"EXPECTATIONS AS TO OUR GOVERNMENT'S INTENTIONS REGARDING SILVER AS A MONEY METAL CAN SCARCELY BE OTHER THAN DISTURBING."---Commerce & Finance Journal, New York, October 24, 1934, page 861

HOARDERS OF SILVER

"In The Wake of Silver," New York Times, January 16, 1966, section 2, page 31 commented---

"The Government reported last week that HOARDING had accounted for most of the $1 billion of gold mined throughout the world in 1965. United States gold reserves failed to gain; in fact, they actually declined during the period. AND YET THE OFFICIAL GOVERNMENT SUPPORTED PRICE OF $35 AN OUNCE WAVED NOT ONE WHIT."

Now in 2018-2019, precious metals prices will be suppressed as long as possible with all manner of stalling tactics, as the price riggers (who are more than a “cartel,” they are a “SOCIETY”) fight a retreating action.

Harry P. Cain, Senator from Washington state, writing in the Mining Congress Journal, October 1950, page 24, stated---

“The measure of unjust discrimination to which the gold miner is exposed is illustrated by a special dispatch to the New York Times under the date of July 31, 1950. This story came from Tel Aviv in Israel. It reported a strong market with British sovereigns in active demand at $25 apiece. Since the sovereign contains less than a quarter ounce in gold THIS SHOWS A GOLD PRICE OF MORE THAN $100 AN OUNCE.”

Keep in mind the conspirators held gold low until spring 1968 when the London Gold Pool became unable to squelch pressure for higher gold correlation to printing press dollars! As this is written, gold is 35 times the old $35 price; all mining and refining costs are up sharply; and gold and silver mining shareholders are being sold out by management who won't complain because 1) their companies have large shareholders (Pilgrims Society entities) who are muzzling them and 2) their execs and directors have shady backgrounds making them biased against using gold and silver as money, having graduated from some "Royal" this that or the other school!

Next citation comes from a speech by to the American Bankers Association meeting in San Francisco on November 2, 1949 by Alan Sproul of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, as reported on page 108 of Vital Speeches of the Day, December 1, 1949---

“AS CENTRAL BANKERS CHARGED WITH RESPONSIBILITY FOR OUR MONETARY AND CREDIT POLICIES, WE HAVE THE QUESTION OF GOLD UNDER CONSTANT SURVEILLANCE. WE HAVE BEEN UNDER ATTACK BECAUSE OF OUR ATTITUDE TOWARD GOLD. A FREE GOLD MARKET IS HERESY. THERE IS NO SENSE IN A MAKE BELIEVE FREE GOLD MARKET. GOLD HAS NO USEFUL PURPOSE TO SERVE IN THE POCKETS OF THE PEOPLE. THERE IS NO HIDDEN PURPOSE. ALMOST ANYTHING WILL SERVE AS MONEY.”

Someone should have shown up at Sproul’s residence, handed him a sack of rat pills, and told him “anything will serve as money, here’s lavish overpayment for your house!” Too bad such things aren’t happening.

By 1954 Sproul was in The Pilgrims NYC and probably sooner. He became a Wells Fargo director, Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical and other interests. Wells Fargo was represented at the founding of The Pilgrims New York in January 1903---

Being born in San Francisco meant Sproul was also a member of the Bohemian Club, a very scaled down version of The Pilgrims. "Almost anything will serve as money?" That's the same notion a Treasury official belched out regarding elimination of silver coinage, as we shall document as you read on. Nylon and wood coins! No hidden purpose, sure! Same as so few Americans even know this Pilgrims Society exists, yet its members are giants of finance, diplomacy, government, military and so forth! The public lacks the maturity to understand their existence! The Pilgrims 1969 BYC shows---

Sproul, Allan
Stanley, Jr., Edmund Allport
Stanley, Eric James
Stans, The Hon. Maurice Hubert

Stans was Commerce Secretary and a name often mentioned in the Watergate investigation; however, his Pilgrims Society membership was N-E-V-E-R mentioned by any “investigative reporter!” Nor was it ever mentioned in any media, including Democrat owned media, that Nixon became honorary president of The Pilgrims NYC as of March 24, 1969 (page 141, short run book, “The Pilgrims of the United States” 2003). Stans was a Fluor Corporation, Pettibone Corporation, W.W. Grainger Company director, an investment banker and member of East African Professional Hunters; trustee Pomona College. E.A. Stanley was a governor of the American Stock Exchange and ran the biggest printer of bond and stock certificates and foreign currencies in the world. E.A. was also an Atlas Corporation director, the creation of mega-financier Floyd Odlum (Pilgrims Society) who personally destroyed aviation industry pioneer and tycoon Jack Northrop of Northrop Aviation.

On November 28, 1960, in a speech delivered to the Investment Bankers Association of America, Henry Clay Alexander, Pilgrims Society, of J.P. Morgan & Company said--- (Vital Speeches of the Day) December 1960 ---

THAT POLICY SHOULD BE EXTENDED TO PROHIBIT THE HOLDING OF GOLD ANYWHERE BY U.S. RESIDENTS.”

He was named after Henry Clay (1777-1852), a great opponent of Andrew Jackson; Clay favored a central bank; this Morgan banking figure may even have been a descendant! This gold ownership antagonist was on boards like General Motors; Standard Brands; Johns Mansville; Consolidated Edison; trustee Presbyterian Hospital NYC and Vanderbilt University; president New York Clearing House Association; member of United States

"THIS OFFERS A CLEAR LESSON FOR WOULD-BE SILVER HOARDERS IN THIS COUNTRY. THE GOVERNMENT HAS PROVED AGAIN THAT IT CAN AND WILL RESIST ANY PRESSURE TO RAISE THE PRICE OF GOLD, AND IT HAS ANNOUNCED EMPHATICALLY THAT IT WILL DO THE SAME WITH SILVER FOR AN INDEFINITE PERIOD. To do this, it can continue to call on its silver bullion stockpile of some 800 million ounces. IT CAN ALSO MAKE USE OF MANY FEDERAL REGULATORY POWERS."

This report will focus mainly on William McChesney Martin Jr., the longest term holding chairman of the Federal Reserve System; however, in connection with Martin, many other Pilgrims Society members and their fellow travelers, members of outer ring groups, will also be mentioned. It actually wasn't Martin as much as Douglas Dillon, second generation member, who as Treasury Secretary battled against continuation of constitutionally lawful silver coinage---text box at start page www.silverstealers.net ---

DOUGLAS DILLON, ON THE PILGRIMS NYC EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE (1968-2003), AS TREASURY SECRETARY (1961-1965) LED THE CAMPAIGN TO END U.S. SILVER COINAGE AND WAS A SECOND GENERATION MEMBER WHOSE DAUGHTER BECAME CROWN PRINCESS JOAN OF LUXEMBOURG. DILLON BECAME A DIRECTOR OF THE SILVER SUPPRESSING CHASE MANHATTAN BANK AND AS T.S. HE BOASTED, "SILVER BULLION WOULD BE RELEASED ON DEMAND TO PREVENT SILVER RISING" (THE ECONOMIST, LONDON, 7/13/1963, PAGE 166)!

Dillon with JFK; Dillon didn't like JFK's

Current FED chairman Jerome Powell was with Dillon Read & Company, Dillon's investment bank, from 1984-1990. Dillon senior died in April 1979 and the New York Times wrote--- “Clarence Dillon, a leading financier in the investment field for almost half a century and the retired president of Dillon, Read & Company, died yesterday at his home in Far Hills, N.J. In 1925, Dillon, Read & Company came out on top in a struggle with .J. P. Morgan & Company for the Dodge Brothers Automobile Company. During the 1920's, Dillon, Read underwrote billions in securities, including the financing for a number of European and South American countries. For these services, Mr. Dillon was decorated by the French, Italian, Belgian and Polish Governments. At this time the company opened fully staffed offices with resident partners in Paris and London. Dillon served as trustee or director of many companies, including the American Foreign Securities Corporation, formed in 1915 to help finance the French Government's purchases in the United States. He also served as a director of the following New York banks: the Central Trust Company, the Central Union Trust Company, the National Park Bank, the Chase National Bank and the Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company. He was also a director of the Dodge Automobile Company, the National Cash Register Company, the Brazilian Traction Light and Power Company and the U.S. & Foreign Securities Corporation. He also was a voting trustee of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company. He served on the War Industries Board.”

Dillon senior and son were both directors of the same bank; Chase National Bank later called Chase Manhattan Bank (after merger with the Warburg affiliated Bank of Manhattan) ---

This 1995 Book Made No
Mention of The Pilgrims
Society; A REAL
Enigma!

The history of the finance bloc is that it has always hated silver more so than gold. The persistent out of whack silver to gold ratio is glaring proof of it. Something to be reaffirmed often is that silver has been used as money in more transactions by far than gold. So to dominate the great majority, silver had to be wrecked and derailed as medium of exchange; followed by gold; then full fiat comes; this is exactly what took place. It's been heard often that large polymetallic mining concerns don't care what they get for silver byproduct after they produce copper, zinc and lead. It's a slap in the face of their shareholders that this has prevailed. The main factor enabling the money controllers to maintain a low price cap on silver has been its discontinuation as medium of exchange. The system must blaze down into ruins before precious metals will be seen as money again by the majority. The finance bloc hired regiments of history revisionists and corrupted economists to bad mouth silver calling it inflationary, unsound and worse; finally as the decades passed, the word "silver" began to radically vanish from the indexes of scholastic textbooks, published by interests owned by the fiat finance bloc. The world has literally been dragged away from using silver as exchange medium.

Persistently for years we notice self constituted experts and gurus strutting at conferences and in hundreds of You Tube sessions making price and timing calls as to when silver will break north in a big way. These predictions have little purpose besides as tools to merchandise paid newsletter subscriptions; why wait for a real bull market, when they can create their own by selling hope? Of course! Silver will stunningly rise, but when? Probably when the last ounce that can be dumped gets jettisoned, and the supply pipeline can't accommodate more than industrial silver consumers. I can't put a date on this as I'm not a guru! I'm not on the inside to know when---and neither are any of the price predictors including Harvey Organ, Bill Murphy and Jim Willie. This is about accuracy not brainless popularity mania. They've been wrong. Price predictors make their own bull market by tapping little folks for subscription income! The maintenance of the London Gold Pool into spring 1968 (shortly before silver certs were suspended) shows the intent of the money powers today is to hold a price lid on silver till what they're doing stops working. To not leave inquirers bereft of detail; the LGP consisted of the U.S., the U.K., France (till 1967), West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Switzerland, Netherlands central banks. Afterwards France turned accumulator of gold and France was the biggest reason Nixon shut off Treasury gold conversion of dollars held by foreigners. A voice in silver and cryptos (one of the "pay wall" personalities) has been telling the community that enormous amounts of gold were found in the Grand Canyon many years ago. No way pal, if that were true, the London Gold Pool would still be in operation and gold would still be $35 the ounce! I never noticed Newmont or Barrick going after this purported resource!

At <https://critiqueofcrisistheory.wordpress.com/the-five-industrial-cycles-since-1945> we encounter---

“Shortly after the Kennedy administration took office, Under Secretary of Treasury Robert Roosa proposed that the United States and the West European central banks prevent the dollar price of gold bullion on the open market from rising above $35.20. That is, whenever the free market price of bullion threatened to hit $35.20 the United States and the West European central banks would sell gold. If the price of bullion fell below $35 an ounce, they would buy gold. According to Roosa’s “suggestions,” the gold pool would be made up of the United States, Britain, West Germany, France, Switzerland, Italy, the Netherlands, and Luxembourg. Essentially, this meant that the dollar would now be backed not only by the gold in Fort Knox but also by the gold of Britain, West Germany, France and the other members of the gold pool. Or what comes to exactly the same thing, America said to its European imperialist satellites, from now on your gold reserves will backing our currency. This is a good example of the nature of the “world order” that emerged from World War II!”

Roosa of the campaign to take America off silver coins was with Brown Brothers Harriman “America’s oldest and largest private bank” at 59 Wall Street (since relocated) ---

“It is better to be at the right hand of the devil than in his path! As long as I serve him I am immune!” (“The Mummy” 1999).

The 1978-1979 edition of “Who’s Who in America” page 2765 has this on Roosa, who was shoulder to shoulder with his boss at Treasury fighting silver coinage, Douglas Dillon (second generation Pilgrims member) and both of them with Martin---

RHODES SCHOLAR

Roosa and another FED chief, Arthur Burns (Pilgrims), were both members of the Century Association and the Cosmos Club. I've mentioned Robert Roosa (Pilgrims Society) before and his publicly accessible outrageous remarks about being a gold price suppressor in "Who Controls The Gold Stealing New York Fed Bank," released in January 2014 see for 100% free access at <http://nosilvernationalization.org/128.pdf> and this is the deeper story you never got from G. Edward Griffin's "The Creature From Jekyll Island" as his investigation stalled out for lack being able to source information to go any higher up the rings over rings structure than CFR level. If it's true it can be said. Additionally, my research is always available on 100% free basis. Quote it all you want; but don't place a selling price for viewers to access it; and don't use it to boost your sales without mentioning me as the source. On Griffin; please don't use something with cyanide traces (laetrile) for fighting cancer; choose lactoferrin or artemisinin; one only, as they cannot be used together, and stick with it as these attack cancer where it's most vulnerable---its necessity for iron in runaway cell division. No iron, no cell division (lactoferrin) or iron and explosion of free radical damage in cancer (artemisinin). Lysine will block cancer invading normal tissue! There should be no enormous cancer industry!

PILL-GRAMS!

William McChesney Martin Jr.
Chairman of the Federal Reserve
System (1951-1970) ---"Democrat"---
(Possibly related to Radu Molasar!)

