL.D., D.C.L., D.C.Sc. Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer, Bank of Montreal. Director: (to conserve space the term ‘Ltd.’ has been ignored): Canadian Pacific Railway Co. (Member, Finance Committee), Cominco, Consolidated Bathurst. (Member, Executive Committee), Steel Co. of Canada, Canadian Canners, Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada. Canadian Board of Royal London & Lancashire Insurance Cos., Western British America Assurance Cos. Group, Bank of London & Montreal, Canadian Investment Fund, Canadian Fund Inc., International Nickel Co. of Canada, Uniroyal Inc., United Aircraft of Canada. B, 1913;

Cominco, the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company of Canada, in 2001 merged with Teck Corporation, a large mining company today with over 11,000 employees. Consolidated Bathurst was a timber and paper supplier and power generating utility. International Nickel Company of Canada appears to be one of the major corporations that at all times has one or more Pilgrims Society members on its board. As of this time (1969) the chairman of INCO was Henry S. Wingate (Pilgrims Society) ---who was also a director of this Bank of Montreal that George Arnold Reeve Hart was chairman of. Wingate was on another board with Hart, Canadian Pacific Railway; and Wingate was a director of American Standard; U.S. Steel and Morgan Guaranty Trust Company. Were the Steel Company of Canada, of which Hart was a director of at that time, and U.S. Steel, of which Wingate was a director---in competition, especially with Hart and Wingate both directors of a major Canadian bank? Hart was a Uniroyal (tires) director, and at that time, chairman of Uniroyal was George Raymond Vila (Pilgrims Society) who was a director of Chemical Bank and the National Agricultural Chemical Association. Hart was a director of Canadian Fund and Canadian Investment Fund (both of 1 Wall Street), of which Hugh Bullock (president of The Pilgrims New York at that time) was the CEO.
The Who’s Who in America, 1966–1967, page 903, had Hart as a director of other enterprises including Royal Globe Insurance Companies; Western British American Assurance Companies; Ogilvie Grain Company; Glenora Securities; Seaforth Milling; Royal Victoria Hospital. The 1970–1971 volume, page 968, had Hart as a director of Commandant Properties and the Duke of Edinburgh’s Award in Canada. His second marriage, I cannot resist pointing out, was to a woman named Patricia Plant.

Hart was a governor of three universities (here we usually call them trustees or regents) and was into Big Medicine via oncology and cardiology. At the Empire Club of Canada in 1958, Hart made a speech in which he used the phrase “Atlantic Community,” code language for British domination over Canada and the United States. The city of Montreal and the Province of Quebec are the French ethnic strongholds of Canada. Many residents usually refuse to speak English. My paternal grandparents came from French Quebec. So it appears a bit odd that someone without French ancestry would have been at the helm of Canada’s oldest bank, in a territory that is steadfastly French in heritage, tracing back to colonial times---but that’s the wiles of Anglo influence at work---penetrate and control everything. Hart validated the Canadian central bank with this blather---

“The Bank of Canada has done much towards taming business gyrations by exerting restraint when restraint was called for and subsequently, in the light of changed business conditions in recent months, by permitting a significant degree of monetary ease.”

Central banks are not about “taming business gyrations;” more like about causing them, so that ordinary investors can be scientifically fleeced by whipsawing!
He also reconfirmed his stance as a globalist---
“…the economic integration of Europe that took a step forward this month with the formal inception of the plans for a common market.”

Lastly, Hart said this---
“You may remember that the Paley Report of 1952 which forecast the enormous needs of the United States for imported materials, especially metals, was published at a time when many of these materials were in ample supply, and its predictions were decried in some quarters. But in the succeeding five years its conclusions were more than vindicated, and I feel sure they will be again.”

The Paley Commission was run by William S. Paley, chairman of Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS; Paley, Pilgrims 1957 and other years) and here’s a short description---
“In 1951, U.S. President Harry S. Truman asked William S. Paley, the chairman of the board of Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS), to form a Materials Policy Commission to study the country's natural resource needs. The report, Resources for Freedom: Foundations for Growth and Security, recommended the formation of an independent organization to analyze the supply of the country’s natural resources.”

In 1952, Resources for the Future was founded because of the Paley Commission. Its current trustee board includes typical Pilgrims Society names---Warburg, Du Pont, Duke and Roosevelt. Also in the 1969 Pilgrims New York roster we notice Gordon Vincent Adams, a close associate with George Arnold Reeve Hart at the Bank of Montreal, running its trust division---page 6, International Year Book & Statesmen’s Who’s Who 1969---
Adams was “Chief Agent” of the American Bankers Association, which in its Banking, April 1965, page 117, said---

“Silver hoarding would have to be outlawed.”

PILL-GRAMS members want you on damaging Rx “medications” (pills) and they don’t want you owning any grams of silver (or gold)!

6) Lord Carrington (1919---) Pilgrims Society London 1969 and other years; became president of The Pilgrims of Great Britain in 1983–2002; Peter Alexander Rupert Carrington; Baron Carrington of Upton, member of the House of Lords and the Crown’s Privy Council; Order of the Garter (1348; chancellor, 1994–2012); Order of St. Michael and St. George (1818; chancellor, 1984–1994) has been one of the most important globalists for several decades; not an inner circle member, but would know exactly who they are; Secretary General of NATO, North Atlantic Treaty Organization (1984–1988); former chancellor of the University of Reading; former chairman of Christie’s international jewelry and fine arts auction house; former director of the Daily Telegraph newspaper; chaired Bilderberg meetings, late 1990s; Secretary of State for Defence (1970–1974); Secretary of State for Energy (1974); Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs (1979–1982). Here’s info on him from page 157 of the International Year Book & Statesmen’s Who’s Who 1969---

Carrington had several years as a director of the old line Hambros Bank, of which Hugh Waldorf Astor (Pilgrims London) was also a director, and of far greater personal financial standing than Carrington, whose influence, power and wealth was of a delegated nature. Hambros Bank founded in 1839, specialized in finance between England and the Scandinavian countries. Also see Carrington as a director of Barclays Bank, a major global silver suppressor and infested with Pilgrims Society members. Starting in 1982, Lord Carrington was a director of Kissinger Associates, along with Pilgrims Society member William E. Simon who, with Pilgrims Society member Paul Volcker, co-crushed the Hunt–Arab silver play in 1980; and Lord Roll of Ipsden, an associate of the Warburg family, who was on the steering committee of The Pilgrims subsidiary known as Bilderberg. If you missed it along the way, I know I have pointed out that Kissinger was in The Pilgrims 1974 roster and was likely a member by 1973 at the latest. There are so many strands of interconnected influence across the Atlantic, which the public knows nothing about, that have allowed America to be dragged along with English dreams of a Neo-British Empire. I think the only way that could be achieved now is if Russia and China could be played off against each other in warfare, and if the USA, UK and Europe stayed out of it. The clock, I believe, is ticking down on the baneful world behind the scenes influence of The Pilgrims Society, and I am delighted to do anything I can to make more people aware of these Pilgrims Society termites who have been assiduously gnawing away at their future. Carrington with Reagan (who got his start through General Electric Theater) ---both members, with Carrington closer to the inner circle (he didn’t get shot) ---
7) John Kenneth Jamieson (1910–? Pilgrims New York 1969 and other years) became chairman of Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. In 1972 it changed its name to Exxon Corporation and in 1999 it became Exxon Mobil, the world’s largest publicly traded oil and gas company. Succeeding Jamieson was Clifton C. Garvin Jr. as chairman of Exxon (1975–1986); Garvin, Pilgrims Society 1974 roster—
Gardner, The Hon. John W., M.F.,
Gardner, Richard N.
Garvin, Jr., C.C.
Gates, The Hon. Artemus L.
Gates, The Hon. Thomas S.
Gaylord, Brig. Gen. Bradley,
USAF (Ret.), D.S.C.

Jamieson was another International Nickel Company (INCO) director, and a director of the silver suppressing, gold antagonistic Chase Manhattan Bank; of Equitable Life Assurance Society, and the American Petroleum Institute. I thought it noteworthy that Jamieson resided on a street named after Harry Harkness Flagler, who is #7 in the descriptions in #3 Silver Squelchers; Flagler was a top Rockefeller associate in Standard Oil. Here’s a “mug shot” of shady Pilgrims Society member Garvin who, like Jamieson and most Pilgrims Society members, omits mention of the group in Who’s Who volumes---

Garvin was a director of Citicorp (now Citigroup) and a trustee of the Sloan Kettering Memorial Cancer Research Center, which bitterly opposes use of non-pharmaceutical substances for health conditions.
A quick run-down of the names in the excerpt with Garvin---John Gardner was Secretary of the department of Health, Education and Welfare in the LBJ (Pilgrims Society) cabinet. Gardner was with the Carnegie Corporation of New York and the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. He was a Rockefeller Brothers Fund trustee and founded Common Cause, a mass membership group acting as controlled opposition against Wall Street and big government; it’s currently headed by a Rhodes Scholar. Gardner was a trustee of Stanford University and a director of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences; he was a degreed psychologist who feloniously wrote the 1961 garbage book “Excellence” on the back cover of which he subversively asks “Can we be equal and excellent too?” He was a trustee (1949–1955) of the New York School for Social Work; recall that Pilgrims member Walter S. Gifford, profiled in #7 Silver Squelchers, was also a trustee of that infinitely subversive institution---now we see a wave of government sponsored social workers seizing children from parents as “all lives belong to The Crown!” Gardner was a fellow of the American Psychological Association (“mental health” = social control) and was a trustee of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation.

Richard N. Gardner was a Rhodes Scholar before he became a Pilgrim (most RS don’t ascend that high) and he was ambassador to Spain and Italy. Kennedy gave Gardner a State Department post, and LBJ made him adviser to the U.N. ambassador. He became a Trilateralist in 1974 and in 1975 was with the U.N. Committee of Experts on Economic Restructuring (another giant scale Pilgrims Society loot and plunder scheme). He was on the U.S. Advisory Committee on the Law of the Sea (seafloor mineral resources must be seized by The Society!) He was a director of the United Nations Association and of the Foreign Policy Association, and was a member of the profoundly anti-monetary silver Royal Economic Society. He authored several lousy globalist books—“Dollar Sterling Diplomacy” (1956); New Directions in U.S. Foreign Economic Policy (1959); “In Pursuit of World Order” (1964, calling for world government); and “The Global Partnership—International Agencies and Economic Development” (1968). He was a CFR member, The Pilgrims primary subsidiary and had an office at Columbia University Law School.

Artemus Gates heritage included a fortune of large proportions in timber, lumber, and shingle manufacturing. He was undersecretary of the Navy and assistant Secretary of the Navy in WW 2. He was a director of Boeing; Union Pacific; Time; Middle South Utilities; Safeway; Mutual Life Insurance; Servo Corporation; Abercrombie & Fitch and president of New York Trust Company. He was brother in law of Pilgrims Society member F. Trubee Davison, who was director of personnel in the Central Intelligence Agency and was a Wall Street trust attorney. Brigadier General Bradley Gaylord was made chairman of Madison Fund. This item on John Kenneth Jamieson and his successor at Exxon, Garvin, shows why The Pilgrims organization has top brass—U.S. military power to defend overseas holdings of these planetary gougers, and to direct wars they scheme years in advance! Before Jamieson took the helm of Standard Oil of New Jersey—Michael L. Haider (Pilgrims Society) was his forerunner, a director of First National City Bank who was a founder of the National Academy of Engineering and chairman of the American Petroleum Institute.
8) Army General Maxwell Davenport Taylor (1901–1987, Pilgrims 1969 roster and other years), Order of the British Empire, was appointed by President Kennedy to be chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. He was Army Chief of Staff, 1955–1959 and president of the President’s Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board, 1965–1969. Taylor was the first to recommend that American troops be sent to Vietnam (8,000), and JFK was opposed to sending our soldiers there—-that too could easily add to the motive for The Pilgrims Society to arrange for JFK to be rubbed out, as the Vietnam engagement was fantastically enriching to the military-industrial complex, which is a 100% Pilgrims Society managed creature.

President Johnson (mega-scumbag, Austin radio station monopolist and anti-silver activist) made Taylor ambassador to South Vietnam in 1964, and Taylor has been accused of “intentionally misrepresenting the views of the Joint Chiefs to Secretary of Defense McNamara,” though I don’t see why that would have been necessary, seeing as how our top brass are under direct and indirect Pilgrims Society control. McNamara turned up in The Pilgrims 1974 list, and may have been a member by 1970; probably because he was president of the World Bank, 1968–1981. It’s generally known that McNamara was invited to Bilderberg; you hear nary a peep about his Pilgrims Society activities, probably because of the excessive difficulty in obtaining rosters of the Worthy Gentlemen. Henry Cabot Lodge, of old-line hereditary wealth, was ambassador to South Vietnam before Taylor; Lodge was in The Pilgrims 1974 roster. Cabot Corporation, specialty chemicals and probably a silver user, is a $3.5 billion annual enterprise. Here’s Maxwell Taylor’s info from page 3205 of the 1978–1979 Who’s Who in America—-
General Taylor was a member of the Army Navy Club in DC, site of annual Silver Users Association meetings!

It’s located at Farragut Square in D.C., where they meet to cheat mining company shareholders--- Naturally, they also conspire to block reintroduction of silver as money!

How cozy! Top military brass and Defense Secretaries are members of this almost completely unknown Pilgrims Society; other members are directors of Silver Users Association companies; and all this monumental collusion is kept in the dark! Naturally they hold Silver Users Association meetings where Top Brass congregate!
The Pilgrims inner circle members installed Taylor as chairman of Mexican Light & Power Company for two years. The April 10, 1904 New York Times mentioned this as a Canadian based company, and that at that time it was involved in Puebla state, Mexico, building “a great water power and electric transmission plant.” It had “U.S., British and Canadian owners.” The fuzzy image shows this holding company had no less than 15 subsidiaries across Mexico—
Charles Allen Thomas—we visited already. Lowell Thomas “best known as the man who made Lawrence of Arabia famous” was involved in Anglo-American propaganda efforts during World War I to make U.S. participation in the war more appealing to the public. The Wiki account of him states—–
“A relentless self-promoter, Thomas persuaded railroads to give him free passage in exchange for articles extolling rail travel. When he visited Alaska, he hit upon the novel idea of the travelogue, movies about faraway places. When the United States entered World War I, he was part of an official party sent by President Wilson, former president of Princeton, to "compile a history of the conflict." In reality the mission was not academic. The war was not popular in the United States, and Thomas was sent to find material that would encourage the American people to support it. Thomas did not want to merely write about the war, he wanted to film it. He estimated that $75,000 would be needed for filming, which the U.S. government thought too expensive, and so he turned to a group of 18 Chicago meat packers. (He had done them a favor by exposing someone who was blackmailing them, without the damaging material becoming public.)”