Somehow Martin's expression reminded me of a line from "Badge Without Honor" episode of "Bonanza" TV series---"he was caught robbing sluice boxes!" Remember the BSCSDD degree from "The Flim Flam Man" (1967)? Back stabbing, cork screwing and dirty dealing!

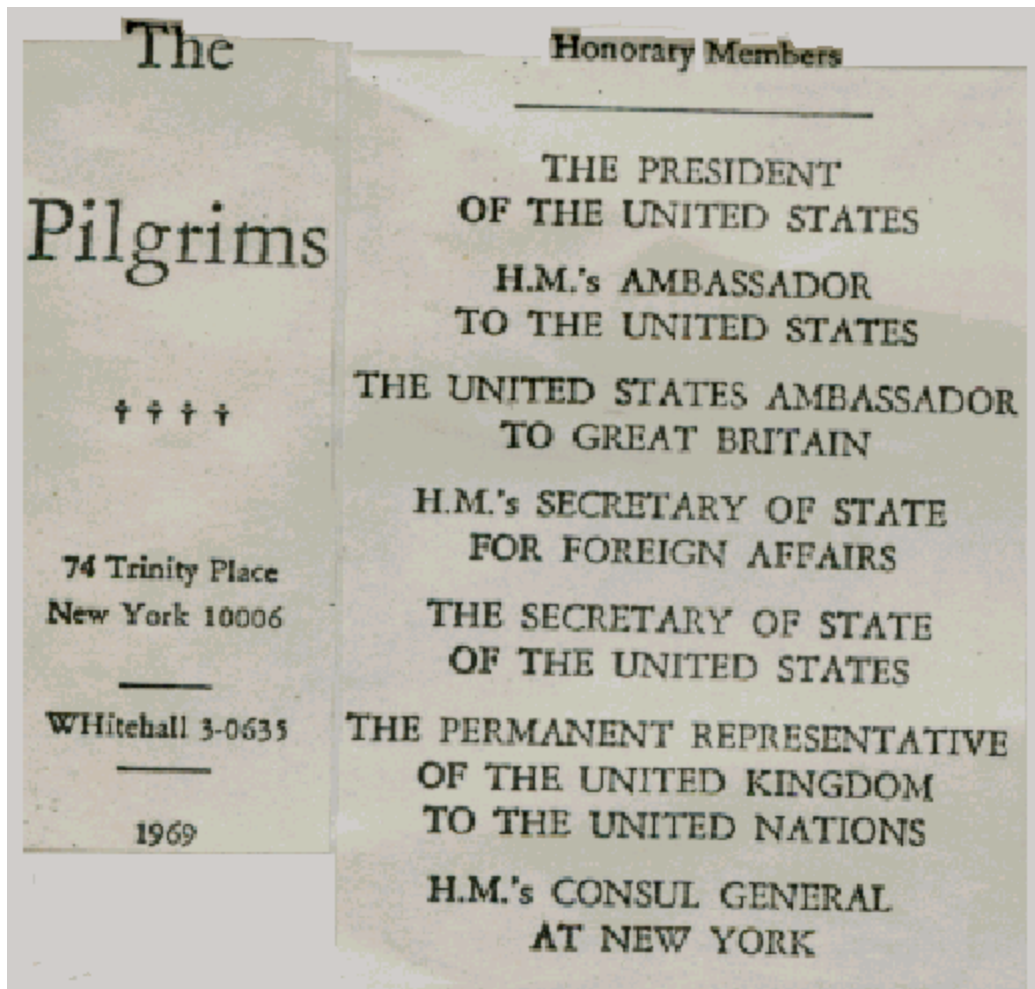

Martin was assistant Secretary of the Treasury before becoming chief of the FED. In the Federal Reserve Bulletin, April 1963, page 469, we notice the testimony by William McChesney Martin Jr., Federal Reserve Board Chairman at a Congressional hearing---

"The Board believes it is unnecessary to utilize silver as part of the U.S. monetary system. Although some concern has been expressed that removing the silver "backing" from part of our currency might lower its value, I would not agree."

FEDERAL RESERVE BULLETIN

Well? It wasn't in the interest of him or his pals to agree! Paper currency went from being backed by gold, to being backed by gold only for foreigners; and being backed by some silver, to being backed by no silver. The warehouse receipt historical lesson isn't known by many Americans. Pilgrims Society members before Martin's time were bellowing about silver certificates being "inflationary!" Just have the public on an inconvertible medium! It's how the Crown treats its serfs! The President of the USA is an "honorary" member yet Dave Janda and SGT Report see nothing amiss with Trump---he already had a half dozen corporate bankruptcies of his real estate development empire before becoming President! They could have broken him at any time! Instead, they prepped him to be their figurehead national leader---

OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM
DIVISION OF BANK OPERATIONS
June 26, 1964

The New York Times, March 14, 1965, section 3, page 1 had this on silver certificate claims hitting the Treasury---

“THE ACTIVITIES OF THE HOARDERS WERE MOST VIVIDLY DEMONSTRATED JUST A YEAR AGO, WHEN THE TREASURY EXPERIENCED A RUN ON SILVER DOLLARS. PEOPLE WERE SEEN

PUSHING WHEELBARROWS OF $1,000 BAGS OF SILVER DOLLARS FROM THE TREASURY.”

(Always bankers, government and industrial users express bewildered mystification and stunned shock when any citizens act on opportunities to protect themselves! Small folks are supposed to pay heed to pied piper TV newscasters!)

“Assuming the Treasury decides to make a change, what metal or substance does it use? “WE’VE LOOKED AT EVERYTHING FROM NYLON TO WOOD.”

Corning Glass, controlled by the Houghtons (Pilgrims Society/Citibank) tried in some way to peddle glass coins! Du Pont was on the scene, as well as yet another Pilgrims Society interest (Colonel Robert M. Thompson, Henry S. Wingate et al), INCO, International Nickel Company of Canada---

Du Pont was also in nylon manufacture!

INCO

Naturally the Federal Reserve and the Treasury were on the same page, both being run by Pilgrims Society members, with Dillon at Treasury. The same NYT story continued on page 14 and mentioned Chase Manhattan Bank's involvement with 55 tons of Ecuadorean silver coins at a New Jersey smelter called Spiral Metal Company. Chase? Run by Pilgrims Society members David Rockefeller and George Champion at that time!

After a review of select excerpts from some of Martin's speeches we'll present a scan of his "Who's Who In America" info and compare this Presbyterian FED chief to two Jewish FED chiefs---Bernanke and Yellen, proving how often Jews are simply used as blame takers for what are frequently more powerful religious factions!

The Economist, London, August 6, 1998, stated that William M. Martin Jr. (born 1906-went to hell, 1998; FED chairman 1951-1970) and a PRESBYTERIAN (Scottish Crown loyalist) “was responsible for turning the Federal Reserve into essentially the fourth branch of American government. If Alan Greenspan has someone to thank for his rock-star status in the late 1990s, it is surely William Martin. Martin ran the Fed under five Presidents (Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon).”

On March 10, 1968, as released by the Associated Press, William McChesney Martin Jr., chairman of the Federal Reserve

System board of governors, infamously stated his intention to defend the $35 gold price “DOWN TO THE LAST INGOT.”

Naturally the AP declined to mention Martin’s membership in The Pilgrims Society (1969 roster excerpt below; in all probability, Martin was a member already as of then for most of ten years; he’s not in the 1957 roster; and we have a 12 year gap in which most members during that time remain unidentified!) Martin like most members was on the waiting list for membership for an undetermined number of years and in that duration could be fully expected to collaborate with Society plans!

Martin, Jr., The Hon. William
McChesney
Marvin, John Howland

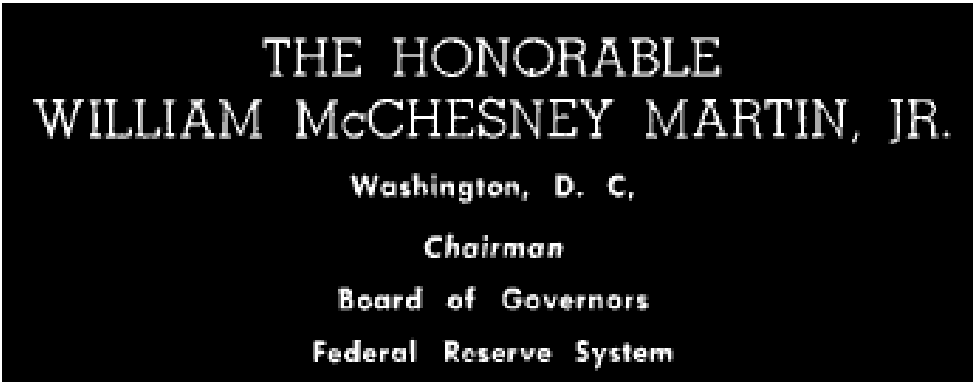

The Howland family traces all the way back to British colonial 1600s Massachusetts Plymouth Colony! There’s no telling how much land around Boston the Howlands acquired long ago. Fur trading, plantations, horses and cattle brought the Howlands more wealth and they were associated with the prominent Carver family, represented in The Pilgrims Society later by Clifford Carver of the American Whaling Company and other interests. Howland Murphy (Pilgrims 2014) is president of Brittany Capital Group at 666 Fifth Avenue NYC! Brittany works with hedge funds, invests in distressed assets and much more. Marvin's old man was a Pilgrims member and a Wall Street financier at Hornblower Hemphill Noyes an important investment bank raising money for industrial silver users for years. Forward to 1974 Pilgrims NYC list, Martin and Marvin are still there; Mason was chairman of the executive committee of Union Carbide (Silver Users Association); trustee National Safety Council; director Metropolitan Life Insurance--

Martin, Jr., The Hon. William
McChesney, K.B.E.
Marvin, John Howland
Mason, Jr., Birny

Notice the difference in Martin from The Pilgrims 1969? He was now a KBE, Knight of the British Empire; for services to the Royal family running their central bank here; same thing happened years later with Alan Greenspan (Alan still not a Pilgrims member as of 2014; a harder entry for Jews). 1978 list; Martin still a member. 1980 roster, Martin still a member. 1986, Martin still a member (Howland Marvin too). 1990 roster, Martin and Marvin still there; still in 1995. Martin expired in 1998. No record of his father having been a member; he knew many of them.

THE HONORABLE
WILLIAM McCHESNEY MARTIN, JR.
Washington, D. C.
Chairman
Board of Governors
Federal Reserve System

In “Paper Money Mobster Speaks” released in March 2007, I documented the Federal Reserve’s gold swaps conducted surreptitiously with 14 other central banks. This was two and a half years (as in 54 months) before Gold Anti-Trust “Action” Committee got there as of September 2009 by other means (FOIA request, Freedom of Information Act). I did it how? Oh, just by going to a university library and finding an admission later printed in “Vital Speeches of the Day” before a meeting of the International Monetary fund by Pilgrims Society member Alfred Hayes, then president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and the other major FED official working with Pilgrims Society member McChesney Martin! In fact, as of a speech on April 22, 1963, Hayes admitted to gold swaps in a speech at the Economic Club of New York! See for all the documentation you want at the site without a “PAY WALL” <http://nosilvernationalization.org/69.pdf> After leaving NYFED, the “Night Gallery” looking Hayes chaired Morgan Stanley International and became a director of booze giant National Distillers & Chemical ---

Gold swaps were virtually admitted in 1931! “THE FEDERAL RESERVE BANK DOES NOT REVEAL THE NAMES OF CORRESPONDENTS FOR WHOM IT EARMARKS GOLD.”---New York Times, September 25, 1931, front page!

What is GATA's MAJOR MALFUNCTION that they don't want to know anything about The Pilgrims Society? They've had many years to help get the word out and totally refuse! People create all manner of associations; knitting clubs; kite flying clubs; bowling leagues; racecar fans; recipe clubs; travel clubs; antique bottle collectors; trade and business groups; occupational associations of every type! Why should it be thought odd to think that apex precious metals price suppressors would form their own very “private” (secret out of public view) organization????????????? The Silver Users Association has been public; The Pilgrims Society not; but the documents I've acquired and posted should be convincing to anyone with a noggin! Now Powell boosts Calandra's subscription business despite this guy having to pay out $541,109.58 for illegal trading activities and Bill Murphy's well known $275,000 fine make them all the more dignified, huh? This isn't like Thom and Billy boy left a restaurant and took all the pepper in the shakers with them. Would Chris Powell like me to do a documentary on all the Pilgrims Society members that have resided in his state of Connecticut?

<http://www.gata.org/node/18631> asks people to buy subscriptions from a flake who jerked investors around.

Ronald H. Limbaugh, Willard P. Fuller - 2004 - Business & Economics

Harry Sears, energetic president and leading critic of federal gold policies, spent his development money erecting a new steel headframe and fixing up the old ...

Statement by Chairman Martin of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System
on S. 1427, Repealing Certain Silver Legislation, before the Subcommittee on the Federal Reserve System of the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency, July 13, 1955.

Existing legislation fixes the price at which silver is purchased by the Treasury, and sets a price below which the Treasury cannot sell silver. The market price of silver has been such, in recent years, that this existing legislation has caused all silver domestically produced to be sold to the Treasury. To this extent, the role played by silver in our monetary system has been increased. S. 1427 proposes to stop this process by repealing those provisions of existing legislation which fix the price at which the Treasury must buy silver.