William T. Taylor was chairman of ACF Industries and a director of Bankers Trust New York; Pitney-Bowes; General Time Corporation; Fairfield County Connecticut Trust Company; Allied Stores; Adams Express; American International Corporation; Collins & Aikman; former vice president of Morgan Guaranty Trust and former

Walter Nelson Thayer was another director of Bankers Trust and also of Corinthian Broadcasting; Parade Publications and National Dairy Products. He was president of Whitney Communications and was a partner in Whitcom Investments and president of the New York Herald Tribune. He was with the Lend–Lease Administration in 1941–1942 and was a close associate of John Hay Whitney, descended from not one but from two Presidential cabinet members, a Secretary of the Navy and a Secretary of State and was among the wealthiest Pilgrims Society members of his time with wealth inherited from oil, street railways, banking, tobacco and real estate. The New York Times said Whitney was “master of one of the great American fortunes and a pace-setting leader in a kaleidoscope of fields.” He married a Roosevelt of the family whose central figure stole gold and silver on a large scale from Americans by Executive Order in 1933–1934.

9) Arthur Hays Sulzberger (1891–1968, Pilgrims 1969 roster in the 1968–1969 necrology and released to members only), was publisher

Here’s his info from The International Year Book & Statesmen’s Who’s Who, page 819--- Notice the Sulzberger and Ochs families were connected by marriage, and both names turned up in Pilgrims Society rosters. He was a member of the Economic Club of New York, which has always trashed silver as money.

In "More Sense About Silver" on December 24, 1942, page 14, the New York Times referred to silver as being "a metal of declining monetary usefulness." At that time the publisher of the great newspaper was Arthur Hays Sulzberger, Pilgrims Society, who also had hydroelectric power interests and was a Rockefeller Foundation trustee from 1939 to 1957---

Bring up taboo topics,
I get that deer in the headlights look;
Some call me an editor,
What I am really is a crook!

While the great newspaper is a prime source of information on silver history, its editorial slant has been oriented against silver for well over a century; three examples will suffice---The New York Times, January 23, 1878, page 4, called silver coins a “drug” and the silver trade dollars (1873–1885) a “nuisance.”

Definitely, before The Pilgrims Society came into existence in January 1903 in New York, the equivalent of it existed on an informal basis for generations with those who founded the group in 1903 were the descendants of sinister interests from way back---primarily British collaborators.

10) Gordon Richardson, Baron Richardson of Duntisbourne (1915–2010, Pilgrims London 1969 and other years), Order of the Garter, Order of the British Empire, was a governor of the Bank of England (1973–1983) first, during the time that Pilgrims Society member William E. Simon bombed gold down from $200 to $105 as Treasury
Secretary (1974–1977) while Pilgrims Society member Walter Bigelow Wriston, chairman of Citicorp (now Citigroup) was crowing that gold was going to retreat back to $35 the ounce; and secondly, Richardson was running the BOE while the Hunt/Arab silver play was being crushed just after mid-January 1980! He played a major role, along with Pilgrims Society member Paul Volcker at the Federal Reserve, and Pilgrims Society member William E. Simon, by that time a COMEX governor, were all crushing precious metals to strengthen the world’s twin central banks in London and Washington! Here’s Richardson’s info from page 713 of the International Year Book & Statesmen’s Who’s Who (1969) ---

Gordon Richardson, Pilgrims Society member without a British imperialistic pith helmet but with a tea and crumpets face, gold and silver price antagonist---

Richardson was made a member of the Privy Council to the British Sovereign in 1976; starting in 1974, he was on the Morgan Stanley international advisory board. From 1985 to 1991 he was a member of the Group of Thirty (central banks organized by The Pilgrims Society for gold and silver price suppression) and thereafter was honorary chairman. He was chairman of the Pilgrim Trust (1984–1989) which was founded and funded in 1930 by Pilgrims Society member Edward Harkness, heir to the second largest bloc in Standard Oil Company. Richardson was deeply involved with the Schroder global banking empire; several other Pilgrims Society members from the 1969 roster were identified with the Schroder group---Edmund Bartlett, Gerald F. Beal and John I. Howell in New York, and Baron Bruno L. Schroder in London. Beal was a director of Schroder Rockefeller & Company; American Home Assurance; Francisco Sugar Company; Manati Sugar Company; Grange Trust. To that you can add Avery Rockefeller Jr., who was part of Schroder-Rockefeller & Company. Howell was a director of Schroder Rockefeller; Dominick Fund; and United California Bank. Schroder’s today manages over $400 billion in assets. The wealth of these types is chronically underestimated by design---

"SOMETIMES KINDLY LOOKING GENTLEMEN ARE DANGEROUS!"

PILGRIMS SOCIETY!

BRUNO SCHRODER
$5.6 billion

This Pilgrims Society member owns Dunlossit Castle and 16,500 acres on the Isle of Islay in Scotland---
After Martin left the Federal Reserve, he became a director of toxic pharmaceutical giant Eli Lilly & Company; so he really was a "PILL-GRAM," pushing harsh drugs when what people need is NUTRIENTS, and while he was at the FED, stealing grams of gold and silver from Americans! Illustration from May 20, 2014 at Alliance for Natural Health http://www.anh-usa.org/fda-asked-big-pharma-to-self-police-on-dangerous-chemicals/ ---

Martin was a pusher of risky pills and a thief of untold grams of precious metals; he once said he’d defend the $35 per ounce gold price "DOWN TO THE LAST INGOT" --- Here’s his info, minus his Pilgrims Society membership, from page 2038 of the 1976–1977 Who’s Who in America, so we can see what he progressed into after running the Federal Reserve for almost 20 years as a monetary hit man for the inner circle of The Pilgrims Society---

"It is unnecessary to utilize silver as part of the U.S. monetary system."--- Martin quoted on page 469, Federal Reserve Bulletin, April 1963.
We’ve noticed that Pilgrims Society members are American Express directors on a frequent basis; also IBM and others. Notice his foreign board membership in the huge Royal Dutch Shell—long known as a key Rothschild holding. Not only was Martin involved with the World War II effort, but with the Soviets afterwards in an official White House post—

A professional liar like Martin would have to be a member of the “Alibi” Club!

12) Elmer Holmes Bobst (1884–1978, Pilgrims 1969, 1974 and other years) was a Big Pharma kingpin—head of Warner Lambert Pharmaceutical Company. Wiki has this on Bobst—

“In 1928, Hoffman-LaRoche became Roche-Nutley, and when Bobst retired from there in 1944, he was one of the nation's highest paid corporate executives. In 1945 he took charge of the ailing William Warner Company (later Warner-Lambert) and he remained board chairman.

Bobst had close connections to President Dwight Eisenhower (like Pilgrims Society member Floyd Odlum, whom we shall visit later), but was also a close friend of President Richard Nixon, helping guide his career and contributing generously to their campaigns. The Nixons joined Bobst and his 2 granddaughters Anne and Stephanie, for many visits to Spring Lake, NJ. In 1968, Bobst became a White House advisor on health issues. Philanthropic pursuits were also of tremendous importance, particularly cancer research and education.”

In fact, Bobst is remembered as a “mentor” of President Nixon—along with Walter Annenberg, who was the billionaire owner of Triangle Communications (TV Guide) and ambassador to England—and another Pilgrims Society member. As a Presidential advisor on “health issues,” Bobst was in position to push harsh “medications” on more and more Americans, assisted by legions of “medical doctors” who often show abysmal ignorance of basic nutrition. Do you have a broken arm or deep cut? See a doctor. Have they declared you incurable? Investigate nutrients—the same nutrients you need: like butyric acid and curcumin—there may in fact be hope! Sure, Bobst was interested in cancer “research,” not as in how to prevent or cure it by giving the cells what they need nutritionally—like butyric acid and curcumin—but as in how to “seize” and “absorb” maximum wealth from the public through pharmaceutical treatment of cancer—causing very unpleasant side effects. Bobst was a typical Pilgrims Society globalist/internationalist—in 1961 he married a woman employed by the United Nations. He gave $11.5 million for the Bobst Library at New York University in 1973 with 425,000 square feet. He was also a trustee of New York University—along with other Pilgrims Society members in the British Royal family’s staggering influence network. Stephanie Bobst Vanden Heuvel, his daughter, is daughter in law of William H. Van Den Heuvel (Pilgrims Society), whom we profiled in May 2014 in “Pilgrims Society—Warmongers & Metals Manipulators!” Van Den Heuvel, son in law of the founder of Music Corporation of America (MCA) is on record stating the world would be better off if the Revolutionary War had never been fought!

Elmer Holmes Bobst was the Pilgrims Society member I discovered before I ever discovered any of the others! In 1971 the late Gary Allen authored “Nixon—The Man Behind the Mask” (Western Islands publishers, Los Angeles) and on page 223 Allen remarked—

“While Nixon’s job with Mudge, Rose, Guthrie, Alexander and Mitchell was reputedly arranged by Elmer Bobst and not Rockefeller, the Mitchell of the firm was John Mitchell, now the Attorney General, who was Rockefeller’s personal attorney. Columnist Leonard Lyons on September 6, 1968, reported that the firm handles much of Chase Manhattan’s (Rockefellers) trust business. Bobst is listed as a member of the highly secret Pilgrim Society, which is even closer to the inner circle of the conspiracy than the C.F.R.”

Bobst and his wife, a former United Nations employee, watch as the Bobst Library is under construction—

Partial interior view—
Bobst was a trustee of Rutgers University and its College of Pharmacy; Franklin & Marshall College; University of Pennsylvania and its Medical Research Council; National Foundation for Medical Education (Rockefeller input) and the American-Korean Foundation; vice chairman of the American Cancer Society; advisor to the National Cancer Institute and the National Institute of Health (page 206, 1966–1967 Who’s Who in America) and a director of General Aniline & Film Corporation (GAF, a silver user!) GAF shifted its operations and became the largest roofing products manufacturer in the Western hemisphere.

In 2000, Warner Lambert merged into Pfizer (Pilgrims Society) to make an even larger and more toxic, kidney, liver, heart, intestinal, nervous system, brain and retina wrecking Big Pharma giant. Naturally since information remains fragmentary, I can’t show all the names possible, but Edmund T. Pratt Jr. (Pilgrims 1980) was at that time chairman of Pfizer, and this merged giant is far too large to not have other Pilgrims Society members holding its reins as it deals out misery to millions of trusting souls, hoodwinked by their physicians that “only pharmaceuticals can assist with disease conditions.”

A lawsuit was filed against Warner Lambert in connection with its diabetes drug Rezulin, by a patient who suffered liver failure and had to get a liver transplant. Pfizer has its lawsuit activities also––– it settled for $894 million over two of its “medications,” Celebrex and Bextra. Its Lipitor has brought it more lawsuit attention. The game plan is always they earn more income than they pay out in damages, therefore, they can continue to shorten lifespans and quality of life. Believe what you will, but using only nutrients I self treated and cured of hardened arteries (lemon juice removes calcium); aneurysm that had not progressed too far (horse chestnut and butcher’s broom) and a bladder/prostate infection (garlic and cranberry juice), the money I saved was better spent elsewhere, my results were better than any drug/surgery combo and without side effects. At this link we find---

“To the Nixon family, Elmer Bobst was much more than just a wealthy campaign contributor. At the dedication of The Nixon Center for Peace and Freedom (housed in the Elmer Bobst Building), March 1, 1995 -- at which President William Jefferson Clinton was the featured speaker -- Tricia Nixon Cox described Bobst as "An extraordinary person whose life personified the idea of being dedicated to worthy causes was Elmer Holmes Bobst. He was a self–made man whose intelligence, character, loyalty, patriotism, courage and generosity in many areas, including education and cancer research, made him an embodiment of the American dream. A mentor and father–figure to my father in all seasons since 1953, Elmer Bobst, or Uncle Elmer as Julie and I called him, was also a singular friend, who with his wife shared my father's vision of a more just and peaceful world."
Nixon was the Pilgrims Society member who halted dollar conversion into gold for foreigners in August 1971; he was the Pilgrims Society member who imposed a Federal price cap of $1.61 per ounce on domestically mined silver, via the Nixon agency known as the Cost of Living Council! Clinton is a Pilgrims Society member, as is his revolting demonized harridan wife (the President and Secretary of State are “honorary” members, albeit outer circle members); and Tricia Nixon Cox became daughter in law of Howard Ellis Cox (Pilgrims Society), a real estate developer and inheritor of old-line wealth.

Before meeting Pilgrims Society member #13 in this review—which will leave his own side effects, note that Alfred E. Driscoll (Pilgrims 1969) who was 18 years younger than Bobst and Governor of New Jersey (1947–1954) ---Warner Lambert was based at Morris Plains, New Jersey; and Driscoll became president of Warner Lambert after leaving the Governor’s mansion. Driscoll also was a trustee of Morristown Memorial Hospital, Samuel H. Kress Foundation and Williams College. He was a director of Chemical Fund and the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association. He was additionally a member of the United States committee of the World Medical Association---of which Elmer Bobst was a founding member. I am convinced that Big Medicine, Big Pharma and Big Hospitals---to include vaccines, pills and capsules---is likely the last ace in the hole of The Pilgrims Society for sucking the world of its wealth! A quick summary of other Pilgrims members listed alphabetically with Bobst and Driscoll---

Boardman, Jr., Arthur G.
Bobst, Elmer Holmes
Bogert, Jr., H. Lawrence
Bohrer, Charles Dean, M.D.
Borer, Harold P., C.B.E.
Boulton, Schroeder

Arthur G. Boardman Jr. of number 1 Wall Street was an official of Irving International Banking Corporation and resided at 34 Roosevelt Road in Maplewood, New Jersey. Bogert was with Eastman Dillon, Union Securities, a governor of the Investment Bankers Association of America, and married into the Milbank family of Wall Streeters and Pilgrims Society members; Harold P. Borer, Commander of the British Empire, was top exec in New York of Cunard Ocean Lines and a director of New York Shipping Association; Maritime Association of New York; British Merchant Navy Club; Beach Boulevard Marina and 25 Broadway Corporation. Schroeder Boulton, very possibly an offshoot of the London Schroder (spelling varies) interests, married a behaviorist and he was an investment banker for 67 years in the Manhattan financial district, including with Lazard Freres & Company (profiled in #6 Silver Squelchers under the chilling Lord Kindersley). His grandfather founded Germania Bank. Bohrer there is very little info on, but the society definitely knew who he was and why he was tapped to join---another medical man in their strides towards a world medical cartel.
Major General Draper was with National City Bank, Bankers Trust, and Dillon Read & Company (all Pilgrims Society entities) from 1919 to 1953. Dillon Read sold German industrial bonds here in the 1920s and 1930s. Pilgrims Society member, General George C. Marshall, invited Draper to serve on the President’s advisory board on Selective Service (where Pilgrims Society members seize your sons to die in Pilgrims Society sponsored wars) circa 1939–1940. General Kenneth Royall (Pilgrims 1969 roster) invited Marshall to become the first Secretary of the Army (1947–1949), Royall being the last Secretary of War—-a difference of nomenclature only.