Silver was fixed by law at 71.1 cents per oz! See “Users Demand 71 Cent Silver” released in May 2009 at

<http://nosilvernationalization.org/95.pdf>

The Federal Reserve System is, of course, concerned primarily with the effect upon monetary policy of silver purchases under existing legislation. We are not prepared to say that the effect of the silver purchases necessitated by existing legislation has seriously complicated our problems of monetary management in recent years. It is true that these purchases, when monetized, may increase member bank reserves. But as compared with other factors influencing member bank reserves in recent years, their effects on reserves have been relatively small; and these effects can be offset, if necessary, by other operations of the Federal Reserve System. Since these purchases are unnecessary from the standpoint of monetary policy, the Board of Governors has no interest in the continuance of existing legislation with respect to silver purchases.

Gradually moving the nation off silver coinage! However remember there are factions inside The Pilgrims who disagree as to when, what and how to go about things; but you'll never see the Society mentioned in print nor hear it on TV! Major Democrat and Republican political personalities NEVER mention it! (Tucker Carlson is a second generation member!) In “Our American Dollar” speech by Martin at the American Finance Conference sponsored by the American Finance Association in Washington D.C. on November 4, 1957, Martin read something from a source he identified as a Midwestern newspaper during the 1896 presidential campaign, during which time William Jennings Bryan and other “silverites” were very vocal; notice even then they were seeking to increase the silver to gold ratio, and you see this same activity today--- (if too hard to read, make screenshot, edit, paste onto Word form, size enlarge) ---

This is entitled "Not a Party Question," and it reads:

"Why should not both Parties declare in favor of a sound and stable currency? Honest money is not a Party question and should never be made such. Democrats and Republicans are not divided upon the question of the length of the yardstick or the ounces in a pound weight. Why should anybody seek to draw Party lines in the number of cents in a dollar? There are voters now in both Parties who favor the free coinage of silver at the fiat ratio of 16 to 1, when the commercial ratio, the real ratio, the ratio of Jefferson, Jackson and Benton will be 31 to 1. The question as to what constitutes a dollar is one of fact and of morals, not of theory or selfishness. If both Parties should declare for sound money and against the free coinage of silver at the existing false ratio, they could then fight the Presidential campaign upon legitimate political issues, the question of taxation, our foreign policy, limitations of the Federal power, the prevention of monopolies, and other matters of principle of theory, upon which the voters are divided by their convictions or their interests. Such a declaration by both National Conventions would do more for the revival of business and the promotion of national prosperity than anything else that can be done in the realm of politics. All business and all forms of labor require a stable currency of the highest standards."

Some may be unaware that the gold price saw $40 in the Early 1960s. In a speech called "Prosperity for Free Men" at The annual meeting of the Association of Reserve City Bankers At Boca Raton, Florida on April 11, 1961, Martin said---

The continuing accumulation of foreign claims on American dollars and the outflow of gold reached a stage where confidence in the American dollar was being questioned in overseas financial centers and it gave rise, as you may remember, to a short but dramatic speculative upbidding in the price of gold on the London market last fall.

Plunderers are capable of huge hypocrisy; note the title Of Martin's speech and their worry about rising gold rates.

On December 5, 1961, at the annual meeting in New York of the Tax Foundation, FED chairman Martin stated---

On the international front, to help hold down the outflow of capital and gold prompted by the continuing balance of payments deficit, the Federal Reserve has been operating to see that the outflow is not aggravated by the pull of international differentials in interest rates.

FED chief admits to interference in markets!

Does anyone seriously believe we can indefinitely avert a damaging drain of capital and gold resources except by taking actions to eradicate the fundamental causes?

Note that after silver was disposed of less than 4 years later, The FED started to downplay fiscal gold still more.

At the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce on December 13, 1961, Martin expressed worry about gold demands---

During 1960 the balance-of-payments problem was intensified by an outflow of short-term capital. One cause of this outflow was the difference in short-term interest rates in this country and short-term rates abroad. In payment of part of the deficit, gold flowed out of the country at a rapid rate. A continuing accumulation of foreign claims on American dollars, and the outflow of gold, reached the stage where the stability of the American dollar was being questioned in foreign financial centers. The situation had become critical.

On January 30, 1962, speaking before the Joint Economic Committee of Congress, Martin mentioned the Exchange Stabilization Fund, to this day, an Entity unknown to the vast public---

Until recently official operations by the United States to maintain the exchange value of the dollar have been limited to purchases and sales of gold by the Treasury's Stabilization Fund--at $35 an ounce--to foreign monetary authorities for monetary purposes. Recent developments, however, have made it desirable for the United States to play an active role in exchange markets themselves.

Addressing the House Committee on Banking and Currency on February 28, 1962, Martin expressed more fears of Foreigners chasing gold via dollar conversion---

Until equilibrium is achieved in our payments accounts, there will be a risk that the flow of dollars into the hands of foreigners might become larger than they would be willing to hold. This state of affairs could lead to recurrent drains on our gold stock. And even if the dollars are not presented by foreign central banks to our Treasury for redemption in gold, the feeling of the financial community that the dollar balances of foreigners may be excessive could affect dollar rates adversely in foreign-exchange markets.

Massaging the world finance system again admitted to---

In case of established need, the IMF would sell to the United States for dollars the major foreign convertible currencies that the IMF would borrow from the other participating countries. The United States could then use these currencies to buy up dollars offered in the market by private holders, and to redeem dollars acquired by foreign central banks in excess of the amounts they are willing to hold. This would tend to prevent dollar holdings of foreign central banks from becoming a drain on our monetary gold stock.

On June 14, 1962, Martin addressed the Harvard University Alumni Association. He mentioned waving a wand to have more gold at Fort Knox. Yes; especially since today, there may not be any gold There at all. But he couldn't have foreseen the demand for gold Becoming sharply reduced nearly 50 years into the future by a Weird barrage of cryptocurrencies, which draw funds away From precious metals (say what you will!) ----

Few needs could be so pressing at this time as that for rational economic thought. Underscoring that need are such ideas as "only Washington can save us," on the one side, and "someone must save us from Washington," on the other.

But there are other examples of that need. One is a notion, recurrently advanced, that if the Federal Reserve were merely to wave the wands of monetary policy we could have more new homes, more rapid construction of vitally needed schools, hospitals, and other community facilities, more new automobiles, more new highways to relieve the traffic jams we have already, and perhaps more gold in Fort Knox too.

(Statement by William M. Martin Jr. for United States Information Agency) ---

Great care was taken, when the United States Congress entrusted the power of money management to the Federal Reserve System during President Wilson's administration nearly half a century ago, to safeguard that power from becoming a device that could be controlled either by private interests, on the one hand, or political interests on the other.

Big load of hypocritical manure from Martin denying the FED is "a device controlled by private interests."

On December 9, 1963 in New York, addressing the U.S. Council of the International Chamber of Commerce, FED chairman Martin made these statements---

In order to fulfill its commitment to gold convertibility, the U. S. needs adequate gold reserves. These reserves need not be so large as to cover all dollar holdings of foreign monetary authorities; in this respect, the U. S. position is like that of a bank, and banks do not--and need not--hold cash balances equal to their liabilities. But the gold reserves must be large enough to give full assurance that even under adverse circumstances the United States would at all times remain able to fulfill all legitimate requests of foreign monetary authorities for gold purchases. That we stand ready to use our gold to meet our international obligations--down to the last bar of gold, if that be necessary--should be crystal clear to all: the Federal Reserve itself, let me remind you, has ample power under the Federal Reserve Act, should the necessity arise, to suspend the statutory reserve requirements against Federal Reserve deposits and notes, and to make any needed part of our gold stock available for sale to foreign monetary authorities.

Fractional reserve banking; a fraud existing long before this Miscreant was set loose on America's money system!

“WE STAND READY DOWN TO THE LAST BAR OF GOLD” (to Suppress gold prices! We see this resolute stance more So in silver today, with the anemic low hammered price!)

And I should refer here to the supplementary step taken by our Treasury to offer to foreign official holders of dollars non-marketable medium-term Treasury obligations denominated, if desired, in the holder's currency and with maturities flexibly tailored to the holder's needs. These bonds provide foreign monetary authorities an alternative opportunity to invest accumulated dollars instead of converting them into gold. Thus they help to conserve our gold resources.

More Pilgrims Society artifices to maintain the $35 gold cap!

On July 1, 1964, speaking at a session of the Legal and Monetary Subcommittee of the Government Operations Committee of the United States House of Representatives, FED chief Martin made these remarks---

Statement of
Wm. McC. Martin, Jr., Chairman,
Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System,
Concerning the Coin Shortage before the Legal and Monetary Affairs Subcommittee of the Committee on Government Operations of the House of Representatives
~~June 30, 1964~~

JUL 1 1964

We are experiencing a critical coin shortage that can be overcome only by a rapid and substantial increase in production. Normally, coins flow into circulation and back into the Federal Reserve Banks in much the same manner as currency does. But in recent years demand for coin has grown in unprecedented fashion. As commercial banks have found themselves with less and less excess coin, the return flow to the Reserve Banks has dwindled. Deliveries of new coin from the Mint have risen, but this added supply has been more than offset

The entire USA public wasn't asleep; perhaps over a million People but certainly hundreds of thousands, were holding Silver dimes, quarters and halves out of circulation after Reading news accounts that Congress was deliberating by the drying up of return flows of coin from circulation. Today, as shown in the attached chart, the return flow has shrunk to the point where it is now less than the amount of new coin received from the Mint; in more normal times, the return flow was nine times as great as receipts from the Mint. In consequence, inventories have fallen to the point where the Reserve Banks have been unable to deliver coins on request, but instead have been forced to ration coins in order to distribute the limited supply on a fair basis.

1964 dates are of course the most available silver coin issues,
Mint production was increased while the vending machine and
Other industries were in a state of panic!

As the shortage has become more critical, we have considered various methods of dealing with it. To meet the heavy seasonal demand for coins in late 1963, we tried to induce larger return flows of coin by accepting deposits of wrapped coin from banks and by paying transportation charges on shipments from nonmember banks, but we achieved only limited success. We have previously recommended that the Treasury be authorized to discontinue changing the mintage date on coins each year, and we now support the Secretary's proposal for legislation to this effect. Keeping the 1964 date, particularly on Kennedy half dollars, should lessen the extent to which coins are withdrawn from circulation by collectors and speculators.

The American Bankers Association was vocal about discontinuing Dates on coin issues to dampen collectors interest. An

Large number of 1964 quarters in 90% silver were in fact issued from
The mints in the first few months of 1965, still stamped 1964,
Before the consummation of the Coinage Act of 1965.

Production must be increased substantially this year and next, and the new Mint will not be in operation soon enough for that. Estimates by the Federal Reserve Banks of their coin requirements for fiscal year 1965 indicate a need for 6.8 billion pieces, considerably more than the 4,970 million pieces (excluding silver dollars) contemplated by H. R. 10532. The need for increased production is heightened by the fact that demand for coins can be expected to rise seasonally later this year. The attached table shows the estimates of the Reserve Banks as to their needs for coin in fiscal 1965 and 1966.

Below you see the explanation, in this case not a falsehood on
The part of this inveterate liar, as to why 1964 coin issues Increased so much over 1963; dimes increased by factor of 2.368; quarters by 3.645 and halves by 4.652. The Fact of Kennedy having been assassinated added
To collectors and speculators wanting to Hold Kennedy halves; banks
Imposed rationing.

Needs of this kind are extremely difficult to predict with accuracy, and these estimates could be substantially above or below the mark. But we in the Federal Reserve System are convinced that the only safe course at this point is to flood the market with coins in order to remove the incentive to hold on to excess coin, and that normal considerations of cost and efficiency in production are of secondary importance at this time. We have urged the Secretary of the Treasury to take steps to increase production, and we welcome the recent announcement of proposals to accomplish substantial increases in fiscal year 1965. Increases are sorely needed, particularly before the seasonal increase in demand that may be expected this fall, and we urge the Congress to provide whatever funds and authority may be required for this purpose.

On July 30, 1964, speaking at the University of Arkansas, FED chairman Martin stated---

On the international front, to help hold down the outflow of capital and gold prompted by the continuing balance of payments deficit, the Federal Reserve has been operating to see that the outflow is not aggravated by the pull of international differentials in interest rates.

On February 1, 1965, Martin was again before Congress, that time urging the gold reserve requirement be softened; par for him.

On February 2, 1965, this time before the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency, Martin was hammering at it again, this time with support from Democrat New York Senator Jacob Javits, who later voted for the Coinage Act of 1965, removing most silver from American coinage. Javits had a record very amenable to the Silver Users Association. On June 27, 1967, The Pilgrims Society in The City financial district of London hosted Senator Javits at a dinner meeting (“The Pilgrims of Great Britain,” short run book, 2002, page 56). Obviously being in the vest pocket of The Pilgrims organization, Senator Javits was completely willing to legislate national policy ever more and more progressively in the direction of “softer” (more inflatable) currency! Javits center and Connecticut Senator Ribicoff (both voted for the 1965 Coinage Act) getting marching orders from Pilgrims Society kingpin David Rockefeller---

In a speech entitled "Dollars, Gold and International Payments" on February 11, 1965, at the annual meeting of the Bond Club of New York, FED chairman Martin reiterated his remarks before Congress over a week earlier and restated his determination to hold the gold price at $35 the ounce---

Second, what we must constantly strive for in the conduct of our monetary and fiscal affairs is to provide assurance to every holder of the U. S. dollar--at home or abroad--of a full measure of value for his money. That requires that we make it a prime objective of national policy to preserve the integrity of the dollar, both in respect to its domestic purchasing power and to its international convertibility into gold, at $35 an ounce.

Martin noted that President Johnson the day before this Speech also vowed to hold gold at $35 the ounce!

Johnson in a special message to Congress in which the President declared emphatically that "the dollar is, and will remain, as good as gold, freely convertible at $35 an ounce."