Draper became the first U.S. ambassador to NATO and in 1954–1959 he became chairman of Mexican Light & Power—-followed in that position as we saw above, by General Maxwell D. Taylor (Pilgrims Society). Draper was chairman of Combustion Engineering (1967 to 1969), after which he was named the U.S. delegate to the United Nations population Commission (1969–1971). He was a founder in 1965 of the Population Crisis Committee, as The Pilgrims Society seeks massive world depopulation by wars, famines, vaccines, and any other potential modalities. Draper’s son, probably a Pilgrims member, is active with the Population Crisis Committee, as is the widow of Angier Biddle Duke (above), who is herself a Pilgrims Society member today---Robin Chandler Duke, big inheritor. Draper’s son “helped to organize and finance several hundred high technology manufacturing companies” and has been involved with United Nations agencies; he was also chairman (1981–1986) of the Export Import Bank of the U.S. Draper senior was a director of Cosmodyne Corporation; Western Bancorporation; U.S. Leasing Corporation; and Insurance Securities Trust Fund. He was chief of the economic division of the Allied Control Council for Germany (1945–1946) and we may wonder---did this “Control Council” have anything to do with moving gold to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York?

Angier Biddle Duke deserves his own report all for himself, but we will briefly summarize. He was the controller of the Duke Endowment, a foundation of large proportions, and of Duke University and Duke Power (now Duke Energy) and he was also a principal heir of the American Tobacco Company fortune. His family is connected by marriage to the Biddles, of the second United States Bank (direct forerunner to the Federal Reserve System) and to the Drexels, original partners in the Morgan banking empire and relatives of the Earls of Camoy (Pilgrims Society), one of the oldest dynasties (700+ years) in England. Allen Dulles was a Rockefeller family operative and head of the Central Intelligence Agency; his brother John Foster Dulles (Pilgrims Society) was also a Rockefeller operative and Secretary of State (1953–1959).

Despite his age, he is currently president of the Harry Frank Guggenheim Foundation (since 1989) which funds “research on the causes, manifestations and control of violence, aggression, and dominance.” However, they do not “study” these things when intentionally unleashed on civilization by The Pilgrims Society! He was as of 1994 a director of Alliance Fund and Charter New York Corporation as of 1980 or earlier. Here’s a view of Hester at the construction of the Elmer Holmes Bobst Library at New York University, of which Hester was president---

Points to notice about his info—more proof that The Pilgrims Society controls the Rhodes Scholars (he was a director of the RS Association); he is hardly the only example of this; Union Carbide, which eventually merged into major groundwater polluter Dow Chemical, was also a Silver Users Association member; Hester was a director of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York---an entity bitterly opposed to monetary silver, which winnowed silver coins out of the nation’s largest banking district starting around the same time the London Gold Pool started (circa 1961), and especially around late 1964 and ramping up into mid 1965 to the time that silver coins virtually disappeared from circulation (August 15, 1968, Wall Street Journal, front page), and shipped them to the Treasury Department, to be smelted into bullion and gifted to Silver Users Association members like Union Carbide, to cheat the public of sound currency, and miners from a fair price for their production; Hester was a director of the very large Prudential Insurance Company; Lehman Corporation was a twin entity to Lehman Brothers (Robert Lehman, Pilgrims 1969), which eventually the Society planned to implode for shipwrecking many smaller investors (before the big boys bailed out); the Danforth Foundation came from the Ralston–Purina fortune (Harold H. Helm, Pilgrims Society, director of Ralston Purina at the time); the Phelps Stokes Fund we visited along with Pilgrims Society member James Graham Phelps Stokes in #5 Silver Squelchers (start page 98); the Institute of International Education, another Pilgrims Society front with a bewitched sprinkling of perverse members on its board across the years; Hester was a director of the Japan Society (founded in 1907 by Pilgrims Society founding member Lindsay Russell); the Japan Society is the forerunner of the Trilateral Commission (1973, Pilgrims Society members David Rockefeller and George S. Franklin Jr., founders); Hester was also a trustee of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, of which Frank Schroth (Pilgrims 1957) was an earlier trustee—see #7 Silver Squelchers.

Hester wasn’t the only Pilgrims Society member of the Union Carbide (Silver Users Association member) board—-Birny Mason Jr. (Pilgrims 1969 and other years) was chairman of UC at the time; insurance magnate John Victor Herd (Pilgrims 1969) was a UC director and a member of the profoundly anti-silver Bankers Club of America; Mason and Herd were both directors of Manufacturers Hanover Trust, chaired by Pilgrims Society member Gabriel Hauge (Hauge was on the steering committee of the Bilderberg political subsidiary The Pilgrims have run from day one)—-Manufacturers Hanover was certainly in on the orgy of siphoning silver coins out of the greater New York–New Jersey metropolitan area, especially once the new clad dimes and quarters and 40% Kennedys were injected into circulation, like rattlesnake venom into the monetary system; Mason’s forerunner as chairman of Union Carbide, Kenneth Rush (Pilgrims 1969 and other years) remained on the UC board, and was a director of Bankers Trust New York—-also in on the vacuuming of silver coins out of circulation, for shipment to the Treasury, for refining into bullion—-for doling out at bottom of the toilet rates to companies like Union Carbide! Of course, Union Carbide is best remembered as causing the “Hiroshima of the chemical industry,” at Bhopal India in 1984, in which some 16,000 (“useless eaters”) Indians died horribly, in the most awful torment, lungs and eyes seared and blistered by methyl isocyanate gas, because Union Carbide (Pilgrims Society and Silver Users Association) was cutting corners on industrial safety measures! By 2006, over 558,000 injuries—some permanently disabling—had been documented. Well gee, it’s just good enough for those awful silver hoarding Indians, for refusing to give their silver to the Silver Users ASSociation for a zinc penny a ton! While this lousy Pilgrims Society member Hester was a member of the “Prettybrook” Tennis Club, babies born after the Bhopal gas leak had seriously non-pretty birth defect injuries caused by the toxicity of this Pilgrims Society silver stealing chemical giant---

“The object of the Society shall be the promotion of the sentiment of brotherhood among the nations.”
Birth deformities, usually rare, were routine after the chemical catastrophe caused by this Pilgrims Society managed, Silver Users Association member company—
The Cosmos Club and Century Association (see end of scan on Hester) are hotbeds of interlock with The Pilgrims Society!

14) Frederic H. Brandi (1906–1978; Pilgrims 1969 and other years) was profiled by Business Week Magazine, July 12, 1976, page 47, as “a superstar banker”---

The 1966–1967 Who’s Who in America, page 243, has this--- “Inter-Chem has sourced the most important drugs for the U.S. Market.”

The 1970–1971 Who’s Who, page 249 showed Brandi became a director of Falconbridge Nickel Mines; Amerada Petroleum; and the giant German chemicals and pharmaceuticals company, Hoechst. He had earlier been a director of Union Oil of California. His son James, possibly a member, has been involved with Banque Nationale Paribas (Paris) and Union Bank of Switzerland. For sons of members who didn’t also become members, they have some sort of informal arrangement for them to remain in the loop and continue on with this cause they have of eliminating the middle class, the non-aligned new rich, and causing world population to plummet!

Katherine Howell Brandi, granddaughter of Frederic, appears to have lineage to John I. Howell (Pilgrims Society, whom we visited in the section above on Gordon Richardson and the Schroder interests). She married the grandson of New York Congressman Jonathan B. Bingham (Skull & Bones Society) who was a U.S. delegate to the United Nations (1961–1964). Bingham was a member of the Population Crisis Committee and a gun control advocate. He was assistant (1955–1958) to New York Governor, railroad and banking fortune heir Averill Harriman (Pilgrims Society) who ran the Lend Lease Administration in World War II, doling out 88MOZ silver to his British Pilgrims pals for silver price suppression.