ONLY for foreign dollar holders however!

Now I'd like to take up the earlier Presidential proposal, to amend the gold reserve requirements, which now has been approved by the House of Representatives by a vote of 300 to 82 and is to come up for consideration in the Senate in the near future.

Sellouts are so easy to come by because politicians
Need contributions to fund their campaigns.

The Federal Reserve Act, as it stands, requires each Federal Reserve Bank to maintain a gold certificate reserve of at least 25 per cent against its Federal Reserve notes in actual circulation, plus a further gold certificate reserve of at least 25 per cent against the deposits it holds.

You see where Martin was leading
With this; towards "softer" money!

The amendment the President has proposed would retain the requirement of a gold certificate reserve of 25 per cent or more against Federal Reserve notes, which constitute the principal part of our currency today. But it would eliminate the requirement of a like reserve against the deposits, which consist mainly of member banks' funds.

He just confirmed it; march towards full fiat!

In the half century since the enactment of the Federal Reserve Act, the function of gold in our monetary system has undergone fundamental change. More than three decades ago, coinage of gold, redemption of bank notes and deposits in gold, and private acquisition and holding of monetary gold were discontinued in this country. Domestically, these actions in effect ended the private use of gold as a store of value. Internationally, they enlarged the availability of U. S. gold for official settlements with other governments in response to the needs of our foreign commerce and investment.

Foreign dollar holders received

Better treatment than our Own people!

Gold certificate reserves of the Federal Reserve
Banks today are considerably below the peak of $23.4 billion they reached in September 1949, when U. S. held about 70 per cent of the free world's monetary gold.

American world power was firmly established with the defeat
Of the Axis Powers in 1945; peak gold holdings added
To this power! But today, WHAT?

As you know, the Federal Reserve has acted to prevent the outflow of gold from exerting a deflationary impact upon our economy. To this end, the Federal Reserve offset the effects of the decline in its gold certificate holdings by expanding its holdings of U. S. Government securities. In addition, the System further increased its Government security holdings in order to sustain an expansion of bank credit consistent with a growing economy and a relatively stable average of prices.

Tricks, artifices and near wizardry and enchantment to Lessen the Treasury's outflow of gold!

Accordingly, the time seems ripe for legislative changes in the reserve requirements that will, as President Johnson said in his Economic Report,

" . . . place beyond any doubt the ability of the Federal Reserve to meet its responsibility for providing an adequate but not excessive volume of bank reserves, "

and

" . . . place beyond any doubt our ability to use our gold to make good our pledge to maintain the gold value of the dollar at $35 an ounce with every resource at our command. "

Here again we see the conspirators intent at that time to cap gold;
It's the same mentality a half century later capping silver so low!

Next he made quite the admission showing so many economists
Without clothes---

Let me say in closing that all of us need to be mindful that sound money is not established by statute alone.

Addressing the Alumni Federation of Columbia University in New York on June 1, 1965, FED chairman Martin spoke of an evident wish to prevent gold hoarders “getting windfall profits.” Of course, that opposition would never extend to Pilgrims Society members making gains with gold or even with the more hated silver---Columbia started as King’s College in 1754 named for King George II of England; its name was changed to Columbia in 1784 when it reopened after disruption by the Revolutionary War; however, the disquieting and unsettling royalist image remained---

But no international agency or conference could prevent gold hoarders from getting windfall profits; could prevent those who hold a devalued currency from suffering corresponding losses; could prevent central banks from

Well just damn! Gold hoarders shouldn't experience robust profits feeling defrauded if they had trusted in the repeated declarations of the President of the United States and of the spokesmen of U. S. monetary authorities and kept their reserves in dollars rather than in gold. To this day, the French, Belgian, and Netherlands central banks have not forgotten that the 1931 devaluation of sterling wiped out their capital; and much of the antagonism of those countries against the use of the dollar as an international reserve asset should be traced to the experience of 1931 rather than to anti-American feelings or mere adherence to outdated monetary theories.

England went off the gold standard in 1931, a move cheered by Pilgrims Society member J.P. Morgan Jr. Martin blathered
About “OUTDATED MONETARY THEORIES.”

But most importantly, no international agency or conference could prevent a sudden large increase in the gold price from having inflationary consequences for those countries that hoarded gold, and deflationary consequences for those that did not. And the gold holding countries are precisely those whose economies are least in need of an inflationary stimulus since they are most prosperous-- not prosperous because they are holding gold, but holding gold because they are prosperous; in contrast, those that do not hold gold are most in need of further expansion. Hence the inflationary and deflationary effects of an increase in the price of gold would be most inequitably and most uneconomically distributed among nations.

He said nations holding more gold would be harmed most by inflation, yet

He took steps to slow the Treasury gold outflow here; so the crazy $35

Price cap could be held longer. Some gold miners DID complain
As their costs were rising; silver miners also! Today they Are more muzzled and "kept!"

If then we doubt the wisdom of the three most fashionable recent proposals--to increase the dollar price of gold, to return to pure gold-standard principles, or to delegate monetary policy to an international agency--what should be our position? And what is the outlook for solving present and future difficulties in international monetary relations, and thus for avoiding a repetition of the disasters of 1929-33?

Martin continued his lying ways! Increasing the dollar price of gold

Was pure poison! He mentioned the Crash year of 1929 and the Depression years of the early 1930s and intentionally omitted To admit the Great Depression was NOT caused by the October 1929

Stock market crash; but rather by his British "Pilgrim Partners" Dumping hundreds of millions of silver ounces out of British India onto the world markets, which intentional plan Wrecked silver's use in world commerce! First, most observers agree that to a large extent the disaster of 1929-33 was a consequence of maladjustments born of the boom of the twenties.

To be convinced how the British attack against monetary silver

Was 95% of the causation of The Great Depression, click on <http://silverstealers.net/tss.html> to see what Senators, Vancouver newspapers and the Shanghai Weekly Review were saying!

Second, most observers agree that the severity of the Great Depression was largely due to the absence of prompt anti-recession measures.

The word "silver" was nowhere to be found in Martin's speech!

Third, and most importantly, most observers agree that the severity of the Great Depression was due largely to the lack of understanding of the international implications of national events and policies.

President Lyndon Baines Johnson delivered a message to the Committee on Banking and Currency of the 89th Congress (House of Representatives document #199) on the subject of silver coinage. This was dated June 3, 1965. It was a hatchet job of Pilgrims Society distortions against silver as money. Johnson's Pilgrims Society handlers didn't want Americans on an appreciating currency; silver had to be disposed of. Elgin Groseclose, an economist little remembered today, called for nominal silver coin values to be officially doubled in commercial use; that suggestion was met with a hail of jeers from the fiat crowd. There absolutely was enough silver to go around for coinage and industrial use both BUT NOT AT THOSE PRICES! See "LBJGWB Silver," released in March 2006 at <http://nosilvernationalization.org/57.pdf> for lots of details on LBJ's war against silver coinage! Groseclose was well known to readers of the Commercial & Financial Chronicle--- relations with these PILGRIMS SOCIETY UNITED STATES BRITISH CROWN COLONIES---

This almost universal use of dollars by monetary authorities is a reflection of the widespread employment of the dollar by private traders and financial institutions, even in transactions that do not involve the United States. The use of the dollar as a reserve is closely related to its function as a medium of exchange, and reflects as well the predominant position of the U. S. economy and the ready convertibility of dollars into gold at the established price of $35 per ounce. Certainly any proposal for changing the international monetary system must respect these functions performed by dollars and must avoid the introduction of incentives to convert dollar holdings into gold.

Herewith an excerpt from “The Conspiracy Against Gold” I released in May 2006 at

<http://nosilvernationalization.org/59.pdf>

“Lewis W. Douglas, ambassador to Great Britain, 1947-1950 became a longtime director of Newmont Mining. This shows the problem again. The Pilgrims of Great Britain, 2002, page 138, shows Douglas laughing with the Earl of Halifax, who as British Viceroy over India assassinated silver all over the world in 1926 by dumping immense quantities of melted silver rupees on world markets. Page 130 shows Douglas with Sir John Anderson, former Chancellor of the Exchequer. The Crown and its secret society of financiers opposes gold and silver as money, because they cannot create them; because they are honest money, and because they are highly dishonest people bent on wrecking and controlling the rest of us. By their actions they’ve prevented all the Spanish speaking countries to the South from having and remaining on silver and gold coinage, to enslave them to their banking giants. Douglas was on many major boards including General Motors. Douglas daughter Sharman married Andrew M. Hay of The Pilgrims of Great Britain. In an article with a laughable title, “The Case for Monetary Reform” that appeared in the Mining Congress

Journal, December 1965, Pilgrims member Douglas said (pages 52 and 54) ---

“There seems to be and probably ought to be, resistance on well-taken grounds to a sufficiently substantial increase in the price of gold. (page 52) No one, certainly not I, would denigrate the role which the IMF has played.”

At that time, Douglas was on the board of directors of gold major Newmont Mining! He was there to whip the long shareholders into submission! Years before Douglas on the Newmont board there was head of Chase National Bank, Albert H. Wiggin of The Pilgrims Society; Wiggin was a Rockefeller-Astor functionary---

In more recent years, Pilgrims Society member George B. Munroe has been on the Newmont Gold board, starting in 1997; he kicked his bucket in 2014. He was on a dizzying plethora of boards and had major connections!

Excerpts from Perring's intro of Martin
(Note no mention of The Pilgrims Society) --

William McChesney Martin has starred in a number of fields, but his most vital contribution has been as Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. In a sense he was born into the Federal Reserve System as his father worked in drafting the Federal Reserve Act and served as the first president of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis. William himself worked in the bank examination department of that institution for about a year after graduating from Yale.

As a Treasury official, he helped work out the historic Treasury-Fed accord of 1951, which freed the Fed from its wartime shackles and permitted it to apply its own policies instead of merely supporting those of the Treasury.

President Truman entrusted the carrying out of the reorganization to Mr. Martin by appointing him Governor and Chairman of the Board of the Federal Reserve System. Since then, three other Presidents have had the good judgment to reappoint him, so he will continue in office until 1970.

Soft-spoken, but firm, he is the arch enemy of inflation and a stubborn fighter for the Fed's independence. Not, as he says, the Fed's independence of the Government, but its independence within the government structure. There's quite a difference between the two things. Liberals in and out of government have frequently been pained by him, charging that his policies are too conservative. Actually he is more of a moderate than a conservative, if I understand definitions, because of his innovative and imaginative approach to problems. He is a symbol of orthodox money management to businessmen and bankers in the United States and overseas, but he is certainly no slave to orthodoxy. He is a sound money man, but has said he wants interest rates as low as possible, without having inflation.

Now from Martin's speech on March 18, 1968 at the Economic Club of Detroit---

I want to start today by making a few general observations, and these really have to do with the timing of the meeting that we're attending. I think all of us know about the gold crisis that has occurred, and the thing that it emphasizes clearly is something that I have stated a number of times before the Congress: that markets don't wait for Kings, or Presidents, or Prime Ministers, or Secretaries of the Treasury, or Chairmen of the Federal Reserve Board; there are inexorable forces that may be controlled for limited periods of time, but—no matter how many economists may try to make fun of it—the law of supply and demand still operates. And you may change the nature of supply and alter the composition of demand, but at some point these forces come together in an inexorable way and have to be dealt with. And I hope that the period we're going through may gradually bring to bear upon people's minds an understanding of the fact that "papering over" — "gadgetry" — "gimmicks"—do not solve problems. That it is fundamentals, not symptoms, that have to be dealt with.

Pilgrims Society conniver Martin mentioned “the Gold crisis that has occurred” meaning the unraveling of the spiderweb of monetary corruption that was the London Gold Pool, 1961-1968, capping the gold price at $35 by dumping gold from this pool of 8 central banks under Bank of England and Federal Reserve System hegemony. Yet Martin was forced to admit that price capping isn’t capable of holding gold prices low forever. On March 14, 1968, the USA requested their “Pilgrim Partners” the British suspend the London gold market; the following day the Queen ordered a bank holiday! Gold at $35 the ounce was becoming an unsustainable fiction! In “Florida Governor Laughs At Paper Gold” which I released in May 2010 I reviewed two speeches made by Claude R. Kirk Jr. who disputed the notions of FED chairman William McChesney Martin Jr. about real gold (“barbarous metal”) and the “special drawing rights” (SDR’s) of the International Monetary Fund. That presentation is at all times 100% free access (no “PAY WALL”) at <http://nosilvernationalization.org/105.pdf>

More from FED chief Martin---

The thing that our forefathers were seeking —and I think this is clearly apparent to students of the Federalist Papers, or of the American Revolution— more than anything else was freedom — liberty. They knew what tyranny was and they knew what the tyranny of clipping the coin was. Therefore, in the early stages of the development of this country, having had experience with the Continental Congress where the phrase “not worth a Continental” had developed, they were extremely careful about the handling of money. And under the Constitution Congress has the power over money, as it rightly should. Americans have been very careful and for many years preferred to risk possible misuse of the money power by private interests than put it into the hands of the state at that juncture. This was their basic philosophy and this was essentially the background of the Federal Reserve System that I’m dealing with in a broad way today.

Charlatan that he was, Pilgrims member Martin Pontificated on coin clipping and denying the Finance supremacy in the Federal Reserve Constituted removal of “misuse of the Money power by private interests.”

Now these, then, essentially are the facts of life in our economic body politic and I think what we have to face up to as a country is what was being brought home to us in these meetings about gold. Let me point out to you that I happen to believe that the dollar is stronger than gold. I happen to believe that the dollar rests on the productive capacity and the ingenuity and the resources of the United States—not on gold per se. I don't think there is any real question about that on the part of any thoughtful individual.

“THE DOLLAR IS STRONGER THAN GOLD”

---spokesman for the central committee of Fiat currency, The PILGRIMS Society!

Now what has been happening recently? I was involved a week ago and again this past week end with the central banks of the Western World. We have been evaluating this problem of gold. There has not been any great flight from the dollar.

Gold is about to really embarrass the FED dollar!

And along with that has come to the community a feeling that there must be some way to get out of this bind of balancing your accounts. There are some of my friends—and good friends—who say the answer is to raise the price of gold, because if we raise the price of gold we can avoid—at least for a few months—the problem of putting our balance of payments in order. I think the time has come when we've got to forget this business of just trying to buy a little time for a few months. Raising the price of gold is not going to solve the balance of payments problem. Raising the price of gold is not going to make our budget more manageable. It's just another gadget, if that's the course we follow.

Allowing a free market in gold, permitting markets
To use their money of choice, rather than have FED Dollars imposed on them---is a "GADGET," According to The PILGRIMS Society!

According to remarks Martin made, the second half of 1960 saw 42,857,142 ounces of gold exit the Treasury for foreign dollar holder conversion; that is to say, he mentioned $1.5 billion plus in gold, which if divided by $35 per ounce results in that figure. An interesting statistic for someone's investigation (statement before the Joint Economic Committee of Congress on March 7, 1961) keep this problem in perspective and recognize that in the long run there will not be enough gold in the world for use as the basis for currencies. All of our foreign friends realize and accept that, including the French. But what the French are saying to us — and here we must not attack the French — is that their diagnosis is that we are not showing any capacity for leadership; that we're not showing any capacity to handle our own affairs.

I want to close these brief and informal remarks by emphasizing again that a strong currency is a basic ingredient of a free and a strong society. I was very much impressed not long ago at a little fair in Lausanne in Switzerland when I went in to see an exhibit of money. The exhibit was not particularly spectacular, it wasn't interesting me very much, until I got to the end and there they had a placard on the wall, which had written on it, in French, German and Italian (and in parenthesis in English): "Good Money is Coined Freedom." I'm not sure that we have fully appreciated that over here.

Martin was doing his part to drag the world away

Per Jacobsson, who was one of the people I enjoyed working with most in this area and I think one of the really competent monetary economists and students, liked to tell before he died—and I'm sure some of you here have heard him tell this story—about how he spent four hours with General de Gaulle. He said to him, "General, if you really want to establish Jacobsson was a Swedish globalist who was with the British concoction known as the League of Nations in the 1920s, which was the British attempt at a world government. Idaho silver Senator William Borah, a defiant advocate of gold's private ownership, was justifiably known as "The Great Opposer" as his efforts resulted in America not entering into this attempted British Empire world government. Then in 1931 Jacobsson became a hack underling to Pilgrims Society member Gates McGarrah, first president of the Bank for International Settlements. Later the Money Power shuffled Jacobsson over to the IMF to staff there as a rep for the actual power people.

France, if you really want France to be the power that you think it ought to be, I tell you that you can't do it without a sound currency." And it was only a few months later that Jacques Rueff or someone else persuaded the General, who I doubt very much (and I'm speaking quite openly about this) is really a student of money, that this was the road to go. A substantial devaluation of the French franc followed and since then they have been trying to return to the old-fashioned gold standard.

The world is not going to return to the old-fashioned gold standard, France notwithstanding.

Charles DeGaulle was president of France 1959 through April 1969 and must not have favored France in the London Gold Pool as France withdrew well in advance of the LGP collapsing in March 1968.

That collapse immediately initiated a two tier price system in gold; foreigners could still take dollars to the Treasury Department and convert them into gold at $35 the ounce. It was the French far more than any other foreign dollar holders who “provoked” the Nixon closure of the Treasury gold teller window in August 1971. DeGaulle’s successor as president of France was Georges Pompidou, who was an official (1953-1962) of the Rothschild Bank in Paris! Now the Rothschilds are alleged to either be sole owners of the Federal Reserve System, or the dominant owners; so if that’s true, why would France still be draining the USA Treasury of gold? The reason for holding the gold price at $35 was to make the dollar look strong! I am not able to show which families own how much of the FED, but I can say definitely “if” the Rothschilds are there, they absolutely aren’t there all alone and may not be the biggest group back of the FED! The Rockefeller, Winthrops, Aldriches, Astors and others are back of the FED; and others (Haggin, Tevis, Mills). There are power struggles inside globalist groups like The Pilgrims Society, and not all the really powerful members will be in unison at all times. Main thing is to keep the Society’s existence unknown to the masses by using vastly inferior groups (Bilderberg, Skull & Bones Society, CFR and others) as distractions.

Now, a final remark. You will in the next few weeks be reading in the press — particularly if things should settle down for a few days, and I don't know whether they will or they won't — but you will be reading that, after all, this was just a “created” crisis, that there's really nothing to worry about here — we can spend our way into almost any position that we want. I'm sure that you will see a lot of articles to this effect. But the message that I'm trying to bring to you today, as strongly as I can, is that if we take that line, this country is going to go the same way that Athens went. There was a time in the world when the Athenian currency was exported all over the world, and stood as a more important asset than gold or silver or anything else. And yet in Athens' final days of glory, its currency began to be dispersed around the world in such a way that people no longer had confidence in it, or in Athens itself.

A “created crisis” he said, yes; one of their own making. Gold couldn't be held to $35 indefinitely, and gold miners costs were escalating since the FDR years. What was this FLAKE Martin raving about? There was no paper currency used by the ancient Athenians before they had coined money they used barter and continued with barter adjunct to coins from silver mined at Laurium. He appears to be saying there was a distinction between what the Athenians were using and gold and silver, and that PM coins were inferior to what else they were using! I am not aware of anything else they allegedly used besides barter and coin; Martin must have been on a euphoric Pilgrims Society high. A talent in those days was about 57 pounds of silver; similar to the silver content in a $1,000 face value bag of 90% coin without wear.

WILLIAM MCCHESENEY MARTIN, JR.: The London Gold Pool was organized in November, 1961, under entirely different circumstances than today, with the idea that we could keep a one-price system for gold and that this would be a desirable means of dealing with the fluctuations that were being engendered by speculation. It consisted of the countries that you read about yesterday that had the meeting — and France. France withdrew from the Gold Pool in the summer of last year.

Note the criminal inadequacy of Martin's response!

We invited only the participants in the Pool. Circumstances have changed and I think you have to face up to the fact that at the moment there has been a type of hysteria in the foreign exchange markets. And I believe that there has been a growing distrust of all currencies — not just the dollar; and that this is the situation that has to be dealt with.

How will The Pilgrims Society as of late 2018 see Dollar deterioration, dollar repudiation, and precious Metals as “the situation that has to be dealt with?” Is it “open fire” on Russia, China, Iran and North Korea, And nationalize under color of national emergency, Gold and silver in these United States?

This gold problem, I think, comes back to what I said earlier. I don't know what the price of gold should be as a commodity. It has become a standard of value, a measure. This is the evolution of gold and the basis of our credit machinery, as it developed historically from a system of barter. Don't forget that the only time that the dollar was devalued in terms of gold in this country was in 1934 when President Roosevelt was struggling with a price deflation of such magnitude that he was willing to try anything to start prices moving up again.

Comes more blather from Martin's drivel speech---

Yet you're going to read about a lot of people making a glib answer and saying, "Well, we've already devalued the dollar." Some people said we already devalued it when we instituted the Interest Equalization tax. Some people said we devalued it when the balance of payments program was drastically tightened on January 1st. And I have accepted all these as gadgets. But we have not, in fact, devalued the dollar in terms of gold and I, for one, am going to stick in here as long as I can, fighting to keep it from being devalued. I think the dollar is something we ought to be proud of.

These remarks above are the final excerpted statements to show you from that perverse speech to an audience of spooks. Martin gave notice he and his pals were going to battle against rising gold prices as hard and as long as possible. Finally in August 1971 they made the dollar nonconvertible into gold, to foreigners, something Americans had been living under since 1933. Martin didn't state his complete thought--- "I think the Pilgrims Society inconvertible dollar is something we ought to be proud of." Well, they finished its inconvertibility 41 months later.

Gold Run Problem

Nobody can measure exactly how these forces will be brought together, but I think it is quite obvious that this is the direction in which we will move.

Now, as I said earlier, what I am really talking about here is this problem of the gold run that occurred.

We saw in Britain, for a long time, this dilly-dalling around with coming to grips with either the balance of payments situation or their domestic deficit until finally this November the British devalued and their devaluation, despite the fact that it has been foreshadowed by temporary papering over for a period of nearly three years, was a shock to the Western world, and it placed immediately a strain upon paper currencies all over the world.

Aww gee, paper currencies were gasping!

Within a week of the devaluation of the British pound, there was not a flight from the dollar, actually the flight was from the pound into dollars to get gold.

The flight was from other currencies into dollars in order to get gold.

It was a general deterioration, disintegration of confidence in paper money generally, and this precipitated the first gold rush that we had following the pound and this was resolved by the gold pool at Frankfurt, where Under Secretary Deming did an effective job of pulling the gold pool together and saying that it is essential that we deal with this problem.

Deming wasn't a Pilgrims member; his son was with NYFED and Chemical Bank. These remarks about a Deterioration of confidence in paper money are Almost 51 years ago! Will we get to April 2019 Without a worldwide fiat money failure?

Keep Focusing

I think it is absolutely vital that we keep focusing on this problem in a direct and in a sensible way.

Well, we then found in the course of another six weeks that we were in the midst of another gold run.

And, in the six weeks preceding this gold run, again we found that the pressure on Congress to do anything, which had intensified with the devaluation of the pound and with the first two gold runs, was now beginning to get even worse as they found that the balance of payments program that the President had announced was not being terribly effective.

They wish people would be stupid like most are and Not protect themselves with precious metals.

I remember the 1931 period very well because I went on the floor of the Stock Exchange the day that England went off the gold standard and everything was pandemonium around the place and it was the end of an era in one sense, but it was basically a period when you could see that there were fundamental changes taking place.

The senior "Pilgrim Partners" in London have usually led the way in the march towards world funny money!

Third Gold Crisis

When March came along, and we were in our third gold crisis, serious gold crisis, with the support of the President and the Secretary of the Treasury, I went to the Bank for International Settlements in Basle and I spent two days talking to my counterparts there.

The first two presidents of the BIS were Pilgrims Society

I don't know what the price of gold ought to be as a commodity. I say to this group that I studied it off and on for a long time and I happen to think that it is less than $35 an ounce as a commodity, whatever artistic and industrial value it may have.

But, I don't think you can separate it from gold as a standard, and gold as a standard is an evolution from barter and it has become the cornerstone of our monetary expansion of our credit base.

I have no expectation that gold will be demonetized in the near future.

Gold is coming back and its historic subsidiary, silver
Will be along for better gains in the event.

What we need is a supplement to gold, not a substitute for gold, and in this the Stockholm meeting which culminated after meetings in The Hague and two meetings in London and in Rio, brought under the expertise of the International Monetary Fund, a conscious and deliberate means of creating, on a joint mutually basis where everyone can participate to the extent they want to participate, a new unit of account that can circulate between central banks as a supplement to gold, not as a substitute for it.

Statement before House Committee on Banking and Currency, May 1, 1968---

The Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System supports the proposed Amendment to the IMF Articles of Agreement, and the legislation which is being put forward to bring about U.S. ratification of the Amendment to provide for establishment of the Special Drawing Rights facility. The Board believes that establishment of this facility will be very much in the interests of the United States.

Inasmuch as top economists are supposed to be

Establishment of the system of Special Drawing Rights in the International Monetary Fund will mean that the growth of international monetary reserves will for the first time be subject to rational international decision. The need for establishing such a system arises from vital interests in maximum employment, production, and trade. All countries want their reserves to grow over time, with the growth of international trade and payments, but the supply of existing kinds of reserve assets, including gold, clearly will not be enough to meet this need.

SDR's was another step in synthetic money manufacture.

The fact that the U. S. dollar is the principal vehicle and reserve currency is not a matter of coincidence or accident. Dollars became useful and convenient to hold because they could buy attractive goods; because large and efficient financial markets are available for investing dollars and earning interest on them; because the United States stands ready to convert dollars into gold and gold into dollars for foreign governments and central banks, and the United States has by far the largest gold reserve in the world; and, as a further point, because there have been relatively few periods of doubt about the dollar price of gold.

Since the national currency of the United States is used in this way as money--in fact, serving both the major functions of money--the United States is in effect a bank to the rest of the world.

With the establishment of the two-tier system, and improvement in the U. S. reserve position, talk about the official price of gold has subsided greatly. This is a healthy sign. I want to reassert what I said in a talk some 15 months ago--that an increase in the official price of gold is neither necessary nor desirable as a means of improving the workings of the international monetary system. It is unnecessary because Special Drawing Rights can provide for growth in world reserves in an equitable, systematic, and noninflationary manner. It is undesirable for many reasons, not the least of which is that it would turn back the clock of monetary history. I have no doubt that the present era in international monetary affairs will be viewed by historians as one in which individual nations managed to reconcile their sovereignty with their obvious interdependence by unprecedented progress in international cooperation. Such monetary cooperation takes place in many forums--the International Monetary Fund, the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, the Bank for International Settlements and numerous other bodies where groups of country representatives consult.