Business Week Magazine, July 12, 1976, page 47, called Frederic H. Brandi "A SUPERSTAR BANKER" and omitted the detail on his Pilgrims Society membership! It was Brandi who, with David Rockefeller, took control of Trans World Airlines away from nonmember Howard Hughes, after which they installed Pilgrims Society member Charles Tillinghast at the TWA helm. Brandi became chairman in 1962 of Dillon, Read & Company on Wall Street when second generation Pilgrims Society member Douglas Dillon, and overseer of Harvard University, went to Washington to be Treasury Secretary to help the Silver Users Association loot Constitutional silver coins from the public. Brandi was also a director of American South African Investment (ASA Ltd.) http://www.asaltd.com/about/company.asp a closed–end gold and platinum mining investment company. It was originally proposed in the late 1950’s by Charles Englehard of Englehard Industries, which has faced lawsuits over comments intended to depress silver prices. Brandi was a director of National Cash Register, which helped cashiers handle the Society’s bastardized paper notes foisted on hundreds of millions of people coast to coast. Cash has sometimes transmitted illnesses to victims without their awareness, leading to more profits for Pilgrims Society pharmaceuticals. Brandi was a director of the 1964 New York World Trade Fair Corporation. John Mortimer Schiff, second generation Pilgrims Society member, was at that time also a director of C.I.T.
Financial with Brandi. On the Colgate Palmolive board at that time with Brandi was Pilgrims Society member Frank Pace Jr., former Secretary of the Army and chairman of General Dynamics, who held numerous board memberships. The main character at Beekman Downtown Hospital was Fenwick Beekman (Pilgrims Society), whose family owned large parcels of Manhattan real estate from centuries ago, when the Dutch called it New Amsterdam; after the British takeover in 1664, those who pledged loyalty to England were allowed to retain their Dutch land grants.

Let’s look at the Trans World Airlines episode over which Brandi and David Rockefeller (Pilgrims Society) presided in stripping it away from Howard Hughes (not a member!) In “David---Report On A Rockefeller” (1971) by William Hoffman, he didn’t mention Brandi like Business week did, but notice the following from pages 110–112---

“An example of the power of David and the Chase Manhattan Bank involved Howard Hughes. Howard Hughes, who is called the richest man in the world but who is actually far down the totem pole where power is concerned, had to have money---lots of it---to purchase the jet planes TWA needed to keep pace with its competitors. Hughes acquired control of TWA when it was a small operation, and the tremendous growth of the airline industry during the postwar period turned it into a major corporation. Nonetheless, the bashful billionaire didn’t have the ready cash that was required to purchase a fleet of jet aircraft, so he sent his agents, their hats in hand, to see the big New York bankers, including David. Also to be visited were the Metropolitan Insurance Company, which had a board member who sat on the board of directors of Chase Manhattan Bank, and the Equitable Life Assurance Society, which had four members of its august board on the board of the Chase.”

People like Howard Hughes and J. Paul Getty—neither of them Pilgrims Society members—were being touted as the world’s richest men in their time, and no mention was made in the newspapers or magazines about the off the charts accumulations of Pilgrims Society members. John Mortimer Schiff of 40 Wall Street, whom we recently mentioned, was a director of Getty Oil. Gilbert W. Fitzhugh (Pilgrims Society) of the Metropolitan Life and Chase had those bases covered against Howard Hughes, while Harold Holmes Helm (chairman of the admissions committee of The Pilgrims) of Chemical Bank management, was a director of Equitable Life, and had that base covered against Hughes. There were other members on the Equitable board (finding them—give me a pass for now).

More of the narrative—

“Sure, said the banks and insurance companies, including Metropolitan and Equitable, they would be happy to lend Howard the several hundred million dollars he needed. On one condition—that if an “adverse development” occurred, Hughes would have ninety days to remedy the situation or lose his voting rights in TWA. Predictably, an adverse development did crop up, and Howard Hughes, even though he owned 78.23 percent of the stock in TWA, was forbidden from voting his shareholdings and was ousted from the company’s management. In addition, the lenders took over control of TWA’s board of directors. The loan Hughes had taken did provide that he could regain control of TWA when he repaid what he borrowed. (start page 111) At that time he would be able to vote the bankers and the insurance people off the board of directors. Howard Hughes was out of his league. He was dealing with the cleverest financial sharks of all time. Soon they designed a method to get rid of him altogether. Biographer Albert Gerber explained the plan—“Since Hughes Tool Company had supplied airplanes and financing to TWA, it had prevented outsiders from coming in to supply those commodities. This action violated both statutory antitrust laws and the common law duty between the parent and a subsidiary where the subsidiary has minority interest.”

The Pilgrims Society has a high percent of attorneys as members; I haven’t attempted to determine the statistics, but it’s sharply higher than the rate of attorneys in the general population. More---“Since the lawsuit was filed not by the government but by TWA, Hughes found himself in the interesting position of being sued by a company in which he held 78.23 percent of the stock! The New Yorkers demanded complete divestiture of all TWA stock held by Hughes and Hughes Tool Company. Hughes said “I’ll never give up TWA,” but he was forced to do precisely that. He realized $436,000,000 after taxes from the sale, but the powerful New Yorkers weren’t satisfied with just having control of the airline. They continued a suit that had brought against Hughes for alleged mismanagement when he had been in control of TWA (even if he had been guilty, he was mainly mismanaging his own funds), and the courts made Hughes cough up an additional $160,000,000.”

Control the courts and the legal system (Congress) ---control the financial system. This sabotage of nonmember Howard Hughes had certainly been seen before. In 1908 the New York bankers, led by Pilgrims Society members, froze inventor, engineer and patent holder George Westinghouse out of Westinghouse Electric.

Conclusion---
“TWA’s prospects had immediately brightened under their management—TWA stock was selling for less than $10 a share, but by 1966 it was up to almost $100; the government had awarded TWA new routes; TWA had taken over the Hilton Hotels international operations; TWA had taken over the management of Ethiopian, Saudi Arabian, and British West Indian Airlines; most important, TWA found credit much easier to come by. A 1969 Chase Manhattan brochure boasts that their financing (start page 112) helped develop and build the 747 airliners, and that Chase money was helping carriers acquire the new 374 passenger super jets. Chase had little cause to boast. The bank was simply helping companies they already controlled to get richer. It might have been illegal for Hughes Tool Company to lend money to TWA, but according to the law there is nothing whatever wrong with Chase Manhattan Bank doing the same thing.”

A Chase director at that time was Henry D. Mercer (Pilgrims Society) of Global Bulk Carriers, States Marine Corporation, Republic Steel, and Magnavox. He married into the Schroder family we visited in listing #10 above. After these Pilgrims Society members ousted Howard Hughes from TWA management, who did they install to run its operations? They tapped Pilgrims Society member Charles Carpenter Tillinghast Jr. from the board of visitors of Columbia University School of Law! They also placed him on other boards including Bendix Corporation; Elliott Automation; American Sugar; Seaboard Surety; Sheffield Corporation; Aviation Electric; companies in France and West Germany; and Big Pharma entity, Merck & Company, making Tillinghast a real “PILL-GRAM,” and they even inducted his son. (Page 2138, 1966–1967 Who’s Who in America on Tillinghast). They had another Pilgrims member who came in after Hughes was ousted but—I can’t recall every detail I ever saw. July 22, 1966, Time Magazine cover for a story that of course didn’t detail about how it was Pilgrims Society members who assassinated Hughes fortune---

Upon leaving TWA in 1976, Tillinghast became vice chairman of investment bank White, Weld & Company, later acquired by Merrill Lynch, and he became a Merrill exec—he was also chancellor of Brown University in Providence, Rhode Island—a hotbed of activity feeding into the infamous Silver Users association, what with its concentration of silversmiths who’ve been greedily feeding off silver miners for generations! This is why silver miners should establish, or pool resources to establish, silver items they’d sell direct to consumers—sterling jewelry and charms, tableware, platters, tea and coffee sets and so forth—and cut the silver fabricators OUT—something I advocated in February 2004 at Silver Investor site, “Silver Wars And Silver Surprises.” This would be an immediate way to at least triple profits on every ounce of silver processed this way!