“In December 1968, President-elect Richard Nixon attempted to remove Martin as chairman of the Federal Reserve System and to replace him with Arthur Burns. While he was putting together his Cabinet, Mr. Nixon invited Martin to meet with him in New York City. Upon returning from the meeting, Martin reported to the Board as follows: Mr. Nixon invited him to accept the position of secretary of the Treasury in his new government. He said he had great confidence in Martin's ability to serve as the chief fiscal officer of the United States. He also said that he wanted to appoint Dr. Arthur F. Burns to be head of the Federal Reserve System. Martin said he thanked Mr. Nixon for the honor and expression of confidence in him, but he said he intended to serve out the balance of his Federal Reserve Board membership, which ran until the end of January 1970. Martin said Mr. Nixon expressed disappointment at his decision not to accept the Treasury appointment. But Martin said Mr. Nixon seemed even more disappointed that he would not be able to name Arthur Burns chairman of the Federal Reserve at the outset of his administration. Instead, he said he would bring Burns into the White House as counselor and then appoint him to be chairman of the Federal Reserve when Martin's term ended.”

THE MUTUAL LIFE
INSURANCE COMPANY
OF NEW YORK

Cosmos Club in DC of which Burns was a member---

C. Canby Balderston, vice chairman of the FED under Martin, was a governor of the Cosmos Club (“Who’s Who in America” 1966 page 103).

Burns was a Century Association Club member
In NYC; well interlocked with The Pilgrims---

Two of the interests Burns was a director of, Nation Wide Securities and Dividend Shares, were located at 1 Wall Street and run by the then president of The Pilgrims USA, second generation member Hugh Bullock. Notice Burns coauthored a book with Pilgrims Society fellow traveler Senator Jacob Javits who voted for the perverse Coinage Act of 1965!

COMPARE MARTIN (PRESBYTERIAN)
WITH JEWISH GREENSPAN, BERNANKE

Jews have sometimes been tapped to chair the Federal Reserve System to boost this fantasy on the part of so many that “the Rothschilds own all the central banks totally alone all by themselves” and “the Jews have all the money” well friends I can believe the Rothschilds have some piece of the FED, but absolutely not all of it and definitely well below a 15% interest. The NYC megabanks own the FED, and the dynastic families represented in The Pilgrims United States own those megabanks. Families behind those banks have in some if not most cases a long history tracing back to colonial times and they remained loyal to England during and after the Revolutionary War, or in some cases, were recovered to loyalty via the first and second United States Banks, 1791-1811 and 1816-1836. Their names include Livingston; Beekman; Schuyler; Van Rensselaer; Winthrop; Aldrich; Warner; Van Cortlandt; Astor; Du Pont; Mellon; Rockefeller; Harkness; Whitney; Roosevelt; Morgan; Baker; Haggin; Mills; Delafield; Dorrance; Duke; Reynolds; Cullman; Goelet; Bedford; Vanderbilt; Harriman; Huntington; Lehman; Loeb; Lamont; Schiff; Speyer; Schermerhorn; Drexel; Phipps; Pyne; Noyes; Iselin; Auchincloss; Ashforth; Berwind; Hutton; Stillman; Schieffelin; Pennoyer; Seligman; Mosbacher; Mortimer and several others. Most likely the Rockefellers are the single biggest group back of the FED. Cover of a 1952 book---

If the FED is ever overturned for precious metal money, all land titles owned by Pilgrims Society dynasties MUST be confiscated, because these have all been stolen primarily via Federal Reserve operations and the national debt!

We want to look at what happened with Ben Bernanke and Janet Yellen before and after the FED; plus Sir Alan Greenspan, knight of the British Empire! Greenspan headed the FED 1987-2006, just finishing second place behind Martin as the longest “serving” (gouging) FED chairman. In 1943 Greenspan was a music student studying the clarinet! (Later as we’ll see Bernanke was a waiter!)

Compare these upbringings with Martin, who grew up in a finance family! Wiki has this on Greenspan https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Alan_Greenspan ---

“Greenspan worked under Eugene Banks, a managing director at the Wall Street investment bank Brown Brothers Harriman, in the firm's equity research department” before arriving at the FED. To the best of my info, Greenspan has never been admitted into The Pilgrims; unless it’s happened as of 2015 or later. “Who’s Who in America,” page 163, 1978-1979 edition, has this on Eugene Banks who was Greenspan’s BOSS---another case of an Episcopalian bossing a Jew; common, but people don’t want to know about it since it disrupts their mythology---

Of the Jews that have been FED chief, it could however be argued that Greenspan was the most important, considering that after his FED tenure he was placed by his Episcopalian handlers in The Pilgrims Society on such boards as J.P. Morgan & Company; Capital Cities/ABC; General Foods; Mobil Oil; Pittston Company and Automatic Data Processing. He was also a hedge fund consultant. In 2002, Greenspan was knighted by Queen Elizabeth II for services to the British Empire; but given a “sta bene” (old Illuminati terminology for “you rise no higher”) as the Order of the British Empire is the “visible” Pilgrims Society, with perhaps 10 to 12 times more members, it’s an important outer ring! David B. Vietor (Episcopalian) appears in The Pilgrims NYC roster; note that Eugene Banks second marriage was to Barbara H. Vietor, almost certainly a relation. “We’re mostly family in The Pilgrims Society” is an unacknowledged slogan they conduct their affairs by, to assist in wealth concentration! Greenspan was admitted into the Trilateral Commission (seated left to right, Pilgrims Society member Peter G. Peterson; Pilgrims Society member Paul Volcker; deceased Pilgrims Society kingpin David Rockefeller) with “Mr. Magoo” Greenspan, standing, as only his SUPERIORS were allowed to use the furniture--- https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Ben_Bernanke ---

“After the Federal Reserve---

In a speech at the American Economic Association conference in January 2014, Bernanke reflected on his tenure as chairman of the Federal Reserve. He expressed his hope that economic growth was building momentum and stated that he was confident that the central bank would be able to withdraw its support smoothly. In an October 2014 speech, Bernanke disclosed that he was unsuccessful in efforts to refinance his home. He suggested that lenders "may have gone a little bit too far on mortgage credit conditions." Since February 2014, Bernanke has been employed as a Distinguished Fellow in Residence with the Economic Studies Program at the Brookings Institution. On April 16, 2015, it was announced publicly that Bernanke will work with Citadel, the $25 billion hedge fund founded by billionaire Kenneth C. Griffin, as a senior adviser. In the same month it was revealed that Bernanke would also join Pimco as a senior advisor."

The Brookings Institution in the District of Columbia is in anyone's book, one of the five to ten most important "think tanks" in the entire world." After Pilgrims Society member, Treasury Secretary (1961-1965) Douglas Dillon left Treasury, he chaired Brookings as well as being on boards like AT & T, Dillon Read & Company (Silver Users Association investment bank) and silver antagonist Chase Manhattan Bank. Bernanke gets dole from a Presbyterian, Kenneth Griffin---no info as yet on Griffin being a Pilgrims member. However, Griffin could be since the 2015 list which I don't have; he has plenty of connections including Harvard University; he works with Bill Gates; Gates like Greenspan is a member of the "visible" Pilgrims Society, the Order of the British Empire; and Griffin is a trustee of the Whitney Museum of American Art, founded in 1931 by Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney, an heiress with two big finance names from The Society. Griffin also has given money to the Rockefeller founded University of Chicago and other Pilgrims Society entities including Field Museum of Natural History, American Museum of Natural History and Museum of Modern Art.

We also read that Bernanke is a senior adviser to PIMCO, Pacific Investment Management Company, another large operation.

As to FLUNKY par excellence, goofy faced patsy Janet Yellen, the nominal chief of the Federal Reserve from February 2014 to February 2018, she started in 1971 as an assistant professor at Harvard https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Janet_Yellen ---

“After the Federal Reserve---

“On February 2, 2018, Brookings Institution announced that Yellen would be joining the think-tank as a Distinguished Fellow in Residence. She will be affiliated with the Hutchins Center on Fiscal and Monetary Policy, joining her predecessor and former Federal Reserve Chair Ben Bernanke.” In 2012 Yellen was elected a distinguished fellow of the American Economic Association, a virulently anti-silver group based at Vanderbilt University. Yellen is even more of a puppet flunky figurehead than Bernanke was!

Now we'll contrast these Jewish FED chiefs to William McChesney Martin Jr. and in addition to the high powered and corrupt stuff we've already seen of him, first we'll look at his "Who's Who in America" info from the 1940 volume, page 1704; then we'll fast forward to Martin's much expanded biographical sketch from the mid 1970s--- (his daddy first scan)

Notice directly above Martin Jr. had an office at 11 Wall Street! The New School for Social Research received early funding from the Rockefeller Foundation; possibly suggesting the Rockefellers chose William McChesney Martin Jr. to be a financial wheelhorse for them---it's a eugenics type operation with students from over 70 countries ready to spread globalism when they return home---

The Alibi Club in DC is another “nest” of so called Americans loyal to Mother England; note below their having the Union Jack by the American flag! PILGRIM PARTNERS! At Wiki --- “The Alibi Club is a private, traditional gentlemen's club in Washington DC. Its members comprise the Washington elite, including presidents, senators, and diplomats, among other prominent figures. In 1884, seven Washingtonians founded the Alibi Club, a private social club consisting of prominent political and social figures. Its name derived from the club practice of providing an alibi when the whereabouts of a member was questioned by the member's family. The club's founding purpose was to foster "mutual improvement, education, and enlightenment" among members of Washington society. Membership also extended to out of town figures from New York City, Boston and Philadelphia, most likely to share information between communities and help in the development of strategies to address civic issues. Throughout its history, it has hosted numerous world leaders, including King Leopold of Belgium, Prince Albert of Belgium, Prince Henry of Prussia and Viceroy Li Hung Chang. Membership is limited to fifty, with new members admitted upon unanimous vote after the death of a previous member. Membership is not revealed to outsiders, and the first public notice of membership is often in a member's obituary.

Some of the Alibi Club's most prominent members have included: President George H.W. Bush, his father, Senator Prescott Bush, Supreme Court Justices Potter Stewart and Stanley F. Reed, Allen Dulles (CIA) and John Foster Dulles, Speaker of the House Nicholas Longworth, and General George C. Marshall." Dwight Davis, William McChesney Martin Jr.'s

In bank examination department Federal Reserve Bank, St. Louis, 1928-1929. Head statistical department Albert Gallatin Edwards & Sons, 1929-1931, partner, 1931-1938. Member New York Stock Exchange, 1931-1938, governor, 1935-1938, chairman committee on constitution, 1937-1948.

I add the above scan because Albert Gallatin (next) was U.S. Treasury Secretary (1801-1814) who helped found New York University; he helped secure funding for the monumental Louisiana Purchase and he favored the first and second United States Banks, actual central bank forerunners of the Federal Reserve System! People who've heard of A.G. Edwards mostly are unaware what the A.G. initials stand for! Additionally, "The Pilgrims of the United States" (short run book, 2003) shows on page 152 Albert Eugene Gallatin was secretary 1921-1927 of The Pilgrims NYC; he was a trustee of New York University and a director of the France America Society; the Gallatins came from old wealthy Swiss roots and Gallatin County in Montana, Kentucky and Illinois is named for them! The original Gallatin was a banking associate of John Jacob Astor who was known as the “Landlord of New York”--- lots of Astor reps in The Pilgrims---

Diana Martin is a Washington D.C. psychiatrist of nearly 40 years in “practice” according to <http://articles.latimes.com/1998>

One of Martin’s surviving daughters, Diana Martin, resides in D.C.! It’s the same person! People who fault central bankers are “clinically disordered,” right? Yes! They have “mandatory compulsions and forcible disorders!” And are “afflicted with gold and silver hoarding illnesses!” They need court ordered treatment with Eli Lilly “medications!”

You can't get deep covered up details on Martin from <https://www.zerohedge.com/news/2014-09-21/fed-then-and-now-%E2%80%93-remembering-william-mcchesney-martin-jr> Zero Hedge as regarding The Pilgrims Society, they have absolutely no info whatsoever and most likely it would have no meaning to this TAME, BLAND, SUFACE SCRATCHING site! The Independent of August 21, 1998 noted Martin had “an astonishingly rapid rise in the financial world” admitted what Martin somewhat glossed over in his “Who’s Who” info; that he was never at any time at the slightest risk of being sent into combat, much less to any front lines---notice the account said Martin “found himself on the Military Allocations Board” as if he got there purely by random chance---

In 1941 he volunteered for the army, and not long afterwards found himself on the Military Allocations Board, with the rank of colonel. After the war he was made a director of the Export-Import bank by President Truman, and then its president. In 1949 he became Assistant Secretary of the Treasury for international affairs and the US representative on the board of the World Bank.

You can see for yourself the amazing early rise Martin had before he became Federal Reserve Board chairman in 1951; let's look closer at what came his way after leaving the helm of the FED in 1970. For the second time in his career, Martin, remember a Presbyterian not a Jew, was on the committee to reorganize the New York Stock Exchange, but this time as the chairman of the reorganization committee! It does take a PILGRIMS SOCIETY MEMBER to reorganize the New York Stock Exchange! The Pilgrims Society inner circle placed Martin on such important boards as American Express; Caterpillar Tractor; Dow Jones & Company; IBM; United States Steel Corporation; Big Pharma titan Eli Lilly & Company; General Foods and Royal Dutch Petroleum, probably at that time one of the planet's five biggest industrials. Plus, an adviser to Riggs National Bank in D.C.; and a trustee of Yale University; a trustee of Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore; a trustee of the Foreign Service Educational Foundation and member of the President's Soviet Protocol Committee! After leaving the FED, Martin was propelled up into the financial exosphere while what of Bernanke and Yellen? Oh, research fellows at Brookings Institution scheming plans to further Pilgrims Society objectives of reducing American's living standards. Any of you owe AMEX money? ---

“The bank was known for handling the personal financial affairs of many U.S. Presidents and many embassies in Washington, D.C. Twenty-three U.S. Presidents or their families banked at Riggs. The bank billed itself as "the most important bank in the most important city in the world.”