Howard Hughes (below) was “PILGRIMIZED” same as another aviation tycoon who made the mistake of not being part of the British Royal family’s influence network (Jack Northrop of Northrop Aviation, who was shot down by hyper vulture, mega-pirate financier, Pilgrims Society member, plunder kingpin Floyd Odlum, who by 1933 was one of the ten wealthiest men in the United States); Odlum unloaded RKO Studios on Hughes; Hughes, terminally routed by The Pilgrims Society ---

Nonmembers get scalped!
Having mentioned Floyd Bostwick Odlum, let us add this—“Odlum was a financial genius who owned so many well known companies it might be easier to list what he didn’t own. Yet not a single biography exists about the man who hobnobbed with kings, queens, presidents and dictators. He convinced Dwight D. Eisenhower to seek the presidency, and the grateful president returned the favor by painting Odlum’s portrait! When Goldman Sachs Trading lost more than $100 million, Odlum acquired it for eight cents on the dollar, saving Goldman Sachs while turning a huge profit. He also acquired domestic and foreign utilities. One of his large investments was Utilities Power & Light Corporation, serving 587 communities in the U.S. and Canada, and 488 in Britain. Odlum was the largest stockholder of Hearst’s media empire. He also owned banks, RKO and Paramount Studios, Convair Aircraft, Northeast Airlines and in the 1950s became the largest owner of uranium mines in the world. His Atlas Corporation was the second largest stockholder of Hilton Hotels and helped take it public, and Yellow Cab and Hertz Rent A Car. When the U.S. Air Force ran out of funds to build a rocket to propel America’s first satellites and astronauts into space, Odlum provided the funds—–the Atlas Rocket was named in his honor—not after strongman Charles Atlas!”

The Atlas Rocket was an ICBM—–Intercontinental Ballistic Missile. Odlum had warmongering interests, typical of many Pilgrims Society members. If a biography of Odlum had been written, you can be certain of two things; one, the biographer wouldn’t know of his Pilgrims Society activities; and two, if known, that detail of overriding importance would have been dutifully omitted by establishment authorized hack writers! Imagine receiving electric utility payments from several million people every month!
The stark looking Odlum with his hex gaze, who held controlling interest in Goldman Sachs, made a large haul on selling RKO Pictures to Howard Hughes, who was later to be gutted and capsized by other Pilgrims Society members who “seized” and “absorbed” most of his wealth--- Odlum’s wife, famous aviator Jacqueline Cochran, became the first woman to break the sound barrier (1953). The regional airport in Riverside, California, is named after her.

Before finishing the glance at Brandi and his carpetbagger associates in ousting Howard Hughes from TWA, we need to briefly discuss Dillon Read & Company, the key investment bank he was a top figure in. Dillon Read was founded by Pilgrims Society member Clarence Dillon, “the brilliant financier of the 1920s” as Business Week of July 12, 1976 called him. He saved Goodyear Tire & Rubber from bankruptcy, formed National Cash Register, and bought Dodge Brothers for $146 million cash. As expected, he was with the War Industries Board during World War One—Pilgrims Society members are always the warfare instigators and managers! He owned “Dunwalke” estate in New Jersey, which in 2001 sold for $18 million to highly likely Pilgrims Society member John Thornton of Goldman Sachs, Barrick Gold, Intel, China Netcom, China Investment Corporation, Pacific Century Group, Ford Motor and others. Dillon senior’s son Clarence Douglas Dillon (born in Geneva Switzerland) became ambassador to France (1953–1957) and Treasury Secretary (1961–1965) and he co–presided in the war to get silver out of our money system, with his fellow Pilgrims Society member William McChesney Martin of the Federal Reserve, who we visited earlier. Dillon was chairman (1972–1975) of the Rockefeller Foundation; vice chairman of The Pilgrims subsidiary, the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR); he owned vineyards in France; his daughter became Princess Joan of Luxembourg; he was a director of A.T. & T.; United States & Foreign Securities Corporation; an overseer of Harvard University; a governor of New York Hospital; a member of the National Security Council during the ill–fated Kennedy administration (they did rub JFK OUT); he was a key member of Nelson Rockefeller’s (Pilgrims Society) farcical Commission to Investigate the CIA; and chairman of the anti–silver Brookings Institution; and became an executive committee member of The Pilgrims Society. Silver and gold antagonists are not merely rank and file Pilgrims Society members—–they comprise much of the leadership of this most blasphemous of all secret societies! Dillon junior was called “a very wealthy heir” in “The Rich and the Super Rich” by Ferdinand Lundberg (1968, page 181). The Rothschilds by 1981 at the latest, had a connection inside Dillon, Read & Company, which later merged into Travelers Corporation (Pilgrims Society).

There was a joint venture, Warburg Dillon Read, obviously with the Warburgs (Pilgrims Society) in London. One of the ASA directors today was with the Howard Hughes Medical Institute, funded by wealth seized and “absorbed” from Hughes by The Pilgrims organization. James Addison Baker III, superlawyer from Houston, Pilgrims Society member of the former National War Powers Commission, is the lead trustee since 1996 at the Howard Hughes Medical Research Institute. Two other trustees appear likely as current Pilgrims Society members. Baker was Secretary of State in the first Bush administration and he was Secretary of the Treasury in the Reagan administration—-a gold and silver mega-suppressor holding a slice of this medical research pie, so The Pilgrims Society can achieve a world medical cartel to “seize” and “absorb” wealth in every latitude and longitude. The HHMRI IN Chevy Chase, Maryland, near the District of Columbia, has an endowment (Pilgrims Society controlled) of around $17 billion and spends over $800 million annually in research. Hughes croaked in 1976, and by 1984, globalists had seized control over the foundation he established in 1953. A Du Pont (Silver Users Association/Pilgrims Society) agent was among the new court determined trustees. Another was a non-Pilgrim with J.P. Morgan & Company—-
15) John Thomas Conner (1914–2000, Pilgrims 1969 and other years) was Commerce Secretary in the Lyndon Johnson (Pilgrims Society) administration, after which he chaired Allied Chemical Corporation (silver user). Here’s his info from Who’s Who in America, 1970–1971, page 455—-
During his tenure at Big Pharma giant Merck & Company, its investments in plants overseas increased by 450%. As head of Allied Chemical, Connor was a silver user for catalyst processes; as a director of Chase Manhattan Bank, he was a silver price suppressor. In more recent times, just one Merck prescription “medication” alone is documented to have caused over 60,000 deaths! Connor was assuredly another---

“PILL-GRAM!”

Pushing toxic, harsh Pharma pills, and pricing grams of gold and silver at toilet bowl suppressed rates because these real money mediums are a threat to their created currency emanating from their Federal Reserve System!

Not only that, but Connor later became a Warner Lambert (Big Pharma) director; we already had a look at Pilgrims Society members Elmer Holmes Bobst and Alfred E. Driscoll, both of Warner Lambert, above in example #12! Warner Lambert has such a bastardized record that it offered to indemnify doctors if they were sued for prescribing Rezulin, known to cause liver damage!