NYC branch---

Riggs National Bank traced to a brokerage opened back in 1836 by William W. Corcoran, a Mason (note---not a Rothschild bank!) Now in The Pilgrims NYC 2014 roster, the most recent roster known to reach the hands of outsiders, we discover from this same Corcoran family---

Corcoran, Carole A

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/William_Wilson_Corcoran---

“In 1845, it purchased the former Second Bank of the United States building located on 15th Street at New York Avenue. In spring 1847, the Corcoran and Riggs sold to investors at home and abroad the bulk of two issues of the U.S. Treasury Mexican War bonds; Corcoran's earnings were $1 million. In 1854, Corcoran retired from Corcoran and Riggs to focus on his investments in real estate, land grants, armaments, railroads, as well as pursue pleasure and philanthropic endeavors.”

For “land grants” read “bribed legislative land giveaways to railroads.” W.W. Corcoran’s father in law was the Naval officer who suppressed the Barbary pirates in 1812.

In 2014, the Corcoran Gallery of Art merged into the National Gallery of Art. The Corcoran line intersected with the Livingstons, the number one USA Pilgrims Society dynasty in terms of genealogical links to other fantastic dynasties.

Now, what of Carole A. Corcoran in The Pilgrims 2014 roster?
<https://www.crisisgroup.org/who-we-are/people/carole-corcoran>

Carole Corcoran joined Crisis Group as General Counsel and Director of Special Projects when she opened its New York office in 2001 after serving as pro bono Of-Counsel since 1997. As a General Counsel and Corporate Secretary, she manages and oversees all legal and governance issues regarding Crisis Group's global operations. .

“WITCH!”

No mention of Corcoran's Pilgrims membership; just the CFR outer ring she's also a member of! She's been involved with two major Japanese high finance houses, Daiwa and Sanwa and the old line Seward family of Secretary of State William Seward, who made the Alaska Purchase from Russia in 1867! After this engaging digression, to finish with Martin's credentials---having been a trustee of not one but two world famous universities---

According to the Herald Journal of Syracuse, New York, July 29, 1998, Martin also became a trustee of the prestigious National Geographic Society---

Mega diplomat David Bruce, descendant of Robert The Bruce of Scotland, had opium dealers in his ancestral lineage! David also married Ailsa Mellon, daughter of Pilgrims Society executive committee member Andrew Mellon, who dealt bloody noses to the Rockefellers in oil with Gulf Oil and to the J.P. Morgan interests in U.S. Steel with Union-Sharon Steel! As Treasury Secretary, Mellon cheated USA silver miners out of $14 million due them under the terms of the Pittman Act of 1918, but was criminally upheld by the Supreme Court (details in <http://silverstealers.net/tss.html>). A word should be said about Cynthia Davis, Martin's wife. She was the daughter of Dwight Davis (1879-1945) who was a 1904 Olympic Games participant in tennis

“He served as President of the United States Lawn Tennis Association (1923) and had an impressive political career, serving as Secretary of War as a member of President Calvin Coolidge's cabinet (1925-29). He then became governor-general of the Philippines under President Herbert Hoover (1929-32).”

Dwight Davis originated and endowed the Davis Cup in tennis. Now sponsored by another connected megabanking giant--- megamillionaire Senator Truman Newberry cleared by a Grand Jury (Pilgrims Society) was a major organizer in 1919---

Notice Martin senior's daughter Alice married Roger Makins, who was British Ambassador to America (1953-1956) and a member of The Pilgrims Society! Makins later received the title Baron Sherfield from Queen Elizabeth II, sponsor of The Pilgrims Society. According to the 1969 "International Year Book and Statesmen's Who's Who" published by Burke's Peerage in London, page 773, Baron Sherfield as of 1969 was chairman of Ship Mortgage Finance Company; chairman of Industrial & Commercial Finance Corporation; chairman of Technical Development Capital; director of Estate Duties Investment Trust; Hill, Samuel & Company (important merchant bank involved in silver related affairs); chairman, Imperial College of Science and Technology; trustee of Kennedy Memorial Trust; and ex chairman, United Kingdom Atomic Energy Authority. Baron Sherfield---

Next in the scan notice Davis married his second wife, Pauline Sabin (1887-1955). Guess who she turned out to be! Right! Pauline Morton Sabin, renamed Pauline Davis, was a major figure in Republican women's circles (same "Who's Who" volume, see page 2253). Pauline's first marriage was to Charles Hamilton Sabin (Pilgrims Society) on December 28, 1916; she too was Episcopalian. Sabin was Episcopalian ("Who's Who In America" 1928-1929, page 1821) and on boards including Guaranty Trust of New York; Mechanics and Metals National Bank (that's a fascinating one); International Mercantile Marine; Intercontinental Rubber; Shell Union Oil; Inspiration Consolidated Copper; Missouri Pacific Railroad; National Surety Company; Cuba Cane Sugar; Discount Corporation of New York; and Chase Securities. Charles Sabin was a member of the anti-monetary silver Bankers Club in Wall Street and the Racquet and Tennis Club! Pilgrims Society member William McChesney Martin Jr., longest term holding chairman of the board of governors of the infamous Federal Reserve System, had Pilgrims Society members lurking in his sinister background years before becoming a member himself! It's also possible Charles Hamilton Sabin may have had lineage back to Treasury Secretary Alexander Hamilton, who favored a central bank and having a national debt! Alexander Hamilton married Elizabeth Schuyler, of the Schuyler (pronounced "scholar") family who I listed as one of several dozen dynastic families behind the New York megabanks, and consequently, behind the Federal Reserve! Does the Sabin Vaccine Foundation have something to do with C.H. Sabin? Possibly; but Morrison (Pilgrims London) of The Trinity Group in London is connected to Sabin Europe!

Now to wrap this up, a flashback on Martin--- https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/William_McChesney_Martin ---

“William McChesney Martin Jr. was born to William McChesney Martin Sr. and Rebecca Woods. Martin's connection to the Federal Reserve was forged through his family heritage. In 1913, Martin's father was summoned by President Woodrow Wilson and Senator Carter Glass to help write the Federal Reserve Act that would establish the Federal Reserve System on December 23 that same year. His father later served as governor and then president of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis.”

“Martin was a graduate of Yale University, where his formal education was in English and Latin rather than finance. However, he still maintained an intense interest in business through his father. His first job after graduation was at the St. Louis brokerage firm of A. G. Edwards & Sons, where he became a full partner after only two years. From there, Martin's rapid rise in the financial world landed him in 1931 a seat on the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE), just two years after the Wall Street Crash of 1929 at the outset of the Great Depression. Martin pursued graduate study in Economics at Columbia University from 1931 to 1937; however, he did not receive a degree. During the early part of that decade, Martin's work towards increasing regulation of the stock market led to his election to the NYSE's board of governors in 1935. There, he worked with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) to reestablish confidence in the stock market and prevent future crashes. He eventually became president of the New York Stock Exchange at age 31, leading newspapers to label him the "boy wonder of Wall Street." Like his tenure as governor on the exchange, Martin's presidency focused on cooperating with the SEC to increase regulation of the exchange."

"During World War II he was drafted into the United States Army as a private. There he supervised the disposal of raw materials on the Munitions Allocation Board. He was also a liaison between the Army and Congress and the supervisor of the lend-lease program with the Soviet Union. Harry S. Truman, a fellow Democrat, appointed Martin head of the Export-Import Bank, which he operated for three years (1946-1949). It was at this institution that he was publicly viewed as a "hard banker". He insisted that loans be sound, secure investments; on that principle he opposed the State Department on multiple occasions for making loans that he saw as being politically motivated. On those grounds he would not permit the Export-Import Bank to be used as a fund for international relief.”

Truman was a 33rd degree Mason and was Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Missouri with the all seeing eye symbolism

<https://www.trumanlibrary.org/places/gv36.htm> ---

As of this moment and for some years before, the top Mason in America is Matthew Dupee, a member of The Pilgrims Society!

<https://biography.yourdictionary.com/william-mcchesney-martin-jr> ---

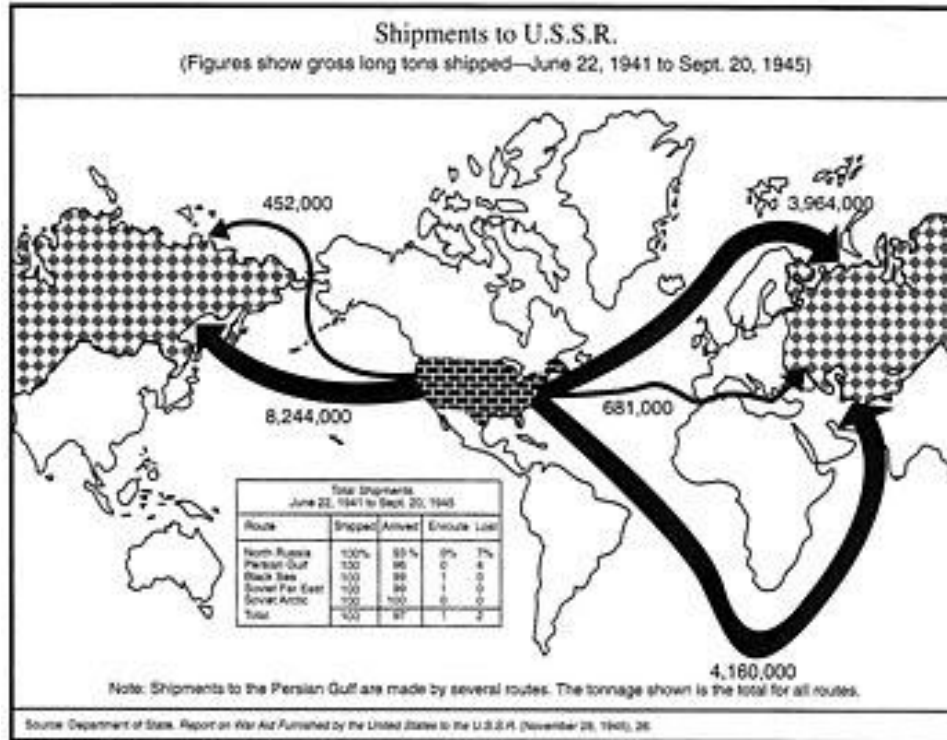

“Martin earned the confidence of presidents and financiers. Eisenhower, with Senate approval, renamed him chairman in 1955 and to a full four year term in 1956. He was again named chairman in 1959, 1963, and 1967. In December 1965, concerned over inflation from the booming economy and domestic and Vietnam War expenditures, Martin increased the discount (interest) rate and tightened the money supply against President Johnson's wishes. Despite their differences, Johnson reappointed him chairman because Martin was a symbol of sound public finance.”

The Washington Post, July 29, 1998 said in Martin’s obituary (absolutely nothing on his Pilgrims membership) ---

“He did believe passionately in the Federal Reserve System, which he called America's greatest contribution to the science of government. Martin was a specialist in money matters and finance for his entire professional career. In 1938, at age 31, he became the first salaried president of the New York Stock Exchange. He served in the Army during World War II, and his duties there involved supervision of the Russian aspect of the Lend-Lease program, in which U.S. goods and equipment were made available to the Allies. One panel recommended that the New York Stock Exchange have a salaried president. In 1938, with the support of the reformers, Martin was elected to that position from a list that included the names of 200 of New York's most prominent bankers, educators, businessmen and lawyers. Mr. Martin was commissioned an officer in February 1942. His military duties included supervision of the disposal of raw materials for the Munitions Allocation Board, liaison between the Army and Congress and supervision of the Russian Lend-Lease. He did have some legendary disputes with his congressional antagonist, House Banking and Currency Committee Chairman Wright Patman (D-Tx.), who contended that Mr. Martin's monetary policies had cost U.S. consumers "millions of dollars in excess interest charges."

Wright Patman, an antagonist of the big banks, regardless was an ally of the grotesque Silver Users Association!

Lend-Lease did so much to build Russia into the “enemy” it is today, which was for decades The Pilgrims objective, funding the 1917 Red revolution; selling Bolshevik Bonds in the 1920s to The Pilgrims Society network of dynastic families via Chase National Bank (Albert Henry Wiggin, Pilgrims) and Equitable Trust (Alvin Williams Krech, Pilgrims) who together were on over 100 boards. The American Russian Chamber of Commerce with Pilgrims member Charles P. Coleman of the Worthington interests and many other entities literally made Russia in the USA! Russian and Chinese war machines of today were made in America and the British Commonwealth/Empire! World War Two didn’t get the job done for a British world government so; a third World War is being brewed!

SUPPLEMENT ON SILVER HALF DOLLARS IN THE 60S

Just a few scanned excerpts from Kiplinger's Personal Finance magazine "Changing Times" of January 1960, pages 33-34---

Who's hiding all the half-dollars?

SINCE 1948 the mint has stamped out more than 900,000,000 50-cent pieces, about four each for all of us. Most of them, it seems, have gone into hiding.

Perhaps 500,000,000 bearing the image of President Kennedy rest in keepsake drawers. But even those imprinted with the likeness of old Ben Franklin are rarely encountered in certain areas.

433,460,212 Kennedy half dollars were minted
Combined at Denver and Philadelphia in 1964
Including proofs!

The mystery of the vanishing halves began in 1961 and deepened last year after the Treasury started making those “sandwich” quarters and dimes, with a copper-colored pinstripe around the edge.

The half-dollar looks suspiciously like a new prisoner of silver hoarders, joining in monetary limbo some 481,000,000 silver dollars and millions of dollars in silver certificates.

Why this surging interest in silver? Is it really worth the time and effort many people are spending to accumulate coins and silver certificates, either for their presumed value as collectors' items or for their trade-in value as pure silver if the price goes up?

People knew silver is much scarcer than Copper and base metals. Why should
It be strange they wanted to grab
Silver coins for savings? They Weren't being "obedient!"

The Treasury has it

LOOK AT the supply of and demand for silver
—the things that really determine how much it is worth.

By far the largest domestic supply of silver is in the U.S. Treasury, which has authority to buy and store silver, order its use in coins or sell bullion to commercial customers. Yet it must keep sufficient silver to back up millions of dollars in silver certificates (bills that entitle the holder to a specified amount of silver) still circulating or in the hands of silver savers.

As a boy of 12 I was excited to get a silver
Certificate; but even then I realized it
Needed to be exchanged for hard stuff.

Although no such certificates have been issued since 1964, the government must back up each unredeemed dollar with 371.25 grains of silver, the amount contained in a silver dollar. Last September the Treasury had on hand nearly 3,000,000 silver dollars to stand behind unredeemed certificates. Since there were $586,000,000 in silver certificates out at the time, it had to make up the difference by stocking bullion or crystals (the Treasury isn't giving out any scarce silver dollars now).

This was a ripoff! It was supposed to be Silver dollars!

SILVER GRAINS. The common dollar bill with its promise to pay in silver metal seems destined gradually to disappear.

In addition, the Treasury must stock enough silver for its coinage. This need has been reduced because only one coin being minted now contains silver—the new Kennedy half, and even this has been cut to 40% silver.

Quarters and dimes minted today contain no silver mainly because industrial users have convinced the government that silver is a “commodity” and needed more for photo film, electronics, silverware and jewelry than for coins.

Industrial users yes; megabankers more so!

The price of silver

THE HOPE of the savers of silver certificates and coin hoarders is, of course, that the price of silver will rise and make their haul worth more as a metal than as spendable coins.

How would this work? Today, the Treasury's price for silver is $1.29-plus an ounce. By making it available at this figure, the Treasury, in effect, controls the price. But if the Treasury should get out of the silver business, the price would probably go up. When the Treasury stopped selling bullion in 1961 for 91 cents an ounce, for example, the price in the free market began rising. It eventually reached $1.29, the price today.

Since government official price capping ended COMEX began controlling the price, with denials.

This figure is especially important. Here's why: By law each silver dollar contains about three-quarters of an ounce (or 371.25 grains) of silver. This is what you could get in actual silver if you turned in a one-dollar silver certificate.

The Coinage Act of 1792 specifies 371.25.

With the market price of silver at $1.29 an ounce, there is just about a dollar's worth of metal in a silver dollar. But if the price should go above that, people might find it worthwhile to melt down silver cartwheels of no coin-collection value for their resale value as silver.

Such an increase could make the silver dollar worth more as meltable silver, but not the older halves or silver quarters and dimes. For these coins to be worth more than their face value, the price of silver would have to exceed $1.38 plus the 2- to 4-cent cost of melting. This is because they contain less silver in relation to their face value than a dollar does.

Salinas Price advocates a silver coin for his Country of Mexico not having a nominal Face value stamped on it.

The mystery of the vanishing halves becomes more perplexing when you note that few, if any, of the more than 106,000,000 reduced-silver Kennedy halves minted as of September

I feel that a higher percent of 40% Kennedys have Been smelted for metal than the 90% 1964's; in Any case, 90% is much better for emergency Barter money and general investing.

1966 are circulating. If people have been squirreling them away as collector's items, they're probably wasting their time. Millions of the new Kennedy half-dollars have been minted and millions more will be; they hardly qualify as rarities.

For some years a tactic has been to buy half Dollar rolls from banks for face value and Sell 40% halves for silver profits. This Stream has almost entirely gone.

The chance of a profit from their silver value is remote. They are 60% copper and 40% silver. The precious-metal content is just .148 ounce. So the price of silver would have to soar to $3.38 an ounce for these new halves to contain 50 cents' worth of silver. This is viewed as "most unlikely in the foreseeable future," by Handy & Harman, a large silver fabricator and refiner. The Silver Users Association, which keeps an eye on the silver market for industrial clients, expects a stable price for at least several years.

Can you make a mint?

TODAY, if you took a silver certificate to the government's assay office in New York or San Francisco, you would receive a manila envelop containing .77 ounce, about two heaping teaspoons, of a glistening, coarse sugarlike substance—silver in crystal form. You could sell it for $1 at the present price of $1.29 an ounce. Whether it will bring more someday and how much more are questions tantalizing silver savers.

Many complained about the grain silver Similar to jewelers casting shot when They were really due silver dollars!

Alas, every silver lining has its cloud. If you are stashing away coins or certificates with the idea of a profit, consider these points:

► Some experts believe that for any chance of a profit by melting halves, quarters or dimes, the price would have to reach a point between $1.50 and $1.75 an ounce. Even if this happened in a few years, you wouldn't make much more than you would with an ordinary savings account, and perhaps not as much.

Silver longs have been punished for decades
By TPTB holding silver low with a price cap.

► As long as the supply can meet the demand, the price will probably not go up. And the supply, theoretically at least, has been increased by the changeover to silverless coins.

► If the price should go up, the Treasury has the authority to prohibit coin melting, and you might end up having to break the law to make a profit. Moreover, Congress could change the rules on redeeming silver certificates.

► Finally, you would have to be pretty alert to cash in on a silver hoard: An attractive silver price might suddenly bring out so much silver that the price would go right back down.

They did ban coin melts; arrests took place; but The Silver Users Association lobbied to

Have the ban lifted and had its way!

"The most powerful international society on earth, the "Pilgrims," is so wrapped in silence that few Americans know even of its existence since 1903."

MY DEEPEST APOLOGIES!

Gee, I'm sorry I can't deliver any interesting content for interviews with USA Watchdog, SGT Report, Wall Street for Main Street, Daily Coin, Reluctant Preppers, World Alternative Media, Solari Report, Financial Survival Network, X22 Report, Dark Journalist, Silver Doctors Elijah Johnson, Rogue Money, Future Money Trends, Sarah Westall, Dave Janda, Peak

Prosperity, Palisade Radio and so forth. Because to them “interesting content” evidently means “what do you have to market for purchase price to our audiences?” If asked, they all insist they don’t get paid for these obvious sales and marketing promotions. Do you believe interviewers all do this for free? How many advertising businesses coast to coast provide free advertising for people selling things, then they ask the public to subsidize them by sending in donations? So they can provide free marketing services to people trying to sell things to them? You can’t “fight globalism” by misleading audiences as to financial relationships between hosts and interview guests! That’s my opinion as to what’s taking place. If you can see past blind personality worship of puffed up blowhards whose reason for being seems to be accessing your finances, what does this arena look like to you? The interviewers are helping guests draw money from audiences, and in return for that, the guests never compensate the hosts for these promotions? Sure! And you also know lots of hospitals that just never bill anyone! If you want to save $997, you can get all free resource stock picks in precious metals at 321 Gold! Notice the interviewers hardly ever hold guests to account for bad price and timing forecasts (“silver will never trade under $30 again,” fall 2012, still as this is released in October 2018, wrong since mid-April 2013!) More recently we are told “silver will be $100 in 2018” and then he added “or 2019” and if 2019, it could be on the final trading day and the “guru” would still be right. What a limp, wilted and hollow way to eventually be right.

How much ability does it take to cast a net over an increasingly extensive span of time?

The very tediously overused word “caveat” is a psychological trigger switch buzzword that allows a “silver guru” to say he’s nearly never been wrong. “Silver will advance, unless it declines,” that’s a forecast? There is the suggestion that one gets recognition as an “expert” if he/she is paying interviewers for promotional interviews. We haven’t arrived yet at anyone admitting payments are happening; it sure looks like it; smells like it too. He’s had The Morgan Report You Tube channel for around five years; I was never once invited on, despite having had at his regular site the world’s biggest archive of silver history which I did all for free (I demanded my archive be taken down last September) due to I don’t care for this claim of “we aren’t paying to get interviews,” not credible. I populated his site with 1,940,000 words of free research, he came often to a particular large city; knew I was local to it; never ONCE asked to rendezvous with me. Most would have disassociated from him years sooner. But he’s in the Circle of Peers and deemed a guru and an expert. How about honesty Dave? Tell us how a person marketing something can get hundreds of free interviews! More likely they’re all paid sessions; free is not believable. Dozens of interviewers and their guests are party to a direct misrepresentation to their subscribers; unless the interviewers are doing it for free; again, not realistic.

Stop tossing money for anyone's money grubbing subscriptions! They're only so many mosquitoes trying to draw blood from you. I was in on a private placement with major SSRI in 2001, without any newsletter subscription! If you've a local metals dealer, do business there to help him stay in business as it could become more RISKY to ship PM's! At least stay with top rated dealers like CMI in Phoenix.

It isn't cool to be a free public service information provider when all the interviewers and guests are there to siphon money from their bamboozled audiences mesmerized by misplaced hero worship of personalities getting timing forecasts wrong for tedious years on end. We'd appreciate it if they'd just admit those are paid promotions. Reading remarks at Silver Doctors from the rank and file and on You Tube, people are catching on--the interviewers and their merchandising guests are all out to bleed off as much income as possible from audiences whose minds they've successfully massaged for years. These nasty below the belt tricks of denying guests pay for their wares being boosted are losing traction however. This October 2018 item below suggests progress so people who donate will realize they're subsidizing people selling things to them---notice lower right hand corner and lower left! "Includes paid promotion" OKAY! This is VERY NEW and only came by way of official and unofficial inquiries and pressure from a small committee including me and a You Tube comment poster. Zang reps for a gold numismatic coin dealer. Does anyone seriously believe she gets interviews for ITM Trading all for free? How much inter-dealer trading goes on between ITM and Silver Doctors? No objection to inter-dealer trading! But would she be covered at SD without business relationship? Not likely! ITM refused response to my inquiry; I received torrid denial from Miles Franklin that money was paid to have Andy Hoffman boosted, regardless that he had at least 62 interviews on this channel---how many businesses do you know who are so GD smart they can get so much free advertising? I reject the denials of interviewers and guest personalities! This isn't human nature to provide free advertising to people marketing things! True, the notice at left could refer to pop up ads, but it may also start someone wondering, "Is the entire session really just a paid ad," it's inexperienced and unreasonably trusting to believe otherwise.

THE SYSTEM DIED. THE RESET IS COMING. -- Lynette Zang

Gold numismatics are remarkably bad instruments if needed for emergency barter money. Common date silver dimes are best and Mercury dimes are tops as no date check is needed; 1940-1945 issues are easiest to come by and have the least wear. I am happy to be swimming in dimes! Except that I have to cross state line to the west where they're discreetly stored, New Mexico being more respectful of private property rights. Texas, dominated by Republicans, acts like Democrats on property rights! Still in some ways it's OK to reside on a street same as members of three different police agencies.

Start my own channel? My writing efforts take up too much time after my other necessities. Besides, these operators already have established presence and could have fast forwarded info to the public; it would take years to build a channel. If something isn't offered for purchase to viewers, the subject content can't possibly be of any interest! The interviewer's record of guests defines that this is their viewpoint! So then I must assume God will severely chastise me for not being after the finances of anyone who reads my research pieces! What a disgrace to make info available on an all free basis! Plus I sure haven't revealed any "Hidden Secrets of Money," huh? He leaves people in the kid's end of the pool.

No You Tube interviews (for which I'd earn zero income) and no linking of these unique research pieces, for two reasons 1) sites are very reluctant to allow discussion of specific persons involved in major scale organized conspiracies and 2) no one is accepted into the Circle of Peers in the precious metals and alt news community if they aren't offering something for purchase to the public. In September 2018 I broke with Mister Morgan and had my content removed after 17 years of association. His perennially bad silver price predictions have made him the laughingstock of many understandably cynical investors.

Regardless as long as he can pay You Tube interview hosts like Silver Doctors, Reluctant Preppers, USA Watchdog, Palisade Radio, SGT Report and others for promotional sessions, he'll continue to be in their parlance a "returning guest." Marketing newsletter subscriptions appears to be virtually his sole reason for existing. Note that all "returning guests" are all peddling things for purchase, despite that they and their interviewers all deny any payments made for these business boosting interviews. Interviewers do a magnificent job of massaging small intellects into hero worshipping characters like Lynette Zang, Catherine Austin Fitts, Gerald Celente, Rob Kirby, Harley Schlanger, Michael Pento, Jim Willie and the rest of the heel nipping pack of merchandisers. A free info provider like me does NOT fit into these circles!

Ted has never understood the reason monetary metals are price suppressed is that rising prices discredit the Federal Reserve dollar. He also doesn't see there's a chance Chase got silver the same reason the Treasury once got so much more than Chase has now---to dump some here and there to manage prices for years to come, while devious tricks like cryptos draw trend investors away from PM. APMEX is a much bigger dealer than SD. Look at APMEX one oz silver offerings. Does that look like a shortage to you? It's all about we have inventory and want to turn it. Sure silver will run away someday but SD has had so many schemers like figures in The House of Wax as favorites who've made lousy predictions (Jim Willie, Morgan, Polny etc) and it's all about them peddling paid newsletter subscriptions and SD turning metal. If America is willing to risk war with Russia, China, Iran, North Korea, why wouldn't they have Chase acquire silver for dumping to maintain this near forever price cap? Protecting the Federal Reserve against a monetary competitor may be more important to Morgan Chase than profiting by becoming long silver! Buy silver, but realize you may have to will it to someone else who'll finally benefit.

Sorry, but it could be this way. I hope sooner.