The 1980–1981 Who’s Who, page 693 shows Connor was handed the leadership of Schroders office in New York--- The Cravath law firm was in the thick of globalism; OSRD was the Office of Scientific Research & Development, taxpayer funded research for Pilgrims Society interests to gain enriching patents from said research. As a director of the American Broadcasting Companies (ABC Network), Connor of The Pilgrims Society helped insure secrecy for the organization; suppression of bad publicity about dangerous “medications;” and denial of accurate reporting in the precious metals markets! Additionally, Connor was a member, along with Douglas Dillon (Pilgrims Society); Ronald Reagan (Pilgrims Society) of the Nelson Rockefeller (Pilgrims Society) Commission to Investigate the CIA (Pilgrims Society entity) who reported to President Gerald Ford (Pilgrims Society)! Rockefeller just before then (1973-1974) created his so-called Commission on Critical Choices for Americans—another Pilgrims Society conspiracy to present the public with bogus alternatives! Connor circa 1974 (from a General Motors annual report) ---

John T. Connor was also a director of General Foods---same as we noticed his Pilgrims “brother,” McChesney Martin was also a GF director. The more we probe into the activities of the members of this shadow organization, the richer and juicier the details get! On October 6, 1982, the New York Times reported in a news release about DNA Plant Technology Corporation (GMO crops) had John T. Connor as its chairman, and that it had raised $15.8 million in a private offering among Campbell Soup Company (major holder---John T. Dorrance Jr., Pilgrims Society and director of J.P. Morgan & Company); J. Henry Schroder Banking Corporation, of which Connor was also chairman; the Rothschild Biotechnology Fund; and Koppers Company, a Mellon family (Pilgrims Society) interest. DNA Plant Tech did a deal with Du Pont (major chemical polluter of groundwater, Pilgrims Society and Silver Users Association member).
DNA Plant Tech developed two generations of the so-called “fish tomato,” so named because it transgenically inserted an arctic fish “antifreeze” gene into tomatoes allegedly to protect them from frost. The “fish tomato” was called “infamous,” and here we read, with tremendous dismay, that “tomatoes, potatoes, bananas and other plants are being investigated as vehicles for delivering EDIBLE VACCINES.” Their genetically modified tomato, of course, had a drastically reduced Lycopene content, dismally reducing its nutritional value. Lycopene has recently been of notable assistance to me in a typical male health concern. These PILGRIMS SOCIETY FIENDS are out to poison us, and to weaken us by very sinisterly tampering with the food supply! Detlev W. Bronk, the creator of the entire discipline known as biophysics, a Rockefeller University official and chairman of the National Science Foundation, trustee of the Population Council, Protein Foundation et al, participated with research scientists in agriculture and farm animal genetics; Bronk descended from Jonas Bronck, a Dutch settler in the early 1600’s, for whom the Bronx is named; Detlev had 45 honorary university degrees and was in The Pilgrims 1969 roster. J. George Harrar, a Rockefeller Foundation official, was also in The Pilgrims 1969 roster and was a director of Campbell Soup Company and worked with agricultural colleges in Mexico and Costa Rica and was a trustee of the Nutrition Foundation. He held membership in the Italian National Committee on Agriculture and was decorated by Chile, Colombia and Mexico. Of course! There are other choice examples! “Honorable” (?) mention---William Rogers Herod, possibly named after an infamous king in biblical times, was president of international operations of General Electric and was decorated by Italy, Japan, Brazil and Spain; Sir Richard Snedden of Corbiehall, who was an official of the British Employers Confederation, the British Shipping Federation, the International Labor Organization, British Ship Owners Group and Joint Maritime Commission, National Sea training Schools and King George’s Fund for Sailors; Sir Richard was a director of Aldershot Traction; Monotype Corporation; Globe & Phoenix Gold Mining Company; and Consolidated Gold Fields (probably fed gold into the London Gold pool of the 1960s); Sir Richard was murdered in 1970 by his son, with the use of a battle axe; Emil J. Pattberg Jr., chairman of the Mellon family controlled First Boston Corporation, which had a huge presence in the global securities markets (he succeeded Harry M. Addinsell, Pilgrims Society); Henry Upham Harris, a major Wall Street broker who was a director of Texaco, Southern Pacific, Stone & Webster and Chemical Bank and a governor of the New York and American Stock Exchanges; Ralph Stillman, a billionaire by inheritance, of the National City Bank, Grace National Bank, Sun Chemical Corporation, Green Mountain Power, Victory Carriers and Mercantile Stores; Sir Maurice Henry Parsons of the International Monetary Fund and the Bank of England; Sir Kenneth Keith of Hill, Samuel & Company, Bank of Nova Scotia (silver antagonist), Times Newspapers (silver antagonist), Eagle Star Insurance, Beecham Group, Tanker Investment Trust, City Centre Properties and other interests; Sir Cyril H. Kleinwort of Kleinwort Benson Lonsdale & Company, Commercial Union Assurance, North British & Mercantile Insurance, Transatlantic Fund and other interests; it was the Kleinworts who originally enabled Goldman Sachs to gain entry into international markets (“Our Crowd,” 1967 by Stephen Birmingham, pages 152–153); J. Peter Grace of chemical giant and conglomerate W.R. Grace & Company, First National City Bank, Magnavox, Brazilian Light & Power, Kennecott Copper, Ingersoll Rand, Stone & Webster, Miller Brewing and others, and chairman of the Institute for Human Progress; Sir Edward Robert Peacock, governor of the Bank of England, money manager for the Duchy of Cornwall, owned by the British Royal family, director of Hudson’s Bay Company, trustee of the Rhodes Trust, who was liaison between the BOE and the U.S. Government during World War II; Lastly we cite as among the 1969 members this secretive operator who had little to say about himself (other than his key position in the equity markets) on page 1870 of the 1966–1967 Who’s Who in America--

After leaving the big investment bank, this character chaired the Private Export Funding Corporation and was chairman of the advisory council of the Cornell University Graduate School of Business and Public Administration. His son, Junior, is an emeritus trustee of Cornell University. PEFC was formed by a consortium of 44 banks and works with another Pilgrims Society instrumentality, Export Import Bank of the United States.
A well known figure recently claimed that China has bought the stock in the Federal Reserve System. The proof for this claim is—what? Where is the documentation? Can he show any official documents such as Congressional testimony? These are reasonable questions. Many metals commentators are too big to notice that the Anglo–American financiers have a special membership organization. On the other hand, sites which have allowed my research are willing to let the facts and conclusions I offer to be evaluated solely on their own merits. We have in our midst “chiefs” who can’t understand that gold and silver suppressors have “membership organizations,” especially this one far out of public view, and that this is where plans to harm us are being hatched! I was told by another figure that my documentation has no credibility. Sure; I have the ability to insinuate information into Who’s Who volumes in thousands of libraries all over the USA! I warn the community that among us certain will prove in the end to be untrustworthy and to have whipped people up into a frenzy of excitement by appeals to business suit personalities and personality popularity parades.
Some people used to work for Barclay’s Bank or Chase Manhattan are saying many things we enjoy hearing; then they counsel to hold our gold far out of easy reach. They may not all be ok like a woman who was once with Dillon Read. Beware those who hype holding gold outside the country—unless you intend to move with it! I have heard from a major, longtime USA bullion dealer who concurs. Naturally any USA based dealer hopes you will one day resell through him, but in this case, it doesn’t work against you to have faster—and more assured—access. For the record—I think that over 90% of U.S. silver coins are gone, but not 98%. Please take a few moments and read this truly superb commentary on the botulized, worm riddled, molded over, tyranny infected USA legal system—-www.321gold.com/editorials/mor

The commodity markets are controlled by Wall Street and London banking interests, frequently to the detriment of commodity producers. At the top of this pyramid, for over a century—are Pilgrims Society members, suppressing precious metals! This they have done to facilitate buying land and real assets with their created currency, and achieved a lien against all private property in these fifty States based on the Federal debt, which is owed to these megabankers! The entire Federal debt must sooner or later be entirely repudiated or expunged, and titles (domestic and foreign) to land, buildings and other assets should be investigated—and seized, in all cases in which the holders can be connected to the Federal Reserve! All members of “globalist” organizations must be banned from any government posts, elected or appointed!
